Peacock Shows Interest In Consolidation Study

"I believe we owe it to our constituency to explore the matter of consolidation," F. Edward Peacock, president of Itasca Dist. 10 school board said at Wednesday's meeting.

The question of consolidation came up for discussion as the result of two previous meetings between members of the Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville school districts.

Representatives from these districts had invited their counterparts from Itasca and Medinah, but neither of these districts had made any positive response.

"It's a difficult thing to evaluate in dollars and cents," Peacock continued. "We don't know whether money can be saved through consolidation or whether money can be obtained to offset any loss."

"THE CONSTITUTIONAL convention

will certainly have an effect also. No one knows what they will decide on state aid. At present, state aid favors consolidation into unit districts."

Mrs. Mary C. Hodgkin, secretary of the school board, Raymond Benson, a board member and Peacock were selected to represent Dist. 10 in any further consolidation discussions.

"I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," Peacock said.

In other board action Wednesday evening three new contracts were accepted. They include Mrs. Marlene Zorn, who will teach second grade at the Watlington School, Mrs. Lynda Roschke, who will teach art throughout the district, and William McMullen, who will be guidance counselor for the district.

"THIS IS THE first year we will have a full time guidance counselor," Arnold Rusche, superintendent of the district said. "He will be working with students throughout the district who are having academic difficulties."

The building committee reported that all the major summer projects, including painting, had been completed.

The board also purchased a three foot by 60 foot roll of commercial matting for district school entrances.

"THERE ARE TWO sides to consolidation just as in everything else," Peacock said. "Taxpayers are interested in saving money and on that argument alone I believe we should look into consolidation. But the only way you can accurately measure the financial status of the five individual districts is by past performance, which is some cases has not been on a par throughout the five districts.

"In our case we have not had tax anticipation warrants for at least the past 12 years, while some of the other districts have. How do you reconcile this? This is just one of the facets of the question of consolidation that will have to be mullied over."

Davis To Go To Meeting

Medinah School Dist. 11 which has expressed an interest in consolidation but not a willingness to participate in any efforts right now, plans to attend the next meeting concerning the matter in October.

"I planned to attend the August meeting but I couldn't make it," Supt. Richard C. Davis said.

"We have always been interested in consolidation possibilities," Davis added. "Neither Itasca nor Medinah really needs to consolidate."

Roselle and Bloomingdale who have been pushing the issue are broke according to Davis. "We are just getting developers interested."

Davis went on to explain that the five per cent indebtedness was a major factor impeding consolidation, especially between high school and elementary districts.

As districts combine the bonding power decreases because the evaluation is taxed only once. Unless the indebtedness limit is raised the financial situation of the schools will be increasingly critical.

REVERSAL OF previous disinterest in consolidation talks, on the part of School Dist. 10 resulted when F. Edward Peacock, Itasca school board member, advocated exploration of the idea. "I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," he said.

Itasca Gets Lower Bid

by SYD JAMIESON

An apparent low bid for installation of aeration equipment in the new lagoon of Itasca's expanded sewage treatment plant was submitted by W. Wanzenberg & Co. of Schiller Park. It was announced this week by Richard Koehler, consulting engineer.

Wanzenberg's bid, which was received Aug. 16 was $68,150, lower than a previous bid by Albert T. Wigert last March. Wigert is the contractor on the sewage treatment plant project.

According to Koehler, work on the aeration can start 90 days after a letter to proceed is issued and, following approval by the Illinois Sanitary Water Board and the federal government.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS elected to install the equipment after being advised by the state that such work would be required by 1972.

In other business during the village board meeting Tuesday night, trustees heard a favorable recommendation by its planning commission to the planned development "concept" for 431 apartment units proposed by Avtech, Inc.

The recommendation was presented by Charles Hodgkin, plan commission chairman.

Hodgkin told board members, "Based on the information presented, we recommend to the village board that this concept of a planned development with multifamily dwellings and open space with a lake be approved."

"HOWEVER," Hodgkin explained, "because of the pressure of time and an immediate decision, many things need to be studied more carefully."

He suggested to board members that prior to signing of Avtech's pre-annexation agreement, "a detailed investigation be made" in various areas.

Among these were adequacy of police and fire protection, street and traffic flow, sewer and water availability, engineering studies and definite time commitments for the proposed three-year building program.

Another area for consideration by the trustees is the ability of Avtech to finance the $14 million project.

"WE WILL BE happy to assist the board in any of these areas of investigation which may be of help to you," Hodgkin reported.

He said the commission's favorable recommendation to the planned development concept was based on the following:

—Locate the project in an outlying area.

—A buffer area of light manufacturing.

—The five-story buildings would be placed on a low portion of the land around the lake.

—Avtech would own and keep title to the development.

—It would be financed by private funds and no federal money would be used.

—Local people involved with Avtech should have real interest in this project.

BOARD MEMBERS appeared receptive to the commission's recommendations and indicated some ground work had already begun on some of the areas suggested for consideration by the commission.

They promised Hodgkin the commission would get "another look" at the pre-annexation agreement after Lawrence C. Traeger Jr., village attorney, has reviewed the proposal.

The commission will also offer recommendations once the preliminary plat has been submitted by Avtech.

Commission member Paul Pella informed the trustees "we want to make certain they carry their fair share. We know what we can give them; we want assets, not liabilities."

Rounding out the meeting agenda, board members mulled over a tree planting program for the apartment complex on Irving Park Road near Bloomingdale Road. A portion of some $5,500 in funds received by the village under a performance bond for public improvements claimed through default, will be used in the beautification program.

Attorney Seeks Evidence

Court action to get statements of evidence and documents from three of four Roselle village officials named in a suit against the village is being sought this week by an attorney for a group of Town Acres and other residents fighting sidewalks.

John Cummins, of the Samuel Young law firm of Chicago, told the Register Wednesday he was pushing to speed the suit to trial, if indeed a trial is to come. Alternative solutions like a legal summary judgment by a judge of what the law actually is could avoid an actual court trial, he said.

DISPOSITIONS, oral statements under oath before a court reporter, are being sought from Village Clerk Mrs. Mildred Winkler, Building Inspector William Manns and Treasurer Carl Lindquist. The court will have to order such dispositions given before the 30-day response-to-summons period expires in more than two weeks.

Cummins also told the Register he is seeking a discovery to force the officials to allow him to examine all pertinent records concerning sidewalk bonds, bond money and other important records.

He said Village Pres. Robert Frantz probably will not be asked to give a disposition because all the other three officials should have all the necessary documents he wants. If they don't, Frantz will be asked to produce the missing documents.

RECORDS OF WHO has posted sidewalk bonds, where they live, what money has been collected, what areas are affected and who is living under temporary occupancy permits will be sought. Temporary permits are given when a resident doesn't put in sidewalks.

A suit by several Town Acres residents including Mel Marvin, 218 E. Thorndale, was filed less than two weeks ago by Cummins against the village to test the legality of the sidewalk program and the way the village has enforced its own ordinances.

A temporary injunction to prevent the village from enforcing the sidewalk ordinance, issuing sidewalk permits and receiving sidewalk bond money may be sought next month, if it is warranted, Cummins said.

"We would have to show sufficient evidence to the court before such an injunction would be granted," he said, "and the injunction need not follow the gathering of dispositions. We could get one tomorrow if we wanted one and could prove a need."

THE SUIT IS backed by a group or committee called VOICE from Town Acres homeowners. It has organized opposition to the sidewalk program because of the rural atmosphere there among other reasons.

If the legal action is successful, DuPage County courts would declare provisions in certain village ordinances invalid and nonenforceable, thus stopping sidewalk installation at least in certain areas. The courts could also force the village to pay back all sidewalk bonds collected to date.

The officials are named in their official capacity only, not as individuals: Frantz because he is responsible for executing ordinances; Mrs. Winkler because she collects bond money; Manns because he inspects the work, and Lindquist because he handles the bond money funds.

THE SUIT QUESTIONS the legality of the village requirements of a sidewalk bond from building contractors prior to occupancy by resident homeowners. It also questions the legality of a village board action in 1967 which repealed a 10-year old ordinance which granted exemption to certain forested areas from sidewalks.

Certain streets or parts of streets were exempted as forested land from sidewalks by the 1967 ordinance. Some of the streets exempted were Town Acres Lane, East Thorndale, Crestwood Drive, Picton Road, Oak Street, Rosedale, North Prospect Street and others.

CUMMINS SAID that since the village abandoned the rights to sidewalk installation, it abandoned the property in effect. When a public agency abandons property, it goes to adjacent landowners, he said. If the village wants to put in sidewalks along the former right of way, then it must compensate the new owners of the once village property.

VOICE is fighting sidewalks more on the northern and extreme southern and western sections of the village while a group called the Roselle Better Government Association is starting to fight sidewalks in the central areas and throughout the rest of the village.

Scout Troops 60, 65 To Hold Paper Drive

Wood Dale Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 will hold a paper drive from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday. Residents are requested to place papers at the edge of the road by the driveway. Anyone wishing assistance is also requested to place a white rag on their mailbox. All money from paper drives goes into the operation of the Boy Scout troops.

50 Expected At Water Show

More than 50 swimmers and acrobats will perform in the 11th annual Bensenville Water Show tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the pool located on Church and Main streets.

The theme of this year's show is "The Circus" and the ringleader will be Park Commissioner Bill Berde. Student directors Denise Palmer and Kathy Durlak will perform a synchronized swim duet and soloist Jack Whitlow will demonstrate her tumbling skills.

Participants in the show have been practicing since the middle of July, according to one pool supervisor, and they will present 13 acts of swimming, diving, tumbling and dancing.

The United States Weather Bureau has promised nice weather both tonight and tomorrow night with "less than five per cent chance of precipitation." In case their prediction should fail, however, alternate rain dates for the show have been set at Aug. 30 and 31.

Review Little Theater

With just enough members for a quorum, the Dist. 100 Board of Education spent three hours Tuesday discussing the Little Theater Project, the matter of Wood

Dale's annexation of the future high school site and the question of joining Dist. 2 in a consolidation study.

Member Morton Wright served as president pro tem in the absence of Pres. James DiOrto. Members Martin Romme and Will Davidson were also missing from the meeting.

The board discussed at length the possibility of continuing plans for improvements of the Little Theater which were begun last spring. Wright had brought the subject up at the last board meeting, noting then that the board had never directed the administration to shelve the project.

SUPT. MARTIN ZUCKERMAN agreed Tuesday that he had received no such direction from the board and added, "Since the original funds for the project were depleted, I suggested to Ken Carroll (business manager) that we hold the line on the project."

Zuckerman continued, "Even if we did receive a favorable bid on the project, we have no present plan to finance it."

"I had understood," he said, "that it was not the intention of the board to get involved in projects not accounted for in the budget."

The superintendent reported that an estimated $9,000 would be needed before drawings of the project could be completed. This figure, he said, represented only about 8 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

Attention was focused on the inadequacies of the little theater earlier this year when Fenton dramatists brought back a first place win for their production of "The Romantics," despite poor facilities in the literally "little" theater.

WRIGHT SAID HE would like to study the cost figures before taking a vote on the matter. The board concurred and the item was tabled until the next board meeting.

In other business, Zuckerman told the board that the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board is studying "the advantages and disadvantages of the current dual district arrangement," and asked if the Dist. 100 board wished to cooperate in the study.

The matter was tabled until the next meeting when Zuckerman said a representative of the Dist. 2 board would be present to report progress of the study.

Business manager Kenneth Carroll also reported that the Wood Dale zoning commission has voted to move ahead on annexation of property designated as a future high school site.

Carroll said a pre-annexation agreement has been drawn which guarantees the school district adequate sewer and water facilities and the waiving of all customary annexation fees.

The 40-plus acres of land are located north of the Wood Dale Junior High on Wood Dale Road. Carroll said Wood Dale's sudden interest in annexation of the property is linked to desired annexation of land to the east and north of the site.

ZUCKERMAN ALSO presented a report called "The Challenge of Educational Leadership" in which he called for the board to give "thought and discussion relating to far-reaching responsibilities of educational leadership." Zuckerman told the board, "We must look beyond the anarls, entanglements and pressures of today. We must together be concerned about the future."

The only board action Tuesday was acceptance of the minutes, bills and one resignation. The board also approved two teacher contracts.

Enrollment May Cause Strain in Dist. 88

Enrollment projections indicate that more than 9,000 students will attend the three Dist. 88 high schools this fall. The first full day of classes at York, Willowbrook, and Addison Trail high schools is Sept. 2.

When school opened last fall, the total enrollment in the district was 8,437. The increased enrollment this year will put an additional strain on facilities that are increasingly overcrowded, district officials say.

York is expected to have 3,257 students; Willowbrook, 3,378; and Addison Trail, 2,379.

To cope with the overcrowding, all three schools will go on a split-shift schedule. Only Willowbrook was on a split-shift schedule last year.

FOR 1969-70, the three schools' first shift will be from 7:35 a.m. to 2:35 p.m.; the second shift will be from 8:35 a.m. to 3:35 p.m. at Willowbrook and York and from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Addison Trail.

Last year, Willowbrook's 3,322 students attended classes on the same daily schedule. Last year York, which had 3,016 students, operated on a schedule from 8:05 a.m. to 3:05 p.m. Addison Trail, which had 1,975 students last year, operated on a schedule from 7:35 a.m. to 2:35 p.m.

In each of the three schools the students will be divided about equally between the two shifts.

The York first shift will be composed of those students who will be "walkers" living less than 1½ miles from school, plus all students based from the area north of the Chicago and North Western RR. The second shift at York will include all other bused students.

ATTENDING THE first shift at Willowbrook will be the walkers plus sophomores, juniors and seniors eligible for bus transportation in the area bounded by North Avenue, Grace Street, St. Charles Road and Ardmore Avenue. Willowbrook freshmen living in the area bounded by North Avenue on the north, Westmore to the C&NW tracks and the C&NW to St. Charles Road on the west, St. Charles Road on the south, and Ardmore Avenue on the east will also be first-shift students. The Willowbrook second shift will be composed of all other bused students.

The Addison Trail first shift will include the junior and senior walkers plus the bused students living north of Lake Street and east of Route 83. Addison Trail second-shift students will include the freshmen and sophomore walkers plus the bused students living south of Lake Street and west of Route 83.

Buses will run essentially the same routes as last year with two routes added to both the York and Addison Trail areas. Students will receive information on the routes when they pick up their bus passes.

Parochial students who can use Dist. 88 bus routes to their advantage will continue to do so, provided that they live over 1½ miles from their school of attendance.

"SINCE A BOND issue to provide additional facilities at the three high schools was defeated in March, 1968, overcrowding has become a serious problem in the Dist. 88 schools. This will be the first year that all three schools will be on split-shifts. If the overcrowding is not relieved in the near future, it is expected that completely separate double shifts at each of the schools will be necessary. Plans are now being formulated to present another bond issue to the voters so that the schools can be enlarged to meet the pressing space needs," school officials said.

"The split shifts won't give us more room," Supt. R. Bruce Allingham said, "but it will give us another period in the day in which to use the existing facilities."

"The increased enrollment is due, for the most part, to the fact that more and more of those grade school children in the district are suddenly coming of high school age," Allingham said.

"People sometimes would rather assume that those 'little guys' will never reach the high schools. It's easier that way." Continued new residential building, particularly in the Willowbrook and Addison Trail area, also account for the increase, he added.

THE DIST. 88 staff, including teachers, administrators, counselors, librarians and nurses, will total 468 this year, compared with 474 last year. Normally, the teaching staff would have been increased by approximately 30 teachers to handle the increased enrollment, Allingham indicated. However, the failure of two educational fund referenda in the past year and a half has forced the district to cut the educational program.

BGA Aids Citizens

by RICHARD BARTON

The Roselle Better Government Association (BGA) continues to fight for the little guy in and out of Roselle village limits.

It has been called a pressure group, a political term used describing a group which seeks to influence public policy, by Roselle Village Pres. Robert Prantz. The group feels being recognized is half the battle.

BGA objectives are to represent the average resident who can't or won't speak out individually against objectionable programs or campaigns by the village. Strength in number and purpose is the BGA backbone.

"Public officials who say they will pursue a program even though the little guy can't afford it, cause trouble," Alan Carlson, one of the BGA organizers, said Wednesday.

"FORCED installation of sidewalks through the 'do it or else' special assessment is forcing retired people and others into hardship. I've seen old folk out there hauling dirt around because they couldn't afford a sidewalk contractor. The mayor tells us, the neighbors should pitch in and do it for them. That is a good idea, but tax money which comes from all of us could pay for the sidewalks and save everyone grief."

He said the continuing de-beautification of the village is forcing out those people who moved to Roselle for its rural beauty. Those who move in after the concerned people leave, may not care what their surroundings look like and the village will be in worst shape, he said.

A large old-fashioned town meeting planned for Aug. 29 may have to be postponed one week due to the conflict with Labor Day weekend plans of most people. The BGA hopes to hold the meeting in a local school gym or playground.

THE MEETING'S purpose would be to air gripes about how the village is developing or other matters of concern. BGA membership growth is on a steady climb.

The next BGA meeting is 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Carlson's home, 42 E. Ardmore. There aren't any membership dues or obligation to join for those who attend.

WHAT'S THIS? Congressman John Erlenborn, R-14th District, may be wondering what House of Representatives hopefuls are stumping in his district, but it's actually all part of the 13th District race on the other side of the county line. This is David Roe, one of 11 GOP candidates for Donald Rumsfeld's former seat. The primary is Oct. 7, Roe was apparently seeking support from Cook commuters in Roselle.

Plan Still Lags

Coordinated planning in DuPage County is non-existent and may be for some time, as the resolution providing for a regional county planning commission is still being considered by committees and has not come before the board of supervisors for a vote.

Land, Money Gift Expected Last Night

The village of Wood Dale was expected to be the recipient of a $220,000 donation and six acres of land from developer Richard Fencel at last night's village council meeting.

Fencel was given an "ultimatum" by Councilman Dino Janis to fulfill his end of the agreement or the preannexation agreement between the village and his property would be nullified.

The agreement called for annexation to the village of Fencel's proposed 3,500 apartment units and the Brookwood Country Club, between Wood Dale and Prospect roads, in return for the grant and the land.

"THE FINAL agreement was signed over two months ago," Janis told the Register last week. "We have gone as far as we can go."

Stephen Malato, an attorney for Fencel, indicated earlier this week that his client would indeed fulfill his pledge.

The $220,000 grant will be coupled with $108,000 raised by the Wood Dale Park District for construction of a municipal pool.

Five of the six acres of land, located at Wood Dale Road and Center Street, will be turned over to the park district.

The remaining acre will be used for construction of the new Wood Dale Village Hall.

Simon To Join Lions Picnic

Bloomington's second annual Community Picnic Sunday will be highlighted by a visit from Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, who will address the crowd.

The picnic, sponsored by the Bloomington Lions Club, will begin at noon and last until dark at Circle Avenue Park, two blocks south of Lake Street.

SIMON IS TO arrive at 1 p.m. He will be escorted into the village by a motorcade consisting of members of the police force, Village Pres. Robert Meyers and John Funk, president of the Lions Club.

The event, the only one of its kind in Bloomington, was held last year in connection with the state's sesquicentennial.

Bloomington Lions have decided to sponsor it as an annual affair.

He's Still on Council

Itasca Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke has been re-elected as a local council representative to the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

As a national council member representing the DuPage County area, Nottke will also serve as a member of the regional committee.

Announcement of Nottke's appointment was made last week by Alden G. Barber, chief Scout executive.

District race on the other side of the county line. This is David Roe, one of 11 GOP candidates for Donald Rumsfeld's former seat. The primary is Oct. 7, Roe was apparently seeking support from Cook commuters in Roselle.

The planning committee, headed by LeRoy C. James, Wednesday discussed the outline for the commission as proposed in the resolution.

There was some doubt whether elected county officials could sit on the commission and this was the big stumbling block. SUPERVISOR GERALD WEEKS of Milton Township questioned the legality of having county board members on the commission, referring to a 1962 opinion on the matter.

The Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC), which originally drew up the resolution for the regional county planning commission, has county board members on it. It provided for the appointment of supervisors on the new commission.

Robert Stuart, member of the County Zoning Board of Appeals, said NIPC was created under a statute in the County's Act which is now in the Local Government Act. The new commission would be created under provisions in the county act.

BECAUSE OF THE difference of origin, Stuart was not sure if legislation passed in 1967 allowing NIPC to have elected officials as members will apply to the proposed commission.

Until a definite ruling is obtained, the committee will not act on the resolution because it may have to be amended.

Stuart added that the county board would probably like to have one or two board members on the commission.

No Janitor, No Meeting

The Medinah Park District will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Medinah South School because the park board was locked out Wednesday from its regular meeting.

A quick open air meeting was held in the school parking lot after no one could be found to open the school doors. A roll call was taken, a motion made to adjourn to Friday and everyone went home.

"This has happened before," Steven Zoltek, park president said as he waited for the janitor who never came.

"I'm getting tired of holding these open air meetings."

Park district member Gordon Manary said the same situation had happened with the local boy scout meetings.

The park district holds its summer meetings on the third Wednesday of every month at 8:30 p.m. at the South School. Winter meetings start at 7:30 p.m. after the baseball season has ended.

New Building Permits Reach $141,521 Mark

Building permits for new construction in Wood Dale for July were totaled at $141,521, it was reported this week by John Rheintgen, building superintendent.

Rheintgen said $39,000 of this amount was earmarked for commercial building, but two new homes in the village accounted for another $37,000. The balance was for remodeling ($7,500), garages ($6,565) and fencing ($1,436).

Tax Was $7,358.20

Municipal sales tax collected by Wood Dale for May was $7,358.20, it was reported this week by Mayor Ralph Hansen.

Bickley To Speak

"Law Enforcement in Illinois" will be discussed by John Howard Bickley Jr., at High Twelve Club luncheon, Friday, Oak Park Arms, Oak Park.

Bickley has worked in various offices of the state's attorney, running for that post in Cook County in 1964. He prosecuted in the police burglary scandal in Chicago, and was honored by Readers' Digest for conviction of Paul (the Walter) Ricca.

His graduation in 1946 from Castle Heights Military Academy, Lebanon, Tenn., was followed by 22 years in the Marine Corps, Active and Reserve, holding the rank of Lt. Col.

"I was wondering if you would help me look for my false eyelashes."

Law Firms' Role in Referenda Increases

A 7 per cent interest ceiling on bonds issued by local governments will make selling bonds more feasible and profitable and probably encourage officials to attempt more referenda.

The part legal and financial interests play in a bond issue is as essential to its success as the referendum.

This is the last part of a series describing these interests.

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

Both before and after a referendum, a government wanting to issue bonds must meet all the requirements prescribed by state statutes and constitutional provisions.

If these are not met, the entire election and sale can be ruled invalid.

Local governments have attorneys overseeing the procedure and writing the ordinances so they are legally correct. Prospective buyers, however, require the assurance of a recognized, well-known firm that all the proper steps have been taken.

Without this legal opinion, no bond house is willing to buy.

THE LEGAL OPINION is "necessary to assure the issuing body and ultimate purchaser there is legal and binding authority that can force payment on principal and interest," said Dell Rutherford of Benjamin Lewis and Co., a security investment firm.

In Illinois, Chapman and Cutler is the most prominent law firm in municipal law, and for some investors the only one.

Chapman and Cutler has been in the bond approval and municipal law field since its inception in the early 20th century.

The practice of giving a legal opinion on bonds began in the 1870's. New towns were springing up over night and issuing railroad bonds. When these bonds subsequently did not pay off investors had no way of enforcing payment. Municipalities could not secure credit unless the purchaser's attorney okayed the issue.

TODAY THE LEGAL OPINION is solicited by the government issuing the bonds rather than the purchaser. This has been the trend for about the past 25 years, according to Amos Watts, senior attorney in the legal division of Chapman and Cutler.

Because of the increased legislation, governments realize the benefit of requesting the legal opinion and supervision from the initial procedure through the referendum, Watts said.

A municipality can go through the motions and then ask for an opinion, but Watts and Calvin D. Trowbridge, senior partner in the municipal law division of Isham, Lincoln and Beale, agree that supervision is more advantageous from the start of the proceedings.

Legal approval is a "marketable opinion," in the municipal field much more than in the corporate bond business, said Trowbridge.

HE ATTRIBUTES THIS to the statutory limitations placed on municipal bonds. They must conform to so many legal requirements that the chances of illegality are great.

Chapman and Cutler grew out of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank Co., which was an offshoot of the N. W. Harris Co., an investment banking firm.

N. W. Harris, who came to Chicago and went into the investment banking business in 1880, built a strong enterprise.

Every bond issue bought had an engineer's and accountant's report backing it. Then there was an outside counsel to pass on the legality.

THE VOLUME OF municipal business boomed. Cities, counties and states all needed public improvements and financing for public utilities.

By 1907 so many clients were leaving collected interest with the firm it decided to expand into the banking business and the Harris Trust and Savings Co. was incorporated. The organization was careful in purchasing procedures and had legal advisers.

One of them, T. S. Chapman, left the organization in the beginning of the century and, along with Cutler from Chicago Title and Trust, established the law firm.

IN 1934 THE BANKING ACT changed the entire financial world.

Banks were limited to the investment in government and municipal bonds and investment firms were put out of the banking business.

As a result, the N. W. Harris Company was liquidated and the bank was all that was left of the original business.

Chapman and Cutler, which is on the 14th floor of the Harris building on Monroe Street, is the bank's law firm, advising it on purchases and giving legal opinions on bonds for clients throughout Illinois.

The firm, working with the reputation gained from the Harris organization, continued to be recognized in the municipal law field.

BUSINESS "GRAVITATED" to the firm, according to Jack Waghorne, attorney for Bloomingdale and the Roselle Park District.

Waghorne said the firm's opinion is not insured, but is dependent on its personal liability. "My individual liability doesn't mean much but Chapman and Cutler's does," Waghorne said.

"They're so thorough they dot all the i's and cross all the t's when they go over the procedures," Waghorne explained.

Isham, Lincoln and Beale, the overshadowed second firm in the municipal law field, has about nine attorneys in its division.

Isham, Lincoln and Beale is older than Chapman and Cutler. Beginning in 1872 as a corporate law firm, it has been acting as bond counsel for about 20 years and had done work in municipal law before that.

FELIX SLOAN, treasurer for Bensenville School Districts 2 and 100 describes Chapman and Cutler as the "final authority in bond approval."

The actual approval of the bonds is given at the closing, a three-party transaction in which the bonds are transferred to the buyer and the money paid. The opinion is written on the back of the bonds, a procedure which is about five years old and facilitates matters for buyers who have to provide the opinion at later sales.

Sloan said Chapman and Cutler are not required to approve bonds, but they have been doing it for so long and so well that it is the most highly regarded firm in the field.

College Adds Five to Staff

The board of College of DuPage at its Aug. 13 meeting approved five additional faculty members for the college staff. They are:

—Edwin A. Giermak, Evergreen Park, business instructor, general manager, dairy division of Fox DeLuxe Foods since 1967. He holds an M.B.A. degree from De Paul University, Chicago.

From 1965 until 1968 he was resident director of the 190/MBA evening program at the University of Chicago Graduate School. He received his M.B.A. degree from the University of Chicago.

TWO ADDITIONAL faculty members appointed at an earlier meeting of the board are:

—William L. Fox, Killen, Tex., data processing instructor, who received a B.B.A. degree from George Washington University and has been chief, systems and operations of the U.S. Army Data Processing Detachment since 1967.

—John C. Persons, La Grange, physical education instructor. Persons received his M.A. degree from Michigan State University. From 1965 to the present he was assistant football coach and instructor in physical education at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle Campus.

The board also appointed an advisory committee for accounting, made up of the following members from area industries: Bill Collins, United Air Lines; Clarence Greer, Argonne National Laboratory; Jim Hagan, International Harvester; Arthur Anderson and Co.; Edwin Lukes, Northern Illinois Gas Co.; Ken A. MacKenzie, Jewel Food, Inc.; Charles A. Merkel, Sears, Roebuck and Co.; Norman Pancoast, Bell Laboratories, Inc.; Charles E. Slack, Western Electric Co., and Marvin G. Smith, Container Corp. of America.

In other business the board continued its discussion of the 1969-70 budget, but delayed passage until the board meeting scheduled for next Wednesday. The meeting will be at the college administrative offices, 29W235 Ferry Road, Naperville, at 7:30 p.m.

The Way We See It

Need Positive Guide

Relief from political interference in the Constitutional Convention ballot has been provided by a federal appellate court. The court ordered the ballot be drawn impartially, throwing out ballot lists drawn up by the secretary of state, admittedly with political objectives.

The court order was necessary to protect Con-Con candidates, and voters, from unwarranted exercise of power by elected officials in giving favored candidates preferential treatment in drawing up ballots.

We commented recently that the failure of lower courts to issue such an order made it mandatory for the legislature to establish standards in drawing up ballots. We think that need still exists.

For while the state election board followed the court's mandate and used a lottery to pick ballot positions impartially (the secretary of state opposed compliance), the elected officials who comprise the board acted grudgingly, upset that a court had denied them arbitrary power in the case.

The silence of the legislature, in failing to establish procedures for listing candidates, does not permit elected officials to decide ballot positions wholly on the basis of whim or caprice, the court ruled. Basic constitutional standards protect citizens from arbitrary administrative practices.

Barred from such practices, we think the election board still should be given positive guidelines by the legislature.

'Airport' Not Just Fiction

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and the communities surrounding O'Hare International Airport have indirectly become involved in a best selling novel which has a message for them.

The novel is "Airport" and the author is Arthur Hailey. The book is a best selling novel which probes the operation of the world's busiest airport one hectic January night a couple of years ago.

IT TOUCHES ON many areas of current interest including air traffic controllers, airports of the future and airports of today.

The airport in this case is known as Lincoln International though in reality it is O'Hare International.

The town that becomes involved with the airport in a spat over jet noise is known as Meadowood, but it could just as easily be Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Franklin Park, Bensenville or more likely Elk Grove Village since it's the newest community.

It may be a bit unfair to inject fact into fiction like this but it's heard not to do, especially when the book is written about a neighbor — O'Hare Airport, and the similarities are intentional.

IN HIS BOOK, though a good one, Haley makes the people living around the airport look bad, as if they had no complaint at all about jet noise because the airport was there before they were.

In reality, it is simply not true. Aside from Elk Grove Village, most communities surrounding O'Hare were here long before jet noise. Granted, they were smaller before O'Hare.

In the book, the people of Meadowood get quite upset over jet noise. They meet, 600 strong, and hire a lawyer who is out to make a name for himself. He urges a demonstration at the airport.

It hasn't reached that extreme here, though a Wood Dale man last year suggested a "drive-in" to O'Hare in protest.

The airport manager in the book confronts the people in the airport concourse and tells them the truth about jet noise.

HE TELLS THEM jet noise will get worse, simply because jets will be getting bigger and play an increasingly more important role in the world. He also tells them to move because the land around the airport is not suited for anything but industry (like Elk Grove's).

It's true manufacturers are working on building quieter jets, the manager tells the people, but it's ridiculous to believe that a major effort is being made in this area.

Remember, he tells them, there is more of an effort being put in building newer jet aircraft than in quieter engines. He adds that man has not yet made a really effective muffler for trucks, let alone a 300,000 pound piece of flying machinery.

AND THAT IS the message of "Airport" from author Hailey to the Northwest suburbanite. Airport noise will be getting worse and airports and airplanes will be getting bigger.

Hogwash? No. It's fiction, what the author says is "seldom more than a ticket width from fact."

A Costly Disappointment

by RICK FRIEDMAN

I took my wife, four kids and an automobile to the Arlington Heights Elks Club sponsored — Sells and Gray Circus Monday night.

The circus was at Route 53 and Palatine Road, Arlington Heights, and as we drove down Wilke Road about 7:30 p.m., I remarked how rural the street seemed between Northwest Highway and Palatine Road.

We pulled into the Palatine service road behind a number of cars. From a distance they seemed to be turning to the right into a parking lot.

AS WE GOT close we realized what they were being directed into. No road. No path. Just a hill that went down.

I eased the car down the hill and paid 25 cents for the bumpiest, rockiest ride of my life to a parking spot in the middle of a real Midwestern cornfield!

We piled out of the car and headed to the circus tent. A woman behind us screamed to her husband, "Try walking on this stuff in sandals?!"

One of my kids picked up a bit of the "stuff" she was talking about — an old, blackened corn cob.

Inside the circus tent there appeared not to be a vacant seat except in the farthest corners behind the poles. But by splitting up and asking some people to squeeze over we managed to find five on different rows at the far end of the third ring.

It was almost 8 p.m., almost circus show time! Almost!

OVER THE LOUDSPEAKER, a barker urged people to be seated, get ready for the show which was about to start, folks, and buy peanuts! Peanuts that were specially roasted in infra-red ovens in Indianapolis, Ind. Peanuts roasted with a special process that was being introduced for the first time! Peanuts in bags that might, just might, contain tickets for great prizes! And, quick, kids, before the show started, if the tickets are in your bags, come up and win those great prizes before the show started.

Rick Friedman

A bag of peanuts cost 25 cents.

The barker's spiel went on and on and on and an adult male behind me began to shout "boo." Other adults joined him. My wife, two rows down in front of me, purchased a bag of peanuts for 25 cents and passed it up to me.

The bag looked like any ordinary 10 cent bag of peanuts. The infra-red roasted peanuts inside from Indianapolis, Ind., tasted like all the un-infra-red roasted peanuts I had ever tasted.

The show began.

AND FOR THE NEXT hour I found out where all those acts Ed Sullivan books play when they aren't on Sunday evening television — in the cornfields of the Midwest for the Sells and Gray Circus!

The tent was hot. A trained poodle act came on. Some of the kids in the audience stopped paying attention to the circus and began paying attention to each other. A trained monkey act came on. People left the crowded seats to stand in the corners or go out for air. A juggler came on. My wife left the stands and walked to a corner. An aerial team came on. I picked the baby up off my lap, felt the sweat drip off the back of my neck into my wet shirt and left the stands to join my wife.

A COUPLE of unfunny clowns did pratfalls. The baby picked up a blackened corn cob and put it in my wife's pocket-book. The juggler came on again. A portable light stand in the third ring was facing the wrong way and a kindly-looking old man who might have been Sells or Gray turned it around. One of the aerialists came on again. A sign on the side of tent said, "Guenther Bros. Hay-Straw 253-5515."

All I saw under my feet was more cornfield.

Then it was all over and we were outside in the night air. And just as quickly, for 50 cents more a head, we were in the sideshow tent which featured a combination sword swallower-fire eater, who was excellent, and a young girl named Serpentina who had a serpent wrapped around her arm.

Serpentina went into a coffin-like rig which a barker claimed was a replica of a Chinese torture box. The box was locked and the barker placed 17 boards through holes in the top of it. He pointed out how cleverly Serpentina would confound her body around those 17 boards.

THE BARKER INVITED everybody up to the platform, particularly the kids, to see Serpentina confound.

The crowd surged forward. Wait, folks! It's 25 cents to look down into the top of that box and see Serpentina confound!

The barker shoed kids off the platform who didn't have 25 cents to see Serpentina confound.

I got my wife and kids out of the tent, into the cornfield, into the car, out of the cornfield bumpy-bump and home.

The evening had cost me $10.60: $2 per adult to get in the circus tent, which was $4; $1.25 per kid to get in the circus tent, which was $3.75 for the three we had to pay for; $2.50 for five to get in the sideshow tent; a quarter to park in the cornfield; and 10 cents the next day for a valve cap which apparently fell off my tire when I was bouncing through the furrows.

The valve cap may be the only thing Sells and Gray has never sold. And if they read this, next year they probably will — for 25 cents a piece.

The Political Beat

Red Ink Back in News

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

The terms "red ink" and "retrench" are beginning to show up in news column after a long term of disuse in the era of liberal ascendancy. It was in the Depression 30's that they received fulltime employment when many a long and learned essay was turned out warning of what was bound to happen when the country departed from the orthodoxy of the day, economic and political.

With this in mind and particularly in the minds of those who were around then there is a reluctance to be stampeded when someone, usually with a private axe to grind, blows the whistle.

In that downturn of the economy and tight money situation it will be remembered that the salaried white collar employee and the wage-earner along with the farmer took the worse buffeting. Many in the upper income brackets either went to Europe or jumped out of windows. Those were trying times and if some appeared to act a little irrationally or unpatriotically perhaps they ought not to be judged too severely.

YET THE FACT remains that in that era of the stress and storm of transition the rank-and-file crew stuck to their posts willing to go down with the ship. This not only saved the nation and even a semblance of world order, it reaffirmed a faith in American representative government. This was the miracle of that day when hardly a domestic shot was fired in anger. Today there is an altogether different climate in America when a far more profound transition is at work, when red ink is showing up on account ledgers and requests to retrench are being made.

We do not have today that spirit of unity that held the nation together in the 30's. There is distrust abroad because there have been mismanagement and injustice throughout the land.

Our major political parties have not been as responsible to their constituencies and responsive to change as the country deserved and these times required. So as we move into the 1970's the unfinished business of this decade has to be carried along as excess baggage.

A new unity is called for in the coming decade when this nation will perhaps have to face new and not now discernible challenges. In such a test, the internal health and peace of the nation will be vital.

THERE IS A lesson in the Depression 30's that ought to be practiced in the coming decade. Leadership in our democracy comes from confidence transferred by the citizen. The citizen not only has power theoretically, he actually has freedom to exercise it.

What this nation is asking for more than anything else in the world is a leadership that understands and respects the source of its power, the rank-and-file citizen. This citizen is asking for justice in human relationships and equal opportunity for everyone in the affairs of life.

These are more than mere literary abstractions. These concepts are at the heart of the nation's problems today. They ask for a priority in favor of human considerations rather than money considerations.

Technology is not the end, we are told, but only a means to achieve a more just society. Its power to produce such an effect would be wasted if leadership everywhere failed to understand the aspirations of the people.

While red ink is important it ought not to be the major concern.

THE MAJOR CONCERN should be with people. The future of the nation lies in the health, vigor and intelligence of its population.

Too many nations have gone down in decay and dissolution and the verdict of history says it was because their leaders ignored the basic source of their riches and their strength.

Support Wheeling's Great Jubilee Event

Saturday night my husband, our daughter and I attended Wheeling's Diamond Jubilee Ball at Chevy Chase Country Club and began to appreciate the magnitude and splendid results of the committee which has worked so hard to make these days through Aug. 24 memorable.

We had such a good time admiring the costumes on all age groups, enjoying the excellent dance music, seeing the choosing of the pretty queen and her princesses and the drawing for the diamond (gift of a Chicago and Mount Prospect firm).

All neighboring suburbs should support Wheelingites in their efforts. The people there are to be commended.

Many events are free or low cost, and I hope everyone in the area will check the program and attend. It is great.

Keep Mind Open on Back Seat

I take exception to Barry Sigale's view from the squad car. In his article, he said, "The back seat is usually reserved for those who break or defy the law."

Unable to drive and with a daughter who required several stitches due to a fall on concrete, I rode in the back seat (of a squad) to Elmhurst Hospital. It was a swift, brief ride. I hardly knew I was moving, and what a comfort to have the hospital staff prepared in advance to help me.

This is America, and we are innocent until proven guilty. I hope people who saw me in the back seat didn't automatically presume I was a breaker or defier of the law.

I'm sure that many other citizens in distress have shared that back seat view and were as grateful and law abiding as I.

So next time you see a passenger in a squad car please remember back seats do not a prisoner make.

Mrs. J. Petkus

'Aroused Suburbanites Will Help'

More on Baumann's "Sour on Grapes Issue."

The picketing and boycotting of Jewel stores in our area is just beginning in earnest. Some modification of the picketing is contemplated but "don't shop at Jewel" will still remain the final goal.

It is difficult to understand why Baumann advocates another Selma or march on Washington and not the boycott. Of course, his lack of understanding about what the boycott does may account for it.

That he doesn't know is best exemplified by his wonderment at why employees of Jewel haven't picketed. He apparently doesn't know the difference between a consumers boycott and a secondary boycott outlawed by Taft-Hartley.

However, one must give him credit for suggesting that "there is a lot an aroused nation can do to help." This the concerned suburbanites of the far Northwest Chicago will demonstrate in the next few months.

Picking a Puppy

If you want the best in a pedigreed puppy, decide on the breed you're interested in, write the American Kennel Club, 221 Fourth Ave., New York, N.Y. They can help you locate reliable breeders and clubs in your area. The breeder charges a fair price and a puppy with some minor show flaw will cost far less than his near-perfect litter mate, and make just as fine a pet.

There are many healthy, pest-free puppies for sale in private homes, and they are raised with pride and love. It makes all the difference in the world.

The Drone of a Plane, Then the Nightmare

Editor's Note: The writer was UPI's chief correspondent in Prague when the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia and occupation of the country took place a year ago this month. In this dispatch, he recalls how it was.

By JAMES O. JACKSON

United Press International
The memory of Aug. 21, 1968, is a vivid meld of colors, sounds and fears.

A flash of red, white and blue flag on a speeding motorcycle. The pop-pop-pop of machinegun bullets bouncing down narrow streets. Rumbles of blood on a sidewalk. Brooding Russian eyes. Tank treads. Gun muzzles. Angry faces.

The first sound of Aug. 21 came during the first hour past midnight. It was the low drone of an airplane, the first of 500 sorties flown by the Red Army into Prague's Ruzyně Airport. The airplanes brought cargoes of young men with machineguns who believed they were sent to put down a counterrevolution.

The last sound on that day were low whistles at midnight, made by defiant youths on Wenceslas Square when they blew across the tops of cartridge cases expended only minutes before by soldiers shooting at imagined snipers.

The time in between brought death for some, and unity for all.

Although the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia by five Warsaw Pact nations began at 11 p.m. on the 20th, Prague saw nothing of it until after sunrise when columns of tanks rumbled through the suburbs toward the heart of a city just waking to the knowledge that their hopeful "Prague Spring" was over.

The troops moved fast to take over the centers of leadership. In the Communist Party Central Committee headquarters soldiers and KGB men forced Alexander Dubcek and other top leaders against the wall. They frisked them, and finally took them away in an armored car.

Bui, perhaps because of the Soviets' imperfect understanding of the power of a free press, they did not move quickly enough against the centers of communications. When they finally did, it was too late.

Listening in on their transistor radios, Prague's citizenry heard excited reports of newscasters telling of the arrival of troops and of the takeover at the Central Committee Building.

Czechs by the thousands moved instinctively to the source of information and leadership, the Prague radio offices on Vinohrady St., a short distance from Wenceslas Square.

Lines of youths formed in a human wall of protection against advancing Soviet tanks, and some young men rushed up to the awkward machines and set fire to tanks of spare fuel.

The nervous troops—many of them very young—panicked. A machinegun fired, others joined in, and the crowds broke and ran in a fury of smoke and bullets. Before the shooting ended five youths lay dead, 25 more were wounded and two apartment buildings were ruined by shellfire.

One Russian tank was destroyed and throughout that first morning an ammunition carrier burned, its shells exploding one by one with a steady "thump, thump, thump" audible all over the city.

The carnage at Radio Prague was by far the worst during the entire first week of the invasion, but it was not the last.

Later, jittery soldiers poured more than 2,000 bullets into the front of Prague's stately old National Museum, smashing windows and display cases and ruining a number of priceless frescoes ceilings.

A soldier at the Central Committee Headquarters shot to death a man who, enraged at the invading presence, attacked a trooper with his fists. A young woman jeered at soldiers on a bridge and was killed in a spray of gunfire that also damaged a children's hospital down the street. A regional government official was driving past a troop concentration and his car backfired. The nervous troops opened fire and killed him.

Although the Soviets eventually managed to take control of every radio, television, news service and newspaper office, Czechoslovak journalists met their deadlines. Broadcasters set up a clandestine network that never was shut down throughout the crisis.

Using factory presses and hidden transmitters the journalists kept the nation informed and, thereby, kept it so thoroughly united that the Soviets could find nobody willing to form a puppet government. The press also headed off the danger of more bloodshed by adopting a program of passive resistance and leading the people in a nonviolent assault against the invasion.

"Go to the soldiers," the radio instructed. "Ask them, 'Pochemu?' (Why?), and tell them they must go home."

Newspapers published lists of slogans to guide the nation in its resistance. Among them were:

"I don't speak Russian."
"What do your mothers say?"
"Hate wisely."

They retained their sense of humor. A cartoon in one of the underground publications showed a Soviet officer in a Prague bar. The smiling bartender said, "We have a special drink in honor of your visit, comrad captain. It is called a molotov cocktail."

The citizens joined enthusiastically in the press campaign. Within hours the country was stripped of street signs, road markers and house numbers, to confuse troop units and KGB men sent to arrest political figures.

By the thousands Czechoslovaks converged on the troops and told them they had made a mistake.

In Wenceslas Square some of the Czechoslovak civilians pushed baby carriages and led pet dogs on leashes as if to contrast their peacefulness with the ugly armor brought by the invaders. They booed the troops, jeered at them and reasoned with them. Some of the soldiers took it in stride, and argued back. Others opened up with occasional bursts of machinegun fire to drive the crowds back.

Tank crewmen glared in frustration at youths who scrambled aboard their machines and calmly stripped off cables and equipment.

One middle-aged housewife walked up and jerked a bayonet from the belt of an astounded soldier. He stood agape, his machinegun at his side, and did nothing as she walked away waving her trophy.

Like beetles in an ant's nest the tanks were constantly harassed by civilians on foot or on motorcycles.

Boys carrying red, white and blue Czechoslovak tricolors sped alongside the machines or crisscrossed in front of them. Youngsters fouled the treads with paving blocks.

Two tanks, their drivers distracted and angered by the crowds, collided in the center of the Square while onlookers hooted and applauded.

But with sundown Aug. 21 the heady adventure of tank-baiting turned to darkness and fear in Wenceslas Square. Dark shapes moved in the shadows and in the distance machineguns rattled. At intervals red tracer bullets arched over the city and wary Russian soldiers glanced uneasily at dark rooftops that could harbor snipers.

Late in the evening an armored car roared into the Square from a side street with machineguns blazing at a darkened bank building. The vehicle halted and the troops inside poured clip after clip into the state bank, smashing every window and covering the front with pockmarks. Then it sped away again.

A few moments of silence. Then dark shapes moved cautiously out of doorways and alleys, and materialized into young Czechoslovaks who crept softly to the place where the armored car had stood. They scurried around picking up the spent, still-warm cartridge cases, put them to their lips and blew eerie whistles into the night.

The whistling continued for an hour, then the youths drifted back to the shadows and the invaded city fell silent—angry, defiant, confused, fearful of the future—and under occupation.

Small Budget, Humanitarian Results

by SHULLEN SHAW

TAIPEI (UPI)—As money and manpower go, U.S. Navy Medical Research Unit No. 2 (NAMRU-2) is pretty small stuff.

At full muster, it lacks enough men to man one destroyer. Its annual budget would not purchase one jet fighter-bomber nor keep a cruiser sailing for a year.

Yet the handful of men working with NAMRU-2 are conquering diseases which have attacked about one-third of the world's population.

The 50 U.S. officers, enlisted men and civilians on NAMRU-2 (a smaller crew than sailed the spy ship Pueblo) are battling some of mankind's greatest scourges.

They have developed a cheap and effective cure for cholera, one of the Orient's biggest mass killers.

They are working on a vaccine against trachoma, which currently affects at least 400 million people in Asia, the Middle East and other regions. It is the world's principal cause of blindness.

And they are trying to put together a vaccine against rubella (German measles), which NAMRU-2 doctors say causes one out of every four malformed babies.

NAMRU-2, founded in 1955 as the second U.S. Naval Medical Research project, is a four-story building near New Park in the center of Taipei, capital of president Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist Chinese government.

The United States pays the Nationalists a rent of $1 a year for the building and operates on an annual budget of slightly over $1 million annually, almost petty cash in today's military budgets.

Navy Capt. Raymond H. Watten, Minneapolis, Minn., commands the American research workers who are assisted by 360 Chinese and a few medical experts from universities in the United States and Asia.

In medieval days, cholera wiped out entire towns in Europe and the East. It continued to be a major killer in Asia until a few years ago. In 1965, a cholera epidemic killed 2,000 people in Pakistan. Earlier in the 1960's, cholera took 75,000 lives in 23 nations.

Capt. Robert A. Phillips, the first NAMRU-2 commander, Capt. Watten and their aides developed a cholera treatment which can be administered by medical workers with little training, equipment or money.

The treatment consists of rapid replacement of body fluids (loss of which causes death in cholera) by intravenous injections and oral administration of glucose.

NAMRU-2 scientists say that cholera formerly killed 40 per cent of its victims, but the new method cuts the toll to less than 2 per cent. NAMRU-2 field workers treated 2,000 cholera patients in Saigon in 1964 with only three deaths.

For his part in developing the cholera treatment, Capt. Phillips received the $10,000 Lasker Award in 1967.

Trachoma blinds but does not kill like cholera, and it rages over more of the earth's surface than does cholera.

Medical scientists estimate 400 million trachoma victims in the world today, 250 million of them either blind or with impaired eyesight.

In 1958, NAMRU-2 microbiologists isolated a virulent strain of trachoma virus. The strain was potent enough to produce what the U.S. Navy calls the world's first vaccine against the eye killer.

NAMRU-2's trachoma vaccine has been tested on children over a period of six years. It seems to prevent frequent recurrence of the eye infection, Navy doctors say.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Friday, Aug. 22, the 234th day of 1969 with 131 days to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:
In 1851 the yacht America beat the British craft Aurora off Cowes, England, to win the silver trophy which still carries the name "America."

In 1911 the Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louve. It was recovered Dec. 10.

In 1941 Nazi troops advanced to the outskirts of Leningrad.

In 1968 Pope Paul received a big welcome in Bogota, Colombia, on the first trip of any Roman Catholic pontiff to Latin America.

A thought for the day: Victor Hugo said, "A compliment is something like a kiss through a veil."

There's a "learn-in" at Loyola this year.

You've heard of a sit-in, a be-in, a laugh-in, even a paint-in. No question about it. The "in" things are cool. So... why not a learn-in? Seems logical. Particularly to the ambitious men and women who work during the day and go to school at night.

If you're willing to put forth this much effort to get an education, you don't want to be faked out by the fun and games so prevalent today. You're spending hard earned money and a lot of time to get an education. So you deserve a full measure of personal attention from the top men on the faculty. Just like the full-time students.

That's why Loyola makes certain you study under a dedicated, concerned faculty that consists primarily of full-time professors who teach in the evenings as part of their regular schedule.

If you enroll in Loyola's University College for late afternoon, evening or Saturday classes, do you have much of a course selection? Yes, you do. Over 300 courses to choose from in the Arts, Business Administration, the Humanities and the Sciences.

Convenient, too. Just 5 minutes from the Loop to the Downtown Campus near the historic Water Tower on Michigan Avenue. Public transportation to most of the city right outside Lewis Towers.

Why don't you join the learn-in at Loyola this year? It's easy. Just call Loyola at WHitehall 4-0800, Evening School extension 522, Law School extension 411.

Evening School Registration: Sept. 11-13 to 7 p.m.; 16 & 17-4 to 7 p.m.

Classes begin September 23.

Law School Registration: Sept. 2-5-10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Classes begin Sept. 8.

Home study courses available.

Metals Program Offered

A two-year metals technology program will be offered this fall at College of DuPage. It will be held in the College's interim facilities on Lambert Road, south of Glen Ellyn.

Established at the suggestion of employers in industry, the program will provide students with laboratory practice and instruction reading to positions as engineering and scientific aides in metallurgy laboratories, mechanical testing, quality control, production, sales and service.

HIGH SCHOOL graduates with an interest in materials and testing should find this field profitable, and those with broader backgrounds or industrial experience may qualify for advanced placement in the program, according to Robert D. Harvey, program coordinator for the college. Cooperative programs, which combine education with relevant work experience, are also being planned.

Two laboratory courses in physical metallurgy, offered earlier this year in facilities at Argonne Laboratory, will be repeated this fall. Evening sections for part-time students are planned as well as day offerings.

First and second quarter courses in the structure, processing and testing of metals, as well as a laboratory and lecture course introducing terms and techniques in the field are being offered this quarter. Interested persons may contact the Office of Admissions, 29 W 235 Perry Road, Naperville.

Charged With Buying Liquor for Minors

A Chicago woman was arrested Tuesday night by Bensenville police after she was allegedly seen giving liquor to teenagers near Grace and Green streets.

Reava Conley Brackett, 29, was charged with buying two six-packs of malt liquor for two 17-year-old youths.

Both youths were charged by police with purchase or acceptance of liquor as minors.

Bensenville police said they had been investigating the alleged sale of liquor to minors by adults from a local factory. Parents of several youths working at the factory have called police to find out where the teenagers have been getting liquor.

Youths getting off work at 7 p.m. were reportedly not getting home until nearly midnight and were reportedly drunk. Police followed a tip on Tuesday's arrest.

Good News

Letters Can Help

This is Paddock's new "Good News!" column, reporting on people who perform little acts of kindness which make the world a better place in which to live. If you have such items, write or call and let us know your own particular "Good News."

People can be nice. Mrs. Lawrence Sullivan, of 570 E. Merle Lane, Wheeling, has received cards and letters from strangers, expressing sympathy for the death of her son in Vietnam.

The Lighter Side

The Whistle Gap

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —At least once a day someone will ask, "What is wrong with the youth of today? Why do young people no longer dream the American dream? Why are so many of them rebelling against society, taking drugs and playing guitars?"

For the answer to these questions, let us harken back to last year's Republican National Convention.

In his acceptance speech, you may recall, President Nixon told of a boy of humble origin who used to listen to the trains go by at night and dream of far away places he would like to go.

It turned out Nixon was referring to his own boyhood. Considering what happened to him later, "you can see why I believe so deeply in the American Dream," he said.

If you examine his remarks closely, you also can see that Nixon pointed up an essential difference between the America of his boyhood and the America of today.

That difference is the difference between train whistles. When Nixon was a lad, all of the locomotives had steam whistles that made a melodic "woo-woooing" sound. Listening to a train go by at night could start a boy to dreaming of those dreams could be his first step on the road to the White House.

But the diesel engines of today, alas, have whistles that make a raucous "blonking" noise. Every time a train goes by, it sounds like a prison break.

I hardly need point out the effect that replacement of the "woo-woooing" whistle by the "blonking" whistle has had on American youth.

Far from being inspired by passing trains, kids of today are traumatized by them. Instead of dreaming the American dream, they go out and steal hubcaps. Or take guitar lessons.

And so the nation is now reaping the bitter fruits of America's first "blonked-at" generation.

It probably isn't technically feasible to put "woo-woo" whistles on diesel locomotives, but my friend Rogers has a plan he believes will work as well.

It is his idea to attach "wooooo" whistles to telephone poles at fixed intervals all across the country, and to tie them into the air raid alarm systems in the cities.

Each night an automatic signal would cause the whistles to blow, one after another. To a kid listening in bed, the sound would be identical to the one that passing trains used to make.

With nightly "woo-woooing" to start them dreaming, it shouldn't take long for the younger generation to get back on the right track.

Obituaries

First Half of 'Dream 18' 3,892 Yards Long!

'Golf Talk' Reveals Fabulous Front Nine

by PAUL LOGAN

This is it... Get ready... Fore!

You're about to be sent off on a tour of the fabulous front nine of Golf Talk's "dream eighteen."

Both today's elite set of holes and next Friday's were selected with the help of either the professional or manager of the 16 courses where Golf Talk stopped this summer.

In all, the excursion covered 15 of the Paddock area's top daily fee courses as well as THE most heralded private layout in the Midwest — Medinah Country Club.

Each course contributed at least one hole with the only two 36-hole daily fee layouts placing one on the list from each course.

Naturally the difficulty of the hole was one of the main points in the decision for selecting it to the unique group. However, the character, beauty and subtleness of play were also major factors in tabbing several holes for this all-time area selection.

This front side measures out to 3,892 yards. It had formerly been 3,890 yards but Mohawk Country Club's Dan Silanoff remeasured his top notch hole — No. 1 — and found it was two yards longer from mid-tee to mid-green.

So, thanks to this Bensenville head pro, the total yardage for these tremendous 18 holes is now a lengthy 7,536.

Here we go... See you at the halfway house... Hope you break 50!

MOHAWK COUNTRY CLUB

463 Yard, Par 4

MOHAWK'S NO. 1 — The pro suggests that before teeing off on the longest daily fee par 4 hole in the area — 463 yards long, a golfer should definitely warm up at the range. This monstrous jumping off hole might want to make you do just that after you've attempted to play it.

Formerly a par 5, this initial challenge was changed to a four but the course didn't show any mercy by leaving the yardage the same.

Ex-sand traps provide the most trouble for those minus 200-yard drivers. The longer hitters will find problems farther out with another grass bunker on the left and bushes on the right at 210 yards out.

Waiting for errant second shots are three humps on the right and a large bunker on the left some 90 yards from the green. Finally, four sand traps are posted at every corner of the putting surface with trees flanking both sides of the hole.

Most hope for bogies but few get them on this terrifying opener.

VILLA OLIVIA C.C.

440 Yard, Par 4

VILLA OLIVIA'S NO. 12 — This was picked for our second hole because it was both picturesque — built at the top of a ski slope — and deadly. Living up to its number, the 12th offers trouble all the way to the cup.

First, you must steer your tee shot on to a plateau-like area about 230 to 250 yards out or you'll have a dangerous uphill lie. From there it's decision time — what to use to split the narrow gap between two well placed traps and then thread the needle again between two stands of cedars just in front of the green.

Rumor has it that the fairway is so narrow that players have to walk single file. However, I've seen a foursome walk four abreast through the trouble but they had to stay close together!

Avoiding these hazards with an extra club can get the golfer into even more difficulty for plenty of trees, a large hump and out of bounds to the back and the right represent a fine rear guard.

On top of all this, a small, mountain peak-like green presents some fast breaks to make three putts likely. Ugh!

WHITE PINES G.C.

449 Yard, Par 4

WHITE PINES' NO. 2 (South Course) — One must have a straight drive to do well on this troublesome par 4. The fairway narrows about 200 yards out with two large grass bunkers on the left followed by a tree and bush lined lake — just the spot for a hooking drive. To the right are scattered trees but it's the safest place to aim.

The slightly elevated green is guarded on the left and right by traps with a grass bunker positioned before the green on the right. Trees and bushes, which protect another teeoff, wait to punish the unwary. Lastly, a subtle sloping putting surface surprises many who think they have sure fours.

Cards Close with Victory

The DuPage Cardinals closed their season and Joe White ended a 12-year tenure as coach Sunday on a victorious note as the Cards whipped the Pirates of Kenosha in Wisconsin 8-6 in the second game of a two-night doubleheader.

A ninth inning home run in the opener had given the host Pirates a 2-1 win, but DuPage exploded for six runs in the first inning of game two and held on for the victory behind the three-hit pitching of Marty Romme.

PALATINE HILLS G.C.

540 Yard, Par 5

PALATINE HILLS' NO. 6 — We held off to the fourth hole before throwing a par 5 at you, and what a par 5. A fairly straight drive will pass up out of bounds on the left and a small stand of trees and a trap on the right, the latter located about 230 yards out. From there you can finally see the green and the large lake that prevents most from reaching the green in two.

Nearly everyone aims to the right for their second shot and then tries to negotiate the green past a large sand trap on the right and the steep slope on the left. A straight approach regards the golfer with a good chance for a par; an errant shot might be followed by either a splash or a thud.

GOLDEN ACRES C.C.

440 Yard, Par 4

GOLDEN ACRES' NO. 6 (Red Nine) — on this hole. A wide fairway aids the golfer in staying away from the out of bounds fence along Roselle Rd. Then comes the vital second swing. From the high point on the fairway — about 230 yards out — you can see the green, completely surrounded by hazards.

Five bridges separate a chain of ponds that protect the front, left and back sides of the green. On the other side are trees and the finally coming into play fence.

The green is fairly flat allowing a possible two-putt for those who get home in regulation. For the others who don't hit over the trouble, weeping willows near the green mourn for you.

MOUNT PROSPECT C.C.

160 Yard, Par 3

MOUNT PROSPECT'S NO. 7 — It's about time, you are probably thinking, that we got to a par 3 hole. After playing five holes you should be warm enough to cut loose with a medium iron, but watch out.

Although this was chosen mostly for its beauty, a quick look shows that there's a little bit of trouble almost everywhere. About halfway down the fairway a 12-foot deep creek bed can eat a golfer alive. The sharp dropoff makes retrieving a bad shot very difficult.

Added to this are these hazards: out of bounds running along the left side of the fairway and behind the green, two sand traps and two bunkers protecting the putting surface, and a two-level green with a three-foot drop between the two. This three-shotter could easily turn into a five-shotter.

BARTLETT HILLS G.C.

450 Yard, Par 4

BARTLETT HILLS' NO. 6 — Our seventh

hole is another back breaking par 4 that plays just as long if not longer to Mohawk's No. 1 because of the wind. And it will become even tougher when the proposed lake is gouged out of the right side of the Fairway.

About 100 yards out the fairway slants downhill with a drive of about 240 yards needed to reach a flat area for a 210 yard second rap. When the lake is added, sprayed second shots by short hitters will find it.

A pulled approach will land in out of bounds territory which cuts in close to the green. Two large grass bunkers sit on either side of the putting surface. A five is a welcome score here for the green has plenty of break which many will not see.

GLENDALE C.C.

GLENDALE'S NO. 11 — This is one of those "its got it all" holes. The green, which is also two-leveled, is visible from the tee but the fairway dips about 200 yards out where trouble lurks. A big drive will find trees on both sides with a figure eight shaped lake very reachable.

To get home in two the linkster must be very accurate for the green is tucked into the corner of the course with out of bounds on three sides. Two bunkers, a sand trap and a rolling green give the player all he can handle and more.

Finished!

No, not quite. However, all of you who made this journey have a full week to rest up at the halfway house before heading back to the clubhouse. You'll be happy to know that the final nine is much shorter — a 3,644 yard, par 36. But bring plenty of balls... you'll need them.

INDIAN LAKES C.C.

550 Yard, Par 5

INDIAN LAKES' NO. 14 (Sioux Trails) — This final hole will make most golfers plenty thirsty and ready for the halfway house because it is the most troublesome par 5 on our entire 18.

It boasts of a sharp dogleg that is nearly impossible to cut because of two sand traps, a large tree, and a brief stretch of out of bounds that protects the 11th tee. After the turn toward the green, a large lake waits for pulled shots.

The first sight of the green is unbelievable for it appears to be a very small patch of green surrounded by sand. However, only two traps are right next to the green but they leave only a 14-yard space from which to enter. And another trap, which is located about a full sand wedge from the green, will gobble up any shots that the lake doesn't get.

Upon nearing the green, it is a little bit bigger than it first appeared but only a very accurate approach will give you a birdie shot. The good golfer will wish for a four, pray for a five and probably be very satisfied with a six here.

Finished!

No, not quite. However, all of you who made this journey have a full week to rest up at the halfway house before heading back to the clubhouse. You'll be happy to know that the final nine is much shorter — a 3,644 yard, par 36. But bring plenty of balls... you'll need them.

Kurth Comments

by PHIL KURTH

Every once in a while, when I'm in a particularly contemplative mood, I think of childhood wonders and of a sensitive, poignant line from "Puff the Magic Dragon":

"Dragons live forever, but not so little boys..."

It's the same with heroes. They live on though children grow up and leave the delights and wonders and the magic of the hero-years behind.

And I can remember, almost like in a dream that I awoke from sometime in the past, the heroes of my early youth — Hank Sauer, Andy Patco, Eddie Miksis, Wayne Terwilliger, Dee Fondy, Bill Serena, Ransom Jackson, Frankie Baumhofs...

Through the years part of the idol-mystery faded, and they became mortal men. But the glitter of imagination's star-dust never disappears completely, and there's always a touch of the unreal, of the dreamlike greatness, in these names.

Hal Jeffcoat, Dutch Leonard, Paul Miner, Bob Rush...

Too soon the nostalgia ends and I'm yanked unahappily back to 1969.

Unhappily? With the Cubs on their way to a pennant, with very real stars like Ron Santo and Billy Williams and Ernie Banks and Ferguson Jenkins and Kenzie Holtzman performing very real miracles on the old Wrigley Field diamond?

Yes, unhappily, sadly, depressingly.

Maybe it's me, maybe it's the cynicism that comes with the years, but it seems the heroes of today can't hide the greed in their eyes and the green in their pockets. An athlete seldom makes a statement any more without belying the dollar motive.

Said Jenkins last week after the fans and the press had upbraided Durocher for his decision to withhold the Cub regulars during the Cubs-Sox benefit game: "I agree with Leo. You have to remember that we still have a long, tough fight ahead of us to get into the playoffs, and then maybe five games in the playoff just to get into the series. We're all kind of tired by now, and there's a lot of money involved in it for every one of us."

No mention of winning a pennant for the fans who have waited so long. No hint of pride or of wanting to be the best. Just a frank statement of the money at stake.

And I couldn't help but think, here's a guy making probably $80,000 a year and it means more to him to make a few thousand more for himself than to spend an hour or two helping to raise money for kids in Chicago who need it.

Real nice sentiment.

Tommy John, in his recent row with Cuccinello and the Sox, accused them of cheating him out of a chance to pitch on weekends while he was serving his two weeks of military duty. The Sox had placed him on the inactive list for two weeks, claiming he had a sore arm.

John was furious. "My arm isn't any sorer now than it was three weeks ago when I told them about it. If they were going to send me to a doctor, why didn't they do it then?"

Wonderful, I thought. Here's a guy who really wants to pitch, who has the consuming desire to play...

And then he went on: "This will rob me of a couple of starts, and come salary time this is what they look at. They'll say: We'd like to pay you more, but you only started so many games. I need those games."

Even the National League's "Mr. Hustle," Pete Rose, is only running toward the bank. Not much of a home run hitter, Rose said last year: "I'm going to prove that you don't have to hit home runs to get that six-salary contract. I'm going to hustle my way to $100,000 a year."

You kind of expect it from goofs like Joe Namath, but when it comes from the guys you really respect, it hurts a little.

Like Bill Hands, a competitor's competitor, the guy I'd always rated number one in my book. Not a flake, not a showboat, not a choke, just a class pitcher.

So what does he say after shutting out the Padres last week?

"I was awfully glad for the chance to become a starter last year. I've said it all along: There's no money in being a long reliever. The big money is in being a starter or short reliever."

How many times in the last year or two have I heard some athlete or manager say: "You don't have to worry about us being up for this game. There's a lot of money involved in this one."

Is that the only incentive an athlete has any more?

Hank Aaron furnished the sad answer last week while discussing the ills of big-league baseball with a New York writer: "It used to be the owner and players on a team were very close, but not now. Now it's all big business, high finance... There aren't enough ball players left who really love the game..."

We might as well be honest about it then and get the fans in on the real action.

Vince Lloyd could tell his listeners: "That last hit by Kessinger, which drove in his sixtieth run of the season, brought his average up to .296 and his projected '69 salary to $64,300."

Metropolitan Stadium in Minneapolis which currently flashes the distance of every Twin home run via electronic computer or on the scoreboard, could add the vital financial statistics: "Killebrew's home run 446 feet, a $1,427.96 wallop."

Maybe they could install a tote-board system in each park, showing each player's earnings up-to-the-moment. Then even if the pennant races were dull, fan interest might remain alive with the salary competition being waged between the team's stars and near-stars and newcomers.

There are just breath-taking possibilities. Imagine a rookie who in his last turn at bat needs only a double to move ahead of Ernie Banks in the salary drive for 1970. The old sentimentalists would be rooting wildly for the kid to strike out. The new breed would be pulling for the underdog challenger to belt one out of the park.

And if the kid hits one?

Well, it wouldn't surprise me if Ernie, gentleman that he is, was the first one out of the dugout to congratulate him. "It was a great clutch hit with all that pressure on, kid. You've got a great career ahead of you. How'd you like to join me in the car dealer business?"

Redesigned Continental, New Line Of Montegos, Cyclones Highlights

The first completely redesigned Lincoln Continental in nearly a decade and an all-new expanded line of intermediate-size Montegos and Cyclones highlight Lincoln-Mercury Division's automobiles for 1970.

"Thirty-nine new models ranging from the classic Mark III to the muscled new Cyclone Spoiler give Lincoln-Mercury the broadest market coverage ever," said M. S. (Matt) McLaughlin, Ford Motor Company vice president and division general manager.

There are new power teams and a host of comfort, convenience and safety features standard on all car lines, including a more convenient three-point seat/shoulder belt system, a locking steering column, bias-belted tires, flow-through ventilation system and an oval steering wheel.

THE NEW LINCOLN Continental, while undergoing the most substantial change since 1961, remains clearly identifiable as a Continental with a strong grille theme and understated elegance according to McLaughlin. While outside dimensions are almost identical to previous models, wheelbase has been lengthened one inch to 127 inches and front and rear tread are increased. As a result, interior roominess is greater. The model line-up remains the same as in 1969, with a single series consisting of a two-door hardtop and four-door sedan.

The division's intermediate line has been redesigned for 1970 and consists of three Montego series, including a new four-door hardtop, and three performance-oriented two-door hardtops, the Cyclone, Cyclone GT and Cyclone Spoiler.

Cyclones have a racy look with a forward-thrusting grille and unique European-type running lights. Montegos share the same contemporary profile, with the addition of a luxurious, full width grille.

WHEELBASE ON ALL models has been increased one inch to 117 inches (114 inches on wagons) and overall length has been increased nearly four inches on sedans and hardtops and eight inches on station wagons.

Cougar for 1970 features an entirely new front end appearance with a vertical textured grille. Overall length has been increased to 196.1 inches — nearly three inches longer than last year. All of the extra length is at the front, increasing the sports flair appearance of the long hood/short deck proportions of the car.

The division's medium price lines — Marquis, Monterey and Marauder — boast engineering and design refinements and a broad range of new options. The 1970 Marquis maintains its Continental look and like the Monterey, has newly designed grilles and taillights. The sporty Marauder and Marauder X-100 retain their performance-oriented rear appearance with recessed rear window, swept back rear roof pillars and quad taillamps.

THE CONTINENTAL MARK III continues its classic elegance for 1970 with modest design modifications. Changes include new concealed windshield wipers, new wheel covers, and redesigned tail and parking lamps. There are extensive interior changes, including genuine walnut trim on the instrument panel, steering wheel and door panels. All Mark IIIs will have as standard equipment Michelin steel-belted radial tires with a warranty of 40,000 miles.

Among the new features standard on the Mark III and optional on all other two-door models is an automatic seat back release. With this new feature, front seat backs are automatically released when either door is opened, making rear seat entrance or exit much easier.

While the Mark III will be equipped with Michelin steel-belted radial tires, all other Lincoln-Mercury Division cars will have as standard equipment new fiberglass belted tires.

A FEATURE STANDARD for all car lines is a modified oval steering wheel. It offers increased wheel-to-seat room, while affording an unobstructed view of the instrument panel.

All models, except convertibles, will have as standard equipment a unique three-point lap and shoulder belt restraint system featuring a "mini buckle." The buckle is nearly half its former size. The new restraint system eliminates the need for inboard shoulder buckles while providing the same degree of protection as the former method.

New safety and security features on all car lines, in addition to the three-point seat belt, include side marker lights that flash with the turn signals, a tamper-resistant odometer and a three-way locking steering column. The three-way locking column is designed to deter car thefts by locking the steering wheel, transmission linkage and ignition switch when the key is removed.

PONY LEAGUE

Angels 000 010 100-2-3
Twins 000 011 000-3-5
Highlights — The Twins' Tom Chapman fanned 16 and Jack Henry came on in relief in the eighth inning of the tied game and got the win as the Twins came through in the final frame with a run. Gary Adams of the Angels fanned 14 before leaving the game in the eighth. Also, Sommer finished out and took the loss. The Twins tied the score in the fifth inning when Mike Wicker singled, stole second and scored on an error in the sixth. Chapman singled and scored on a throwing error. The Angels tied it up in the seventh on a walk to Nick Adams and a Williams' single. The Twins won the game in the ninth when with two out, Bill Meisenheimer doubled and Jim Foltzner singled him home.

Mets 200 000 0-2-4-1
Highlights — The Cardinals handled the Mets 9-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Fritz. Fritz upped his record to 6-0 by walking four and fanning nine. Tom Claes was the Cards' offensive hero with three-for-four and four stolen bases. The Cards had five extra base hits including Mike Zimula's fourth triple of the year. The Cards are now 12-2 with one game remaining. Getting doubles were Seda, Stewart, Fritz and Claes with a pair.

Yankees 002 004-6-10-1
Pirates 210 000-3-2-1
Highlights — The Yankees won the opening game of the series 6-3 from the Pirates behind the two hit pitching of Steve Kliff. The Pirates jumped out to a two-run lead in the first inning when Kevin McCloughan was safe on a 1-1 error and Ron Gore followed with a homer. The Pirates added another run in the second on a triple by Mike Healy and a passed ball. Thereafter Kliff held the Pirates hitless and runless while recording 10 strikeouts and giving up no walks. Kliff retired the side in order in the last four innings. The Yanks were held to two runs until the last inning when they tallied four runs on singles by Ron Ulice, Frank Flannery and Jim Lovi and a triple by Joe Woelke. Tom Ulice of the Yanks led all the hitters with a perfect day at the plate. Kliff pitched all 9-0 for the Yankees with Frank Flannery catching and Don Mahoney pitching for the Pirates and Mike Healy and Bill Broten came the record line.

Yankees 312 20-5-8-7-6

Highlights — The Yankees wrapped up the series with the Pirates by holding off their come from behind surge to win 8-5. The Pirates scored four runs in the final frame on a walk to Louis McCloughan and three Yankee errors. The game ended when Dennis Robinson, first baseman of the Yanks, made a beautiful catch of a hard hit line drive off the bat of Ron Gore and threw to second to double up Glenn Galloway. Tom Ulice of the Yanks continued to swing a hot bat in the series with two hits plus a walk. Kevin McCloughan of the Pirates had the only extra base hit of the game a double. Joe Woelke pitched for the Yanks and Frank Flannery caught. McCloughan pitched for the Pirates and Mike Healy and Bill Broten caught.

Tigers 000 100-6-5-3
Sox 102 013-7-9-1
Highlights — The Tigers took a 6-3 lead in the top of the fifth on a grand slam homer by Sand. Carew into the bottom of the sixth the score was 6-4. After the first batter for the Sox struck out, Tiger pitcher — DeMarie — walked the next two batters and then Douglass Mack hit a homer to win the game. Broderick struck out Groat and hit a triple to help his own cause. Mack Johnson and Curtin had two hits apiece.

Hot Birdie Boy In Tuesday Golf

The team leadership stayed the same; the individual leadership underwent a shakeup.

That was the story in the Rob Roy Tuesday Night League recently as Wheeling Bank continued to hold down first place with a two point budge over its nearest rival, C.P. Floor & Tile.

However, in the individual action, Pat Tuttle of Weber Paints' team put on a great show on the par 35 front nine. Tuttle, who is only in his novice year in this old and respected league, caught fire on the first three holes with three straight birdies! This must have blown his opponent right off the links for Tuttle coasted to victory scoring a three-over-par 38.

For his efforts, Tuttle tied for low net honors with his teammate — Cook — with 31s.

CAPTIVE AUDIENCE. All eyes were on the big scoreboard last Sunday in the 20th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament held at Palatine Hills Golf Course. Bob Paddock (with clipboard), promotional director, supervises the scoring totals while G. A. McElroy (closest to board), tourney manager, reads off the scores

Grove Adds Three Coaches

Three new coaches will be working in the 1969-70 season at Elk Grove, according to Bob Tipword, the Grove's athletic director.

Jim Wendler will be head track and assistant football coach, Dave Hanke will assist basketball and baseball, and Jim Brewer will be assistant in track.

WENDLER WILL be taking over the duties of Rich Bader, who has been head track man at the Grove since its opening. Bader, who was an outstanding thincled at Arlington High School as well as at Northern Illinois University, will continue coaching but in the assistant's role.

Wendler is a graduate of Northern, also, majoring in physical education and business. He played four years of college football before assisting in track at Aurora West High School. Wendler, who is 23, was a graduate of Elgin Central High.

DAVE HANKE prepped at Waukegan and then attended Northern Illinois. He played two years of varsity ball while majoring in mathematics. He received his B.A. in 1966 and his M.A. in 1968.

He also taught at Aurora West for the last three years while assisting in basketball and baseball. He is 27.

JIM BREWER, who is a high school graduate from Sioux City Central High in Iowa, received his B.A. at Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls. He is an art major.

Brewer taught at Lisle Junior High for three years and two years in District 45 at Villa Park Junior High where he coached track. He is 27.

BESIDES THESE changes, three other positions have been shifted:

Bob Rees, who has been head basketball and cross country coach, is trading places with his assistant harrier coach, Jerry

Jim Brewer

Wollard. Wollard will be the new cross country mentor.

Also Ray Cloeman, who was formerly the assistant wrestling coach, is taking the new Dean of Students position at Elk Grove.

AMATEUR NO. 1. Wayne Rolfs, who plays on the L-Nor Cleaners team in the Old Orchard Scratch League, shows the form that enabled him to turn in the best gross total (77) of the day in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament last Sunday. Rolfs glided around the 6,800 yard, par 72 Palatine Hills Golf Course two strokes better than his nearest rival. After having four bogies on the front side, the former Arlington High School prep star stormed back on the final nine for a nifty one-over-par 37 to lead his team to second place behind the winners — Buffalo Grove's Team No. 5.

Classic Leagues Await Sweepers

Paddock Classic Traveling League bowlers will lift the curtain for the 1969-70 season at the annual Paddock Sweeper, a slate of pre-season exhibition games.

The men's teams will bowl Saturday at 7 p.m. at Ten Pin Lanes in Barrington while the PWCTL bowlers will be rolling their first strikes of the new season at Sims Bowl in Des Plaines.

Individual picture taking will be held from 6 p.m. to 8:30.

BUICK-IN-EVANSTON will be out to defend the championship it won last season in the PCTL and Doyle's Striking Lanes is the defending champion in the PWCTL.

BUICK-IN-EVANSTON will receive stiff competition from Langlo's Refinishing which won the first-half championship during the 1968-69 campaign. Girard Bruns, which won the first-half title in 1968-69, will be a primary contender again to Striking Lanes' crown.

The PCTL will have the same eight teams it had last year while the PWCTL will have a new sponsor for one of its teams: Kemmerly Realty. Thunderbird Bowl and Ten Pin are new franchise houses.

The Paddock Classic League bowling will not count in the 1969-70 standings but will be the only pre-season head-to-head preview of the year.

The Paddock Class League bowling teams will start league action Sept. 6.

Among the top bowlers returning for the 1969-70 season in the PWCTL are Peggy Harris (184 average), Shirley Schultz (181), Vi Douglas (180), Lu Schoenberger (184), Winnie Lohse (181), Nancy Porcelius (181), and Isobel Kosi (179).

The top returning bowlers in the PCTL will include Les Zikes (198), Russ Grosch (194), John Koenig (183), Joe Simonis (194), Al Brown (193), and George Schmidt (192).

Palatine to Host 1970 Olympics

Palatine park district will host the 1970 Paddock Olympics, it has been announced by Rex Morris, superintendent.

Palatine won each of the first two Paddock Olympics, with Arlington Heights playing host. This year it was River Trails park district winning a closely-fought contest with Mt. Prospect park district hosting the event.

Tony DiCello, newly-arrived director of recreation for Palatine, will direct most of the Olympics activities for his park district in 1970. It is expected Rolling Meadows will host the event in 1971.

First Round Leader Still Hot

With just three weeks remaining for the YMCA Twilight Golf League, the first round leader continues to dominate second half play. Team No. 7, captained by Dick Tank, has a substantial lead over second place Allens' Store for Men. Kunkel Realtors holds third, with a battle shaping up for the middle slots.

Not since the second week of the season have birdies been so plentiful. Six players bagged them last week, with Art Kruse leading the way on the 13th and 17th holes. Milt Koehler and Kurt Leis started their rounds with birds on the 1st hole, and John Bye got his on the 10th hole of the back nine. Dick Dixon matched Kruse on the 17th and Roger Lietzau gathered his on number 11.

The spotlight for the evening's play centered on Art Kruse in many other ways. In addition to his two birds, he captured low gross with a sub-par 35 as well as the season's low net of 29, nosing out Coloramie Tile's Cliff Stock. Harold Schlichting took second low gross with 39, followed by Bart Kenny's 40. Kenny's 31 tied him for second low net of the evening with Mike Schwartz of Mount Prospect State Bank.

Lions Win Two in Canada

After winning two of six games in a week long journey into Canada, Logan Square baseball coach Larry Nomellini had only one thing to say about the brand of ball played by the Canadians.

"Anyone who tells you that their game is hockey up there," said the affable mentor, "has another thought coming. Their junior league programs are so well organized, they make our high school and American Legion programs look sick."

But at least twice in the six game stand, the superb Canadian organization was not enough to offset the talents of the squad from Illinois. After losing three straight games, the Lions reversed the scores and claimed a pair of wins before dropping the last game of the series by a one run margin.

The Lions started their tour by playing a pair of games against the Dorval Cougars. In the first test, Lion pitching was flat and the hosts claimed 11-1 victory. In the second game, though, Nomellini's charges tightened up and made a better game of it, losing 7-3.

Logan Square then took on Quebec, and with Gary Anderson on the mound chucking a fine game, forced the tilt into extra innings. The Lions scored a single run in their half of the eighth to take a 3-2 lead, but then Quebec retaliated with a five run outburst to claim the win, 7-3.

Against St. Laurent, though, the Lions finally came up with a winning combination as Steve Snyder picked up the mound win behind the power hitting of Anderson and Bill O'Donnell. Snyder also chipped in with a clutch single in the three-run second.

The next day the Lions continued their winning ways by clubbing Verdun, 12-0, behind a five-hitter from Mike O'Donnell, who also went three-for-five at the plate and scored three times.

The next day the Lions returned to Dorval where they pushed the Cougars to the very last inning before falling, 3-2. Mike Berdell went on the mound for Logan Square, allowing seven hits, while Bob Skrodski and Mike O'Donnell accounted for the Lions' two runs.

The Lion squad was a make-shift unit, comprising of several players from the Logan Square American Legion team, the Arlington Heights American Legion team, a few players from Niles College and several others from the Northwest suburbs.

Novice Swim Meet Slated; Enter Now

The Mount Prospect Park District will sponsor a Novice Swim Meet on Thursday evening, August 28, at 6:30 p.m. at Lions Pool in Mount Prospect.

All swimmers who live in the Mount Prospect Park District who have never swum in competition but who can swim 25 yards are eligible to enter the swim meet.

Participation certificates will be given to all swimmers who swim their event and first through sixth place ribbons will be given to individual winners.

A traveling trophy will be presented to the pool receiving the highest number of points for the meet. Swimmers will represent the three pools as follows:

Meadows Pool — for those living north of Northwest Highway

Kopp Pool — for those living south of Golf Road

Lions Pool — for those living south of Northwest Highway and north of Golf Road.

Midget Racing, Stock Cars On Santa Fe Speedway Slate

Santa Fe Speedway hosts its final United States Auto Club midget card this Friday, August 22, as more than 40 of the nation's top USAC chauffeurs will compete in several-paced races highlighting a 50-lap feature race on the quarter-mile clay oval. Racing begins at 8:30 p.m. with time trials coming one hour before the opening event.

"Indy 500" star Mel Kenyon of Lebanon, Indiana, and Bob Tattersall, seven-times Australian midget champion from Streator, Illinois, will continue their brilliant season-long first-place battle for the national USAC midget championship at Santa Fe on August 22. Tattersall presently leads the division; however, Kenyon, defending national champion, is within striking distance of the top spot. A surprise entry for the Santa Fe Speedway USAC midget race is West Coast midget and sprint car star Bill Vukovich of Fresno, California.

The racing Bettenhausens of Tunley

Park, Gary and Merle, will also be participants this Friday. Gary is a midget and sprint car star who just this year has managed to break into the big car division; Merle has been a top ten USAC midget pilot for the entire 1969 campaign.

Veteran sportsman pilot Ed Ferrell of Clarendon Hills, who last week pushed pacesetter Lee Byers of Chicago, out of first place, will lead a field of more than 50 sportsman drivers this Saturday and Sunday, August 23 and 24, in two 10-lap racing cards spotlighting 25-lap main events each night. Saturday's show begins at 8:30 p.m. while Sunday's quick-moving program starts at 8 p.m. Time trials precede the opening race by one hour.

Santa Fe Speedway presents regular stock car cards each Saturday and Sunday night throughout the racing season. On Saturday night, August 31, the extra-special marathon "Santa Fe 150" will be presented. Motorcycle races are held every Wednesday at Santa Fe Speedway.

Deluge Ends Title Drought

A ten-year drought ended for the Medinah Little League Cubs, and it ended in a deluge of championships, team and individual honors.

First Medinah whipped Glen Ellyn 6-4 for title number one.

The following day they captured their first Brookwood League pennant, ripping the Wood Dale Lions 6-1.

A week later the Cubs downed the Roselle Dodgers 4-2 for the championship, Tab Rand hurling a two-hitter. Other victims of the Medinah surge this year were the Bensenville All-Stars who fell 13-10 and the Elk Grove All-Stars who wound up on the short end of a 7-6 battle with the Cubs. Medinah's overall record for 1969 was 28-5.

In the championship victory over Roselle, Rand had a not-hitter with two outs in the sixth when the first baseman pulled his foot off the base too soon allowing a runner to reach. Roselle's pitcher, Anderson, followed with a home run.

The success of Medinah's sparkling season can be traced to the tight infield of Larry Zoltek at third, Tom Pauly at short, Jim Dastice at second, Pete Shellcross at first, and Tom Dudek behind the plate, plus the scaback outfield of Mark Slesick in center, Joe Sanzeri in right, and Bryant Holper in left.

Manager of the team was Joe Rand, coach Bob Slesick, and president of the Medinah Athletic Organization George Brinkman.

Women Show Their Pets

Like Mistress, Like Dog!

by MONICA WILCH

Maybe you don't respond to failure by lowering your ears or to joy by licking a friend's face, but you probably have more in common with your canine pet than you realize!

Aside from certain amusing physical resemblances that are sometimes apparent between master and charge, women at the Northwest Obedience Club's dog trials Sunday agreed that a dog's personality often reflects his owner's.

For instance, Mrs. Beverly Wooldridge of Prospect Heights and Mrs. Kay Kleiner of Arlington Heights both own Dalmatians, and they characterize these large, spotted creatures as "outgoing" and "friendly." Likewise, the two women themselves are very personable and extroverted.

Mrs. WOOLDRIDGE, who has had dogs for seven years, originally bought one for a pet, and then became interested in dog shows through friends. Her first dog was a chihuahua, but she said "it was too little; the kids dropped it and broke its leg." So she went to bigger dogs.

The Wooldridges also had a cat "until the third dog. Then the cat ran away!"

According to Mrs. Wooldridge, Dalmatians "work with spirit, and they're happy and quick." She considers them a "beautiful and flashy" dog, and, remembering our discussion of similarities between dogs and masters, laughingly added that she herself likes to "dress in flashy clothes."

SINCE DALMATIANS from early days in England were associated with fire houses — "Every decent fire house has one!" — Mrs. Wooldridge named her dogs Flamboyant Flame, Tremendous Torch, and Brilliant Blaze.

As we sat talking, the passing scene continued to add credence to the "theory of likeness" — a fuzzy-haired woman with a poodle, a tall slender girl with an afghan, a paunchy man with a basset hound!

The challenge of training a dog and showing how well he can do is the major lure of dog shows for many people, including Mrs. Thelma Ross, whose husband is the president of the club.

Mrs. Ross has owned shepherds, poodles, schnauzers and golden retrievers for over 20 years. She, too, notes distinct differences of personality in dogs.

"POODLES ARE WILLING to please; Irish setters, schnauzers and dobermans have very strong personalities; sheep dogs are timid, often shying from the judge."

She adds that "how well a dog does in a show depends on his feelings at the time."

Mrs. Josephine Murphy of Hoffman Estates describes her five Irish setters as "happy, independent, big juvenile delinquents!" She says they "want to do their own thing."

She has had champion Paddy, Casey, Blazer, Brigitte and Ginger for about eight years and says "the more I train them the worse they get!"

Lest the dogs be cast in a bad light, it should be explained that Mrs. Murphy was speaking in terms of training technique.

"MOST DOGS GET BORED doing the same thing over and over," she said, "so it is often better to work with them only once a week, after they have the basics."

Sue Holste of Elk Grove Village, who shows German shepherds, elaborated on the art of training a dog. "You start with sitting and lying down," she said, "using commands and pushing them down."

Eventually, the dogs must respond only to signals, without a spoken command or vice versa. And, of course, the events get more difficult; advanced dogs must jump hurdles, retrieve by scent, etc.

Sue believes that shepherds and poodles are the most intelligent of the dogs commonly shown. "Shepherds think," she says. "If my dog is chasing me around a table, he won't just keep following me; he'll stop, and then come around the other way. They don't act by rote, but figure things out."

SHE ADDS THAT HER dogs sometimes realize when they have goofed in a show, and "their ears go down."

Are show dogs much different from family pets?

Most show dogs double as pets at home and, according to many owners, make better pets.

"It's like having a child learn manners," said Sally Schinberg of Niles, who trains poodles. Mrs. Wooldridge also agreed that show dogs "are better trained, better groomed and have better health."

Mrs. Ross pointed out that these dogs are better around people. "They learn how to get along with people," she said.

Could this mean that training dogs makes them more LIKE people? Or does it work the other way around?!

You may refute the personality hypothesis, and reject the appearance theory, but I heard a lady command her toy poodle to jump the hurdle in a high, piercing voice that sounded for all the world like a bark!

NOTICE ANY resemblance between this pert, short-haired miss and her perky little Cairn terriers? Nine breeds of terriers were entered in the show.

PERTLY POSED by a slender mistress, this graceful German Shepherd takes a peek at smaller contender, while the little poodle perches safely in his owner's arms. The Shepherd was second, highest scoring dog in the show.

Eileen Hildebrandt

Christine Turner

Constance Gondek

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Broberg, 1129 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Linda Lee Broberg, to Dennis James Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Dunn, 847 E. Pratt, Palatine. A summer 1970 wedding is planned.

Miss Broberg, a '67 graduate of Wheeling High School, is now a junior at Illinois State University majoring in mathematics. Her fiancé, a '67 graduate of St. Viator High School, attended the University of Illinois as a freshman and then transferred to Illinois State University where he is a junior majoring in physics.

Arlington Heights residents, the H. J. Hildebrandts, 410 E. Hawthorne, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eileen Marie Hildebrandt, to James Edward Calvin Jr., son of the J. E. Calvins, 1027 Mallard Drive, Palatine. No wedding date has been set.

Miss Hildebrandt, a '67 graduate of Arlington High School, is employed by Sinclair-Atlantic Richfield Co. Mr. Calvin, a '65 graduate of Prospect High School, will receive his bachelor of science degree in applied sciences this fall at Western Illinois University.

Miss Christine Turner's engagement and approaching marriage to Brian McIntosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McIntosh of Elk Grove Village, are announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Youngquist of Palatine. The wedding is to take place Sept. 6.

Miss Turner, a '68 graduate of Fremd High School, is employed by Morse Chain Borg Warner Corp. in Elk Grove. The groom, a '65 graduate of Forest View High School, also attended Whitewater State University. He is now employed by General Finance Corp. in Hillside, Ill.

A June 6, 1970 wedding is planned by Miss Constance Deborah Gondek and her fiancé, Robert Gordon Butcher, son of the Howard Butchers, 921 N. Beverly Lane, Arlington Heights. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Miss Gondek's parents, the Robert F. Gondeks, 224 S. Prindle, Arlington Heights.

A graduate of Prospect High School, Miss Gondek is employed by Zayre's in Palatine. Mr. Butcher, a graduate of Arlington High School, is also a '69 graduate of Harper College. He is also employed by Zayre's in Palatine, and in the fall he will be attending Northern Illinois University as a junior.

The Potting Shed

by MARY B. GOOD

The back-to-nature boom — revival of interest in hunting, camping, fishing — attests to the basic need that every man must feel he is capable of going it alone.

While few of us will ever face living off the land out of necessity, it's nice to know bounty is still there for the taking, if we recognize it.

Consider the eatables available in the fields and maybe even right in your own back yard.

Few people are aware of the value of the Hopa ornamental crabapple, which produces a royal jelly. Spiced Hopa Crab goes great as a condiment or garnish with meat or cold lunches.

ARROWHEAD TUBERS (wapato) have a distinctive flavor many naturalists prefer to the potato, and on camping trips fried wapato and fresh fish tweak the taste buds. Salad of arrowhead tubers boiled and peeled, mayonnaise, onions, hard-boiled eggs, and dill pickles is a mock potato salad with zip.

For a gourmet treat, peeled tubers of Jerusalem artichokes can be set around a roast of beef and cooked in the gravy. Many folks enjoy them simply boiled and mashed, oozing with butter. We've even heard of an artichoke chignon pie, in graham cracker crust and meringue, which didn't win a Pillsbury Bake-off, but elicits oohs and aahs from its creator Euell Gibbons, author of "Stalking the Wild Asparagus."

Wild day lilies offer tiny tubers which can be roasted and eaten like nuts or fried in a thick egg batter like corn dogs. The sweet birch tree yields sirup, which can be used with cattail pollen pancakes for breakfast.

ROOT OF OUR COMMON great burdock is sold in Chicago's Chinatown under the name "wild gobo." When purchased, burdock is a great culinary treat, but few people appreciate the luxury of foraging for something for nothing. Some say burdock is an aphrodisiac, but we do know it makes a good vegetable when picked at the right stage and cooked correctly. (Boiled long and hard in two waters with soda, butter and salt.)

Club women know nasturtium (watercress) as a salad, garnish and filling for bridge party sandwiches.

It's a bit late in the season for chicory salad, but know it next spring by its three-foot, loosely-branched stalk, bearing bright blue flowers and slender, sparingly tooled leaves. You can't miss it growing along the tracks of the Chicago and North Western Railway.

IF YOU'VE EVER tried the munchy dandelion and decided it was terrible, chances are you didn't dig the very young, tender leaves. (That's as bad as horse corn.) Crown of dandelion with a little salt, a pinch of sugar, chopped onion, cider vinegar and hot bacon bits with slices of hard-boiled eggs is a Pennsylvania Dutch favorite.

Dried mulberries are a tasty substitute for raisins, currants or dried prunes in cookies, puddings and other desserts. And what's wrong with the white or purplish berries fresh from the tree?

There are few better wild potteries than pigweed (or lamb's quarters, if you have a delicate condition). This is related to the spinach family. Pigweed is best blanched, then frozen rather than canned, for winter use.

THE SUCCULENT PURSLANE has been savored in Asia for thousands of years and coveted in Europe markets as an extra special vegetable. What makes it no more than a garden pest here is strictly a fine line in human food preferences according to environment. The pinched-off leafy tops can be used raw, cooked, pickled or frozen. Purslane has a fatty quality which can be eliminated by turning out a casserole dish of egg, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and purslane.

As Uncle Sam and now the state of Illinois take a bigger bite out of your paycheck, there's always the option of living off the land while it lasts.

Hubbies Treated By Area Juniors

Palatine Junior Woman's Club invited their husbands to participate with them in a 2-ball golf foursome last Sunday at Thunderbird Country Club, Barrington. Buffet dinner and dancing followed the nine holes of golf.

Mrs. George Truckenmiller and Fred Wollenberg received trophies for first place low net score. The trophies will be kept until next year's 2-ball foursome golf outing, and then passed on to the new winners.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ronald Dudek and Bill Heise for second place low net score, and to Mrs. Bill Heise and Ronald Dudek for third place low net score. Also receiving prizes were low gross score winners, Mrs. David Mojonner Jr. and Paul Johnson.

Homemakers To Meet

Palatine Unit of Cook County Homemakers will meet Tuesday, Sept. 9, in the basement meeting room of the local Federal Savings and Loan building.

Members interested in displaying handmade items for the annual district craft show on Sept. 23 in Arlington Heights are asked to contact the craft committee for details on entries.

Mrs. D. Ryden was host to the unit's annual summer picnic which was a Hawaiian luau.

Kid's Korner TABLE TOP POOL

by Marilyn Hallman

On a rainy day, try a game of table top pool. Tape two or three paper cups to each side of a kitchen or card table. The top edge of each cup should be just a bit below the top edge of the table. Each player chooses a different set of markers, such as buttons, beans, bottle caps, or poker chips. All markers are placed in the center of the table.

Alternating turns, each player tries to flick one of his markers into a cup with his thumb and forefinger. Only one flick to a turn! Any marker falling off the table is returned to the center. First player to sink all his markers in a cup wins.

Storkfeathers

Twin Boys Join the Nolan Family

"Which one are you?" may become a familiar phrase around the Richard Nolan home. Mrs. Nolan gave birth to identical twin boys Aug. 16 in Holy Family Hospital. The Nolans live at 2612 Grouse, Rolling Meadows.

Douglas, who weighed 4 pounds 5 ounces and Thomas, 3 pounds 9 ounces, were nine-month babies but are doing well in the hospital. Their proud papa says they will probably be coming home within the next week.

They will join two other brothers, Daniel, 8, and Tommy, 5, as well as sister Kathleen, 7. Grandparents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. William Buffleben and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nolan, all of Chicago.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

Leif Robert Heggem is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Heggem of 228 N. Babcock, Palatine. Born Aug. 7, he weighed 7 pounds 13½ ounces. Grandparents of the baby are Mr. and Mrs. J. Famer Heggem, and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sotell, all of Denver, Col.

Robert Judd Schwandner Jr. arrived Aug. 11 weighing 6 pounds 13 ounces. He is the first boy for Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Schwandner, 208 S. William, Mount Prospect. Robert's sisters are Kim, 4, and Kelly, 2. Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCullough of Chicago and the Joe Schwandners of Washington, Ind. are the grandparents.

Shane Evan Spontangle is the first child for Mr. and Mrs. Evan A. Spontangle, 4704 Arbor Drive, Rolling Meadows. The 8 pound 9 ounce baby arrived Aug. 6. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Goshin and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Weaver of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Brennan Robert Orndorff, son of the Robert L. Orndorffs, 2406 Algonquin Road, Rolling Meadows, arrived Aug. 12 weighing 8 pounds 13 ounces. Grandparents of the new baby and Logan, 2½, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Orndorff of Danville, Ky., and the J. B. McDevitts of Upper Darby, Pa.

Sherry Lynn Legh-Page, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Legh-Page, 208 W. Wilson, Palatine, arrived Aug. 17 weighing 8 pounds 12 ounces. She is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. George Legh-Page of Arlington Heights and the Horst Dettmanns of Palatine.

Amie Kristen Sweet is the firstborn for Mr. and Mrs. Dieter S. Sweet, 3404 Bobolink, Rolling Meadows. The 7 pound 14½ ounce baby arrived Aug. 9. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Roberts of Rolling Meadows and the R. H. Sweets of Bradford, N.H. Among the great-grandparents is Mrs. R. Roberts of Prospect Heights.

Dawn Marie Nykiel was an Aug. 13 arrival. She weighed 7 pounds 13 ounces. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Nykiel, 2764 Eton Ct., Palatine. Mr. and Mrs. John Nykiel of Chicago and the Joseph Mazurs of Palatine are the grandparents.

Troy David Rusch makes it two children for the David P. Rusch family, 4655 Kirsch Road, Rolling Meadows. Troy weighed 7 pounds one ounce at birth Aug. 8. His sister, Tammy, is 2 years old. Grandparents are Mrs. Clem Pack and the Karl Rusches, all of Neenah, Wis.

Jonathan Stevens Coffield has joined two sisters, Caroline Kaye, 7, and Alison Jayne, 3, in the John Earl Coffield home at 833 N. Princeton Ave., Arlington Heights. Born Aug. 17, Jonathan weighed 7 pounds 4½ ounces. Grandparents are the Earl John Coffields of Naperville and Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens of Barnoldswick, England.

Steven Michael Bessemer, 7 pound son of the Ronald Bessemers, 628 N. Arlington Road, Palatine, was born Aug. 18, a brother for Matthew, 3, and Laura, 14 months. He is another grandson for the Gayl Harrods of Mohne and the Gottlieb Bessemers of Palatine.

Amy Jean Stewart is the second daughter and fifth child for Mr. and Mrs. Allen V. Stewart, 83 Brantwood West, Elk Grove Village. She was born Aug. 16 and weighed 7 pounds 8½ ounces. Jim, 14, Jeff, 13, and Kevin, 11, are Amy's brothers. Eight-year-old Ellen is her sister. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stewart of Blue Island and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weed of Chicago are the grandparents of the children.

Wesley Gerald Dixon is the son of the Wesley Dixons, 1011 S. Quentin Road, Palatine. Born Aug. 18, the baby weighed 7 pounds. He is the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Howell and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Dixon, all of Palatine.

ST. ALEXIUS

Paul Edward Frisch is a new brother for Julie, 5. The 8 pound 9 ounce baby arrived Aug. 11 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frisch, 1380 Cumberland Circle West, Elk Grove Village. Grandparents are the Edward Frisches of Park Ridge and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Geyer of Chicago.

MEMORIAL DUPAGE

Neal Sandstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Sandstrom, 4N512 Briar Lane, Bensenville, arrived Aug. 8 weighing 8 pounds. He joins Mark, 6, and John, 5½, in the Sandstrom household. Grandmothers are Mrs. Harry Born of Chicago and Mrs. John Sandstrom of Torrence, Calif.

OTHER HOSPITALS

The Otto Fest is the newborn daughter of the Otto Fests, 2006 Avon Lane, Arlington Heights. Born Aug. 8, weighing 6 pounds 4 ounces, in Gottlieb Memorial Hospital, the baby is a sister for Otto, who is 2. Grandparents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Gauregui and Mrs. Imelda Fest, all of Mexico City.

Jennifer Lynn Wilson is a second grandchild for both the A. Gordon Wilsons and the Charles McClellans of Mount Prospect. She was born Aug. 5 to Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Wilson of Eau Gallie, Fla., and weighed 7 pounds 1 ounce. Jennifer has a brother, Andrew, who is 2½. Their mother is the former Linda McClellan of Mount Prospect.

He Makes Poetry of Metal

by MARTHA SHERWOOD

He describes himself as a retired poet, but the poet in him is being reborn in metals rather than in words.

Harold Kerr's new studio at 1340 W. Dundee displays his diverse talents in jewelry, flatware, lapidary and the abstract forms. He works in stainless steel, brass and gold but prefers the traditional bronze for its "historical significance." Specifically, the subject of a piece of sculpture suggests the metal to be used.

"Sculpturing is less painful than poetry," explains Kerr. "People buy it, and it has a wider audience."

KERR'S AUDIENCE IS international. His work resides in Israel, Japan, Canada and throughout the United States. Locally, many large and significant works are on display at the Shalom Memorial Park in Palatine. Randhurst, the Palatine National Bank and Evanston High School are among the many institutions and industries which have commissioned his creations.

He is currently working on a 17-foot high heroic piece for the Temple Emanuel in Chicago. Also, in the planning stage is a dictionary of art terms. "So everybody can be a critic," he explains.

Although much of his work is "Old Testament abstract," the intent of the smaller pieces on display at his studio range from humorous to nature studies. Most intriguing were a bronze knot and ball and a three dimensional stainless-steel comma — an executive pacifier that rocked when set on its rounded edge.

Found objects such as water eroded stones and tableware were transformed into Oriental children or finger sucking caricatures, respectively.

SKETCHING ON A blackboard, Kerr works in what he describes as the best equipped sculptor's studio in the Midwest. His equipment ranges from the metal sculptor's necessary anvil ("I'm a glorified blacksmith," he jests) to a kiln for setting his work in enamels. Unlike some, whose work is merely the conception of a piece, Kerr does his own castings.

The son of a painter and himself in arts and crafts since the age of sixteen, Kerr is primarily a self-educated artist. "Where did I study?" he asks rhetorically, "Everywhere I went."

Statements in themselves, Kerr feels some pieces of sculpture do not require titles. If the purchaser wants it named it will cost more, he implies with a grin.

THE STORY BEHIND a work, however, is free. Such is the case of a pair of defective bomb fuses which had been destined for Vietnam. Through the "judicious use of heat and the welding torch" they were transformed into something called "The Surgeons." To me they appeared comic, like a pair of silver penguins.

Kerr is an individual with an eight day week. He explains his hours as "If the lights are on, I'm open."

The work of Harold Kerr is priced between $50 and $4,000. It can be set on a coffee table or on the stump of a dead tree outside a picture window. His work is original and often moving. He is still a poet.

THE PADDOCK BILLBOARD

Theatre Guild To See 'Our Town'

Des Plaines Theatre Guild members and guests will see a performance of Thornton Wilder's classic American drama, "Our Town," at the August membership meeting.

The program, open to anyone interested in theatre, whether a member of the group or not, will be held at 8 p.m. on Wednesday at Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., in Des Plaines.

The cast is composed of a group mainly from Theatre First of Chicago, which toured Europe for three weeks in July, under the direction of Tom Ventriss, who also directs the play.

NANCY RAUS, of Des Plaines, board member and ticket chairman for Des Plaines Theatre Guild, takes the leading role of the Stagemanager, while another DPTG actress, Jackie Martin of Park Ridge, appears in the character role of Mrs. Soames.

Other leading players in the "Our Town" cast include Tom Ventriss as Dr. Gibbs, Tausca McClintock as Mrs. Gibbs, Dick Schultz as Editor Webb, Joanne Notz as Mrs. Webb, and Bill and Pat Mages as the romantic leads, George Gibbs and Emily Webb.

Tom Ventriss, familiar as a director of numerous plays for DPTG, and as the star of last season's closing comedy, "The Odd Couple," is also directing "A Funny Thing."

MEMBERSHIP IN Des Plaines Theatre Guild is open to anyone in the area, and season subscriptions for the five productions of 1969-70 will be available at the meeting on Aug. 27.

Members may see, in addition to "A Funny Thing Happened" (the Guild's first musical opening Sept. 12 for four week-ends), "Summer and Smoke," in November, "Barefoot In The Park" in January, "Wait Until Dark," next March, and "Tom Jones" in May.

JO MORRISON plays the role of Abby Dalton's sister in "Love in E-Flat" at Pheasant Run Playhouse through Monday, Sept. 1. The Monday performance, a special for Labor Day, will begin at 7:30, with dinner at 5:30. Performances are presented nightly Tuesday through Friday at 8:30, Saturdays at 6:30 and 10:50, and Sunday at 7:30. Doors open for dinner two hours before curtain time.

Around the Corner

Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society officials announced this week that they have added the celebrated musical, "Your Own Thing," as the final selection in the TG-ATS 1969-70 10-Attraction Subscription Series in Chicago.

A zany, swinging, off-beat rock version of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," this award-winning show, now in its second year in New York, continues to draw capacity audiences there, as well as in the major capitals of the world where it is playing.

The roster of exciting attractions on the series also includes the all-new production of "Hello, Dolly!" starring Pearl Bailey; "I Do! I Do!", starring Phil Ford and Mum Hines; "Hau," "George M!", "Forty Carats," starring Barbara Rush, "The Great White Hope," starring Brock Peters; "Hadrian VII," starring Hume Cronyn; "Spofford," starring Hans Conried; and "The Price," drama by Pulitzer Prize author Arthur Miller, starring Shepperd Strudwick.

Interested theatre-goers are urged to contact Mrs. Helen Connors, local TG-ATS Subscription Secretary, Room 1920, 188 W. Randolph St., ST 2-2280.

Canoe handling techniques are an important part of lifesaving in the Lions Pool course.

Reaching assists are one aspect of water safety practiced by every student in lifesaving.

They Could Save You!

A course in lifesaving is something you may never have to use, but if you do, it could be a matter of life or death for a friend.

The American Red Cross taught 87 students the basic techniques of lifesaving and water safety at Lions Park Pool in Elk Grove Village this summer, under a variety of conditions, from lakes to pools.

Mike Tokarv, a course instructor, said the enrollment this year was 10 times higher than it has been in the past. Most of the students, 11 to 15-year-olds, are from Elk Grove.

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to make long-distance rescues by use of a canoe, break strangle-holds and carry drowning persons to shore and revive them through mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

... You Could Save Lives Too: That's Goal

by JUDY COVELLI

If Lions Pool instructors in Elk Grove Village have anything to do with it, the motto "every swimmer a lifesaver" will hold true.

Pool manager Mike Tokarv and assistant manager Mary DeMarco, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, have been instructing a lifesaving course open to youth in the northern Illinois area this summer. Close to nine times the normal enrollment, or 87 students, are participating.

A combination of endurance and skill seem to be required for admittance.

Students must be able to swim a quarter mile, surface dive and tread water just to get in.

The course is held every Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; it began Aug. 2.

IT IS PART OF a revamped water safety instruction program provided by the Red Cross. "We are trying to contact all the people in northern Cook County," said Mrs. Robert Croll, Red Cross water safety volunteer.

According to Mrs. Croll, more than 900 water safety instructors are registered in northern Cook County alone. They are running an all-out campaign to stress personal safety for every swimmer.

The park district-sponsored course is free to persons 11 and older in northern Illinois. Youngsters 11 years old or in the seventh grade are eligible for the junior lifesaving course and those 15 years old or in the 11th grade are eligible for the senior course.

ACCORDING TO Tokarv, the junior and senior courses had to be combined this year because of the large turnout. The senior course runs 17 hours and the junior course runs 15 hours.

When finished with the course, junior lifesavers should be able to swim 12 laps of the pool and seniors 16 laps. Other testing is conducted on an individual basis.

"It's not cut and dried. We set up guidelines and see how they cope with situations. They are evaluated on their thinking," Tokarv explained.

Personal safety, the first unit taught, is stressed throughout the course. "They may not all become lifeguards, but we want them all to be able to handle themselves in the water," Tokarv said.

THE WHOLE COURSE can be summed up by "reach, throw, row, tow and go" according to the instructors, but a three-page typed lesson sheet prepared for each session verifies that it's not as easy as all that.

"It's an extremely well set up program," Mrs. Croll said, "and the enthusiasm of the students makes it appear worthwhile."

Explaining the course in more detail, Tokarv and DeMarco said students first have to learn to make a reaching assist to a victim, a process involving personal contact.

The second type of rescue is made by throwing a rope, board or anything that floats.

A third rescue method they learn is with the use of small crafts. In this unit, each student practices with a canoe. Fourth, the students are taught to swim carrying objects to rescue the victim; fifth, they learn how to make personal contact and bring victims ashore without endangering their own lives.

Anthony's of 'New Breed'

John H. Anthony, dean of faculty at College of DuPage, Glen Ellyn, is one of the "new breed" of young educators.

At 32, he is responsible for the college's instructional program, including a faculty of 200 full-time and about 150 part-time instructors.

Anthony, equally at home in a seminar on psychology, which he teaches, or as a cleanup hitter at a faculty softball game, said the student issue of relevancy in college courses is "here to stay." And he's all for it. "I think students mean by relevancy, material that is directly applicable to today's experience. In most areas, and especially the social sciences, instruction can and, in fact, must be relevant to today's societal problems," he said.

"Education can be made relevant without sacrificing the academic discipline. Relevancy need not affect content; it will however, affect the method or approach to teaching, requiring a greater degree of 'student centeredness' and less subject matter orientation."

ANTHONY SAID additional technology and increased educational research in teaching techniques are making the instructor less and less an information giver. "His role is changing to that of an interacting force, a stimulator or a resource person," he said.

Because College of DuPage is a community college, it offers basic courses for transfers to four-year institutions and two-year occupational programs leading to an associate degree.

Students transferring from College of DuPage to four-year institutions are obtaining grade point averages higher than the average community college transfer student, college officials said.

In the occupational program, Anthony said, "I don't think there is any person who has graduated from here who hasn't landed a job. In fact, we actually have more jobs than students in data processing and electronics. Unfortunately in most occupational areas the demand far exceeds the supply.

"HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS are oriented to a baccalaureate degree, but many would probably be better off with occupational programs," he said. Anthony said the college now offers over 50 pre-baccalaureate options and over 30 specialized programs in technical-occupational education.

Other developments at the College include the organization of a developmental learning laboratory to handle individual learning problems in communications, study skills and mathematics and the expansion of the college's continuing education program geared for adults in most of the high schools throughout the district.

Anthony was named dean of faculty in July, 1968, after serving the first year at the college as associate dean of arts. He was formerly dean of students and dean of instruction at Peirce Junior College, Philadelphia.

Firemen Need More Than Guts

Years ago, all a suburban fireman needed was "a fire engine, hydrant, 2½-inch hose, guts and strength."

Today he needs specialized training in everything from plastics chemistry to building code laws. In fact, whoever supposed, even in recent years, that volunteer firemen in western suburbs might have to fight a high-rise fire?

That's how Elmhurst Fire Chief James Samuelson warms up in describing why an occupational program in fire science at College of DuPage has been a boon to the area.

Samuelson, who heads the college's advisory committee on fire science, believes so strongly in it that he has convinced the Elmhurst City Council to pay tuition for firemen who want to get an associate degree. He feels the idea will spread widely through the district.

"THE SUDDEN increase in suburban development has posed the biggest fire problem," he says. "I don't know where we would be without volunteer firemen, but let's face it — it's getting harder to get volunteer response."

Samuelson says it's just a matter of time before small areas are consolidated into larger ones for fire protection. "We will need good men, and College of DuPage's program can supply them. College programs for firemen are long overdue."

Samuelson, a fireman for 28 years, who worked at Moline and Sterling, Ill., before coming to Elmhurst 2½ years ago, envisions the day when a typical fireman will be paid more if he has an associate degree for two years of study. He says salaries for firemen, long too low, are gradually rising to a point where departments can attract good personnel. But it is education that will change the image of the fireman, he says.

"Education makes the difference," he says. "We let a 25 or 30-year old college graduate fly a million-dollar plane with 100 passengers aboard, and nobody thinks anything about it. But can you imagine a fire chief only 25 or 30 with maybe only eight or nine years experience heading a department in a large city? However, if you put a college degree behind the young man's name, then, why not?"

"EDUCATION HELPS bring young men into higher echelons, and we need young men in administrative capacity. And I think we're going to get them. College of DuPage is going to upgrade and increase firemen's education on a level unknown here before. I say it's all to the good," he says.

The fire science program at the college began in fall 1968, with an enrollment of 53. Last spring quarter the enrollment had jumped to 96.

Samuelson said the area is fortunate to have Charles L. Roblee, pioneer fire science educator, to head the fire science program. "He taught me," recalls Samuelson.

Cash Supply Rise

The cashless society isn't here yet! The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its recent monthly bulletin noted that there is $222 in paper currency in circulation for each person in the United States. In addition, each person has $29 in coins available for his needs.

The bank reported that present levels of currency and coin are well above those of earlier years. In 1938, both currency and coin averaged $40.27 per person. By the end of World War II the supply had risen to $181.86, and today is at the $251 level. What are the factors influencing the supply of "cash" at a time when the trend is toward "cashlessness" in our financial dealings?

In the past, the supplies of currency and coin have risen in times of war as a result of the disruptive influences of a wartime economy. Also, in periods of tax avoidance, black-market activity, and economic uncertainty — as in the 1930s when bank weaknesses were common — people tend to hold more of their assets in cash form.

At this time, the future outlook for the volume of cash and coin in use is influenced by two opposing factors. The threat of inflation and rising prices make added quantities of cash necessary for the same level of purchasing as before. On the other hand, the wide use of credit cards tends to lower the need for cash as credit buying is substituted for cash buying. Similarly, the wide and growing use of checking accounts by citizens around the nation is shifting much bill paying from cash to check — thus tending to lessen the need for cash.

Wolfe Is Elected

Edward F. X. Wolfe Jr.

Edward F. X. Wolfe Jr. has been elected president of United Card Co., Rolling Meadows, publisher of contemporary, humorous studio cards.

He succeeds Robert B. Koenig, founder of United, who continues as chairman of the board and active in the creative development of the company's products.

Wolfe had been executive vice president of United since joining the firm in February, 1968. Previously, he held several executive positions with the Gillette Co., and he served as an account executive and account supervisor in the New York and Chicago offices of the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency. He also has been president of his own company, Market-It International, a Chicago marketing consulting firm.

He is past president of Inverness Association and lives at 1949 Phasant Trail, Inverness, with his wife and five sons.

Bracki Promoted

Promotion of Kenneth A. Bracki of 408 S. Hatlen Ave., Mount Prospect, to chief application engineer of the Chicago region has been announced by D. A. Cameron, industrial sales vice president, Parker Hannifin Corp.

Bracki, concerned with hydraulic and pneumatic valves, pumps, cylinders and related products, joins the staff of D. A. Hastings, regional manager, Parker Hannifin sales office, 500 S. Wolf Road, Des Plaines.

Bracki came to Parker Hannifin in 1962 from Kepner Products Co., Summit. A native of Chicago, he holds an engineering degree from Illinois Institute of Technology and earned his master's degree there in 1966.

Labor Day Driving Tips

Labor Day weekend, last of the summer holidays, will lure almost 2 million people out of Chicago and onto the highways, according to the Chicago Motor Club-AAA.

Estimates from the club's touring department indicate 530,000 cars will carry 1,900,000 persons out of the metropolitan area for trips within a 350-mile radius of the city.

Departure estimates from the area are: Friday, Aug. 29, 300,000 cars; Saturday, Aug. 30, 170,000 cars, and Sunday, Aug. 31, 60,000 cars. Adding to the traffic load will be an estimated 185,000 cars moving within the Chicago metropolitan area each day of the weekend, including Labor Day.

Peak return traffic is expected between 4:30 and 9:30 p.m., Labor Day, when most of the 530,000 cars that left the area will be headed for home.

Gerald W. Cavanagh, motor club president, urged motorists to observe these "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" traffic safety tips:

—ALLOW PLENTY of time for the trip. Leave early and stop early for the night. This is one way to avoid heavy traffic and needless fatigue.

—On long expressway trips, stop at designated rest areas every 100 miles or so for a stretch and a refreshment break.

—Don't drink alcoholic beverages if you will be behind the wheel.

—Familiarize yourself with traffic regulations of the area you plan to visit and obey them.

—Enjoy the scenery, but don't neglect your driving.

—Make sure your car receives a mechanical check before you leave.

—Drive at a speed consistent with road and weather conditions, regardless of the posted speed limit, but do not exceed limits.

—Treat other motorists with courtesy and consideration.

Brown Marks 40 Years Service at Edison

Robert H. Brown

Robert H. Brown, 804 S. Main St., Mount Prospect, observed his 40th service anniversary with Commonwealth Edison Co. Aug. 13.

He started in 1929 with the customer accounts department, later worked in general and payroll accounting departments and is now staff accountant with the audit department.

Officer Elected At Citizens Bank

The election of Richard Jones as vice president of Citizens Bank and Trust Co. in Park Ridge was announced by Kermit E. Hundley, vice chairman of the board.

Jones, a resident of Oakton Street, Arlington Heights, will be responsible for trust administration. He was previously associated with the former Livestock National Bank of Chicago, Central National Bank in Chicago and the Rock Island Bank and Trust Co., Rock Island.

In his most recent position Jones served as trust officer in charge of the trust department.

A native and long time resident of Oak Park, Jones is a graduate of Northwestern University, John Marshall Law School and the National Trust School. He is a member of the American and Illinois State Bar associations and the Legal Club of Chicago.

Candlewood Trace Nears Completion

Kassuba's Candlewood Trace, a new 256-unit apartment community in Arlington Heights, is nearing completion, and the first units are scheduled for occupancy the first week of September.

The construction of Candlewood Trace brings to 15 the number of suburban apartment communities developed by Kassuba Development Corp. in the Chicago area alone. According to the July issue of Professional Builder magazine, Kassuba is the nation's second largest builder.

The corporation, with headquarters in Palm Beach, Fla., and Trace communities in 51 cities across the country, has a Chicago divisional office headed by John R. Kronsoble, a Kassuba vice president.

KRONSNOBLE said that Candlewood Trace, at 1603 Windsor Drive, Arlington Heights, is ideally situated for families with children of school age, with several schools nearby.

There will be eight mansard-style buildings, each three stories high, set in 18 acres of landscaped grounds. An Olympic-size pool with diving board, equipped play areas for children, barbecue areas for adults and private parking areas will all be available at no extra charge to tenants.

All the buildings will have fully-carpeted hallways, separate heated laundry rooms, master color TV antennae and individual storage facilities. Particular attention has been paid to sound conditioning.

ually controlled by tenants. There will also be individually-controlled gas heating in all units.

The community will comprise 88 one-bedroom and 168 two-bedroom apartments, the latter with a selection of one and two bathrooms. All unfurnished, the apartments are equipped with wall-to-wall carpeting and drapery rods. Each unit has a private patio or balcony with sliding glass doors leading into a living room with separate wood-paneled dining area.

Closets are in all apartments. The kitchens are fully-equipped with appliances, including a 12-cubic-foot refrigerator, disposal, vent fan, gas range, walnut cabinets and counter space.

The bathrooms have full-tile baths, with built-in vanities and framed, mirrored medicine cabinets. The floors are ceramic-tiled.

Rentals run from $180 to $220 and $235 for the one bedroom/one bath, two bedroom—one bath and two bedroom/two bath apartments respectively. Models may be seen from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, from the beginning of September.

Use Ingenuity in Decorating

A challenge facing today's home decorator is to create a fresh looking home from an older house without spending a lot of money. With a tight budget, the task requires ingenuity.

If the home is 20 years or older, the decorator may be solving more than a re-furnishing problem if she begins with the heating system. According to the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council, the advances which have taken place in hydronic (modern hot water) heating, have given decorators' imaginations free rein. heat. Because baseboard panels never get too hot to the touch, draperies can be hung to floor length without fear of scorching.

It is in boiler design, said the council, that the change is even more dramatic. Today's boilers are trim and look like modern appliances. They can be installed anywhere, in closets, corners, or even in the middle of a family room. When they replace yesterday's massive boiler, there is usually enough room left over to create a playroom.

Despite their small size, the new boilers are more efficient than the older ones, and usually save enough in fuel consumption to almost pay for themselves, the council adds.

Sells Centex Land

Bennett and Kahnweiler has announced the sale of 17 acres of vacant land at the northwest corner of Chase Ave. and Lively Blvd. in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village, to an undisclosed purchaser. Total consideration was in excess of $500,000. Future plans will be announced.

The land was previously under option to Chicago Magnet Wire Co., whose main plant is located across the street from the property.

Robert A. Stone of Bennett and Kahnweiler represented the purchaser and Donald S. Jaffe of Kenroy Realtors represented the seller.

Artist Featured At Karnes Music

Erlindne Hareas will present an exclusive showing of her paintings and art objects at the Karnes Music Co., 9800 Milwaukee Avenue in Des Plaines.

The show, starting on Aug. 9, will continue through the remainder of August as part of the 23rd anniversary of the founding of the company.

Mrs. Hareas will display works in scenic oils, abstracts, pencil sketches and pastels. Her specialty is oil portraiture. Hand painted busts of famous composers, and other statues, models as well as wall plaques will be shown, many of which will be offered for sale.

She received her early training from her father, Earl Hoglund, an artist. She attended Boston and Roosevelt University. She continued her study at the Art Institute in Chicago and the Ray Vogue School of Art. She later studied at Guerre Lavignia in Paris and upon her return received a degree in photography oil from Kay Isacson. She spent the next eight years working at the Gaslight Club, doing portraits and painting for private shows and road shows.

The public is invited to view the art exhibit. There will be a free organ program featuring Craig Smith on Tuesday, Aug. 26 at 7:30 p.m. Miss Carmen Leerstang will give a piano concert on Wednesday, Aug. 27 at 7:30 p.m. The concert will feature the works of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin and Ginastera.

Mrs. Hareas will be painting in the store on Saturday, Aug. 23. She presented an oil portrait of the founder of the company, Marion Karnes, to him at a private party held Aug. 9.

Five days of new music materials clinics will be held for music educators starting Aug. 25. The schedule is as follows: band clinics, Monday, August 25, 9:30 to noon, conducted by Barbara Buehlman of Maine East; 1 to 3:30 p.m., conducted by Charles Groeling of Niles West Senior High; and at 7:30 p.m., Father Wiskirchen of Notre Dame High School.

New music materials for string teachers will be held Tuesday, Aug. 26; Thomas Wisniewski of the University of Illinois will conduct from 9:30 a.m. to noon. The afternoon session, 1 to 3:30 p.m. will be

GQ Names Center

Lauter's, in the Randhurst shopping center, Mount Prospect, has been designated a GQ Campus & Career Fashion Center by Gentlemen's Quarterly, the men's fashion magazine.

As a result of this designation, they will be listed in the September '69 issue of Gentlemen's Quarterly as "an outstanding retail store catering to the wardrobe needs of the ever-growing young men's market" and authorized to display the Campus & Career Fashion Center Seal in windows, newspaper ads and throughout the store.

Dedicated to the college and young professional man, Campus & Career is a special section in GQ's September issue covering the fall fashion scene for campus and townwear, plus helpful hints on good grooming and wardrobe planning.

Gentlemen's Quarterly honors stores with the Campus & Career Fashion Center designation each year at this time.

given by J. Fred Muller of Scherly and Roth.

Choral music clinics will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 27. The morning session, 9:30 to noon and the afternoon session from 1 to 3:30 p.m. will be conducted by Ralph Hunter of Manhattanville College.

Clinics for elementary music teachers will be held on Thursday, Aug. 28. Both in the morning, 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and the afternoon session, 1 to 3:30 p.m. Grace Nash will demonstrate her approach to classroom music education, the Orff method.

New materials clinics for keyboard will be held Friday, Aug. 29 at 9 a.m. to noon, conducted by Mark Nevin of Mills Publishers. The afternoon session from 1 to 3:30 p.m. will be conducted by Miss Diana Daggett, Educational consultant for the Karnes Music Co.

Music educators are invited to attend the free clinics and a complimentary luncheon will be served at noon on each clinic day. All sessions will be held in the auditorium at 9800 Milwaukee Ave.

Don't Wait for Proof of Age

Any person who does not have a birth certificate should take steps now to obtain evidence of his age rather than wait until he applies for Social Security benefits or needs proof of age for other reason, the Illinois State Bar Association said recently.

While a birth certificate is the most generally accepted proof of age, the ISBA said, persons whose births never were officially recorded can obtain other satisfactory evidence of date of birth. However, an individual should act before the trail grows cold, other records are lost or persons who might provide evidence are deceased.

The bar group said the Illinois native, if born prior to 1916, should ask the county clerk of the county in which he was born to search its records. If born after January 1, 1916, he should contact the State Registrar of Vital Records in Springfield and ask him to search his records. Such a search will be made for a $2 fee. If no record is found, the person will be given a form called "Delayed Record of Birth" with instructions for obtaining evidence of the date and place of birth.

Ordinarily, the ISBA said, at least two documents are required for the "Delayed Record of Birth," one of which may be an affidavit of personal knowledge. One document must provide proof of parentage and this same document and another, or two other documents, must provide proof of the date and place of birth. Any document submitted other than an affidavit, must be a public document created five or more years ago. The best proof of birth facts are documents created early in life, such as a baptismal certificate, record of entry into first grade, an insurance policy taken out early in life or an entry in the family Bible.

The completed form and documents must be forwarded to the State Registrar of Vital Records for his approval. If the "Delayed Record of Birth" is accepted by the State Registrar of Vital Records, the applicant will be notified and a copy of the accepted certificate will be sent to the county clerk of the county of birth. The applicant may then obtain a certified copy of the record from either the county clerk or the State Office of Vital Records. If it is not approved, the State Registrar is required by law to tell the applicant the reasons for this and to inform him that he may appeal the decision.

Although a birth certificate or "Delayed Record of Birth" (together with the documents used to obtain it) ordinarily will expedite one's application for Social Security benefits, the government will accept other proof of age. This could include school, employment, military service records or census records, naturalization papers, passport, marriage certificate, and so on.

The ISBA said one Social Security applicant established his age by means of a photograph of his mother's tombstone. Since she had died in childbirth, the date of death on the tombstone was his date of birth.

Exceeded Sales Mark

Wayne Johnson

Terence A. Bolger of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, Inc. in Elk Grove Village has announced that Wayne Johnson has exceeded the million dollar sales mark in the first 7 months of this year.

Johnson has been associated with Bolger Realtors for the past two years. This will be his second consecutive year as a member of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards Million Dollar Sales Club.

This is the first time in the history of T. A. Bolger Realtors that a salesman has achieved this record in a 7 months period.

Realtors Rap House Vote

Constriction of the resale market for rental housing by making investment in such real estate less attractive would occur if the Senate accepts two sections of the House-passed tax reform measure, according to the president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

John O. McCabe explained that the House version of the bill would limit the maximum rate of depreciation on existing property to straight-line depreciation, and a second provision would recapture as ordinary income all depreciation taken in excess of the straight-line method.

"The prediction that such changes will result in a lessening of investment in rental housing comes from the best possible source — the Department of Housing and Urban Development," McCabe said.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors is a member, will join with HUD in opposing these changes, he said.

Help in Filing Medicare Claims

Those under Medicare have been reminded by Arthur Hutchison, district manager of the Northwest Social Security office, that the services of his office are available to anyone who needs assistance in filing a claim for reimbursement under Medicare.

"A form that is not properly filled out may cause undue delay in processing," Hutchison said. He counted among common mistakes the omitting of the full claim number, failing to send in medical statements with the claim form, putting insufficient information on the receipts and failing to sign the Medicare claim form.

"Older persons should not be reluctant to seek help from the local office. Our personnel are trained to answer questions and to help Medicare beneficiaries file claims for repayment," Hutchison said.

William J. Busse, president and chairman of the board of the Mount Prospect State Bank, recently announced the appointment of Pearl Lindstrom of Arlington Heights as assistant cashier in the customer service department.

Mrs. Lindstrom is a graduate of Moser Business College and has attended classes at the American Institute of Banking in Chicago. She joined the Mount Prospect State Bank in 1952 and since that time has served in all operational departments of the bank.

"Rental housing is in short supply, vacancy rates are below 1 per cent in our largest cities, inflation and tight money are cutting off the supply of new rental housing. With such a situation, and with a stated national goal of providing adequate housing for all Americans, we feel it is ironic that the House should have passed a measure which will lessen the amount of private capital invested in rental housing," McCabe explained.

"Our association recognizes the need for tax reform and has added its support to several proposals to eliminate inequities. We do not feel, however, that 'reform' is the proper word for proposals which will lessen the upgrading of the nation's housing inventory."

"AT PRESENT MOST rental housing production in this country depends upon private investment. Under our present system, the major incentive for private investment in rental housing instead of in some other area depends upon the stimulus of accelerated depreciation and favorable capital gains treatment on resale," McCabe said.

"Housing," McCabe said, "is just part of the problem. We must achieve a healthy economic environment in the city so that families of moderate means are able to take advantage of new housing resources."

"Our association will emphasize these points when it testifies before the Senate Finance Committee, which will begin its hearings on the tax-reform measure shortly. We hope others who are anxious for improvement of life in our urban areas will contact members of the Senate Finance Committee, U. S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20515, and let them know of the serious adverse effects of the three House proposals," McCabe said.

INDUSTRIAL MINI-PARK on Tonne Road, Elk Grove Village, is now under construction by the general contracting firm of D. J. Rintz & Co. There will be four buildings in the development, designed by Kenneth H. Childers. Rintz envisions several mini industrial parks being developed by his company in the future which are planned to make the most efficient use of compact land areas.

Builds Mini-Park

The first industrial mini-park in the area is now under construction in Elk Grove Village.

Planned by general contractor developer, Denis Rintz, the project is being built by D. J. Rintz & Co. There will be four buildings in the development, ranging in size from 8,000 square feet to 16,000 square feet. Kenneth H. Childers is the architect.

The industrial mini-park is under construction on a 2½-acre tract on Tonne Road, west of Route 83. The project will be constructed in record time under the Rintz plan of 50,000 square feet within a hundred days to meet space needs of waiting tenants.

Bennett & Kahnweiler is the broker in the transaction. B. B. Cohen arranged financing, placed at approximately $500,000.

New concepts in ease of traffic handling and access to the various buildings and land planning to eliminate the requirement of exterior maintenance, along with flexibility for tenant space requirements are being emphasized in the project to be known as the Tonne Road Industrial Development, according to Rintz. Objectionable truck traffic from the largest building will be kept in a truck court, not visible from the street.

The mini-park concept is planned to make the most efficient industrial use of compact land areas. Rintz envisions several mini industrial parks being developed and constructed by his firm in the future.

Motorola Is Honored For Public Affairs

Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., headquartered in Schaumburg, was honored recently for the best continuing public affairs program in the Chicago area.

The program, Community Radio Watch, is a national citizen action program for two-way mobile radio users in nearly 700 cities across the nation. In addition to program instructions and promotion materials Motorola provides distinguished service awards for citizens that perform heroic deeds with the aid of their two-way radio equipment. To date 35 such awards have been presented across the country.

The award, the Golden Trumpet, was accepted and acknowledged by Homer L. Marrs of 1826 Campbell Circle, Palatine, Motorola vice president and communications division general manager; Jim Bernhart, communications and electronics marketing services manager, of Skokie, and Jerry Orloff, manager of Public Relations, of 1108 Juniper, Mount Prospect.

HOW TO SURVIVE in a tight market will be the subject of the Home Builders Association of Chicago's general membership meeting Tuesday, Sept. 2, at the Furniture Club in the Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. Featured speakers will be Ray Watt, president, National Housing Partnership; John Stasny, vice president and treasurer, National Association of Home Building; and Martin Bartling, vice president, U.S. Gypsum. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m.

ALBERT S. RADCLIFFE of the Roselle State Bank, Roselle, is among 645 bankers-students from across the country and several foreign countries attending the three-year School for Bank Administration held at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Subjects studied include bank auditing, accounting and operations. Students also submit extension problems between summer sessions. The school is sponsored by the University of Wisconsin and Bank Administration Institute.

Cool Comfort Is Name of Game

This summer, in their eagerness to find relief from the heat, many homeowners will be investing a lot of money to add cooling equipment to heating systems which are alleged to be easily adapted for air conditioning.

When they do, they will find that they get a lot of cold air, but that's not what they want. According to the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council, when you install air conditioning, the name of the game is comfort.

Unless the ducts are located near the ceiling and have been sized primarily for cooling, the cold air will stay near the floor, and the result will be cold ankles and warm heads. This is not comfort.

According to a scientific principle, warmed air rises, cooled air falls. If the ducts have been sized for heating only, they may be too small for cool air. Cool air is heavier than warm air and requires larger ducts.

The best way to achieve comfort, adds the Council, is to have two separate systems, a hydronic (modern hot water) heating system with baseboard panels for all-winter comfort, and a properly sized overhead cooling system which will create an atmosphere of gentle summer comfort.

McCauley Marks Bell Anniversary

D. Clifford McCauley

D. Clifford McCauley of 3804 Bob White Lane, Rolling Meadows, who began his career as an office boy for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., at 14, is celebrating his 45th service anniversary Sept. 6.

McCauley, an installation dispatcher in the Arlington Heights plant department, has also worked as a repairman, installer, assigner and framer. For three years he served with the Army Signal Corps in Europe.

Hamor Attends Hawaii Hotel Groundbreaking

Robert B. Hamor, 236 N. Hale St., Palatine, was on hand recently at groundbreaking ceremonies for the building of a $6.5 million resort hotel complex near Waikiki Beach in Honolulu.

Hamor is senior vice president-marketing for Continental Assurance Co., a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corp. of Chicago. CNA Realty, Inc., another subsidiary of CNA Financial, is joining with a group of Hawaiian investors to build the Waikiki Beach Resort Hotel, Inc.

THIS MONTH, with over 24 million Americans receiving $2.5 billion a month in social security benefits and 20 million persons insured by Medicare, the Social Security Administration is celebrating its 34th anniversary, according to Arthur H. Hutchison, district manager of social security. "Signed into law Aug. 14, 1935, by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the social security program has expanded to provide financial protection for virtually everyone in the country," said Hutchison. "Ten million people are kept above the poverty level because they are getting social security benefits."

AMERICAN AIRLINES will reinstate its 30-minute "Public Flightseeing" trips for six Saturdays, Aug. 23-Sept. 27, from American's passenger terminal at Chicago's Midway Airport, according to M. J. Feeney, manager of passenger sales. Five flights each Saturday, one every hour 1:30-5:30 p.m. are scheduled. Tickets may be purchased at American ticket offices in Chicago or Evanston, or at passenger terminals at O'Hare and Midway airports. The fare, including tax, is $6.95 for adults as well as children.

THE SALESMAN'S Club of the Chicago Real Estate Board began its annual membership campaign with an invitation sent to all CREB members, announced Jack Fisher, club president. The club, organized seven years ago, holds a series of evening meetings each year. For additional information, call Sharon Wood, secretary, at CE 4-4688.

PEOPLES GAS EARNINGS in the 12 months through June increased 7 per cent over the comparable period in 1968. Remick McDowell, chairman, said the third quarter report to stockholders shows consolidated net income for the 12 months ended June 30 was $53,373,000 or $3.29 a share. McDowell said that in the first nine months of fiscal 1969, company subsidiaries gained more new business than in any period in the last 10 years, 14 per cent above the 1968 period. Total retail gas sales through the third quarter rose nearly 9 per cent in revenue and 11 per cent in volume. Relinquishing the post of president of Peoples Gas, McDowell remains chairman of the board and chief executive officer. Robert M. Dreves is now president of the parent company.

GOLDBLATT BROS., INC., sales and earnings for the first half of 1969 were the highest in any first half in the company's 55-year history, announced Louis Goldblatt, president and chief executive officer of the Chicago-based chain of 39 department stores. Net earnings for the 24-week period ended July 12 reached $797,757, or 26 cents a common share, compared to $556,086 or 18 cents a share last year. Net sales for the period amounted to $90,562,725. Goldblatt said that construction will begin soon on a new Home Center in Mount Prospect, expected to open in 1970.

GROUND BREAKING by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel celebrated construction of the new Allen's men's store on Mannheim Road, one block north of Oakton street. The new store, with 14,000 square feet, will be almost four times the size of the area now occupied by the store at 1122 Lee St., Des Plaines. To be one of the outstanding men's wear stores in the area when it opens next March, according to Allen Newman, president, it will include separate suit and sport coat departments, a boutique, gift and shoe departments. Architect is Peter Tsolinas and Assoc.

JOHN R. THOMPSON CO., Chicago, has announced the consummation of the acquisition of Little Red Hen Country Chicken, Chicago-based franchise carry-out chain operating 55 units in 24 states and Canada, for an undisclosed amount of cash and John R. Thompson stock. Started in 1964, Little Red Hen was the country's fourth fastest growing franchise restaurant chain last year, with annual sales of $10.5 million. Plans call for the operation of Little Red Hen as a wholly-owned subsidiary of JRT. John R. Thompson Co., operates 40 Henri's, Red Balloon, Holloway House and Ontra's from coast to coast and markets frozen foods under the Holloway House label.

THE FIFTH ANNUAL creative reporting contest for real estate writers and reporters has been announced by James C. Houlihan, chairman of the Realtor-public relations committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Prizes in four writing categories will be awarded at the annual banquet of the National Assn. of Real Estate Editors in San Francisco, during the annual convention of NAREB in November.

FRANK SICKAFOOSE, Medinah, president of Chicago Bandag, Inc., Melrose Park, recently received a charter membership plaque from state auditor Michael J. Howlett, at the Illinois State Tire Dealers and Retreaders 21st annual convention at Springfield.

THE COLD ROLLED COIL Division of National Material Corp., Elk Grove Village, has been acquired by the Rolled Steel Corp., Skokie, it was announced by Seymour Waldman, president of Rolled Steel. National Material is a subsidiary of Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corp. "The addition... will allow Rolled Steel to increase its activities in the prime cold rolled coil area," Waldman noted. He said the acquisition should increase this year's total sale from $18 million to $23 million. All operations will be consolidated within the four existing four Rolled Steel Warehouses in Chicago and Evanston. Rolled Steel Corp. is the nation's largest steel service center for galvanized steel and is a leader in the processing and distribution of secondary steel and aluminum products.

THE REGISTRATION statement covering the Tracor Computing Corp. stock rights offering was declared effective Aug. 14 by the Securities and Exchange Commission, according to R. N. Lane, chairman and president of Tracor, Inc., and Tracor Computing Corp. The rights offering will be made, by means of a prospectus, at the price of $2 a share. A stand-by offering will be made by a group of underwriters managed by Rotan, Mosle, Dallas Union, of Houston, Texas; Littlefuse, Inc. of Des Plaines, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Tracor, Inc.

Give Air Quality Arguments

Opposing views were heard recently at a public hearing on proposed air quality standards for Illinois, conducted by the Illinois State Air Pollution Control Board in Chicago. The proposed air quality standards, scheduled to go into effect in 1972,

L. Wols Retires

Leo P. Wols

"I plan to spend my summers at my year-round home in Lake Como, near Lake Geneva, and my winters in Oakland Park, Fla.," said Leo P. Wols, 221 S. May, Bensenville, who retired from Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Aug. 17.

A switchboard installer in Elk Grove Village, Wols joined the company 42 years ago in the Chicago plant department.

Wols is a member of St. Alexis Catholic Church, past president of the Bensenville Lions Club, former trustee of the village and member of North Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America, the world's largest volunteer association of industrial employees.

and the transcript of the hearing will be submitted for review by the National Air Pollution Control Administration (NAPCA) of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Should the new standards for Illinois meet the guidelines of the federal government, they will become law.

John Kirkwood, director of air pollution for the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County, praised community groups and individuals present.

Among key government witnesses at the hearing was Rep. Abner J. Mikva, (D. 2nd Dist.) who cited a study of his district made by the NAPCA which indicated that residents of the south and southeast side of Chicago can expect an increase in deaths caused by bronchitis and lung cancer. The proposed 24 hour maximum average of 300 micrograms of dust per cubic meter was at a level at which increased deaths had been found among persons over 50.

AN ILLINOIS LAWMAKER, Rep. J. Theodore Meyer, testified that the Illinois coal industry had shown no interest in a method developed by the Illinois Institute of Technology for removing sulfur from coal. He urged stricter standards than those proposed and that the enforcement date be January 1, 1970.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott issued a statement in support of stronger controls and earlier enforcement as well as the addition of a non-degradation clause to protect areas now free of air pollution.

Albert Mullins, director of the Cook County Air Pollution Control Bureau, and William J. Stanley, director of Chicago's Department of Air Pollution Control Department, testified in favor of the proposed standards and pledged to enforce them after enactment.

Industry spokesmen at the hearing stated they had already invested over $150 million in air pollution control devices, that removal of sulfur from coal and oil was not practical, that the date of compliance was too early to allow for the installation of control equipment and that there was no medical consensus on the effects of air pollution on health.

RICHARD KATES, a Loop lawyer, cited reports from oil and chemical industry journals stating that desulfurization processes were fully developed. He also contended that the state law requiring the use of Illinois coal in public buildings is in violation of federal regulations on the restraint of interstate commerce.

After the hearing, the board will adopt standards and submit them to the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. After the department approves the standards, the board will have six months to develop a plan for implementing them.

File Promptly for Medicare

Arthur Hutchison, social security district manager, urges residents to file their claims promptly for reimbursement under the physician's part of Medicare. He states that Medicare beneficiaries have varied misconceptions about when to file a claim for reimbursement of physician's expenses.

Hutchison points out that a person need not be hospitalized to have reimbursable physician's expenses. The services are covered even though rendered in the physician's office, a nursing home, clinic or in the patient's home. In addition, a person need not wait until the end of the year in which expenses were incurred to file a claim.

The Medicare handbook given to each beneficiary should be consulted for details as to when and where to submit their claim.

There are two methods of claiming payments for doctor bills under Medicare. The doctor may bill the patient for whatever part of the $50 deductible has not been paid, plus 20% of the rest of the bill. The doctor can then claim the remaining 80 per cent from the Medicare Carrier. This method can be used only if the doctor agrees to it.

Through the other method the patient either pays the bill and requests repayment from the Medicare Carrier or just simply submits an itemized bill which doesn't necessarily have to be a paid bill.

What Else?
Sahara is an Arabic word meaning "desert."

MANITOU MI LAND, or "land of God," expressed in this painting, is the name the Indians gave to Apple River Country, near Galena, where the Branigar Organization is building a second home development, with a lake, recreation center and separate camping facility.

Branigar Builds

Ryan Inc. of Wisconsin, a heavy and highway construction firm based in Janesville, Wis., has been awarded the contract to build the 1000-foot-long dam at the new Apple Canyon Lake near Galena, Ill. announced Elmer Swanson Jr., vice president of the Branigar Organization, Chicago developers of the lake.

Construction of the dam, which began July 7, will be completed in December, 1969, according to William Henry, area supervisor of Ryan, Inc. The 80-foot high dam, located at the south end of the three-mile lake, will have depths up to 70 feet.

Apple Canyon Lake, a private second-home lake development, includes 2,200 lots, a recreation center and a separate private camping facility.

Based on extensive studies of average rainfalls and melting snow in the Apple Canyon Lake area along with the amount of water which will flow into the basin from Hell's Branch Creek, a tributary of the Apple River, the lake will reach permanent depths in two years.

Apple Canyon Lake sales offices are open every day from 10 a.m. until dusk. To get to the lake, take Highway 20 west through Freeport and Stockton, then follow the signs.

One year ago, the Suburban National Bank of Palatine became the first tenant to move into Willow Creek, a $20 million apartment and commercial development of the Winston Development Corp. on the northeast corner of Rohlfing Road and Northwest Hwy. in Palatine.

At that time, the ten story office building which now houses the bank was not yet completed, and the bank was operating in a temporary structure adjacent to the new building.

THERE ARE NOW 19 other tenants in the new building. They are: The Winston Development Corp. offices; Field Enterprises, Pacific Wood Products, Aluminum Co. of America; Universal Oil Products Co.; CIBA Products Co.; Kalkreuth Chemicals, Ltd.; S. Paul Zelnick, Cardinal Employment Service; Battelle Memorial Institute; Boehrmer-Hedlund Co.; Finne, Whitcup & Fiala; Blair Temporaries; Old Pro Corp.; Judi Jones Secretarial Service, Inc.; Berger, Kelley, Untied, Scaggs & Associates; Hallmark Personnel; Willow Creek Barber Shop; and the Feminine Salon of Beauty.

When fully completed, Willow Creek will have two 10-story office buildings, seven 6-story apartment buildings, each with more than 100 units; 100,000 square feet of shopping area, theatre, motel and service station. It is being built on a 90-acre site with 30 acres devoted to a public park and a 10-acre lake. The first phase of the project, now completed, consists of the first office building and one 6-story, 100-unit apartment building now 90 per cent occupied.

The Winston Development Corp., developer of the project, is the largest home builder in the Chicago area.

Impact of Pension Funds

The major role pension funds now play in the capital markets is likely to grow further in the 1970s, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago stated in its August review of "Business Conditions." A comprehensive study, "Pension Funds and Capital Markets," analyzes investment trends of recent years, emphasizing the impact of these funds on stock market developments.

Pension fund assets, exclusive of social security, are now about $200 billion, and are the largest savings media for individuals. These assets have been growing about 12 per cent annually.

Assets of noninsured private pension funds had a market value of about $95 billion at the start of 1969. Common stocks accounted for almost two-thirds of this total. Market values of these stocks were 50 per cent greater than the purchase prices reflected in book value. All other pension fund assets had a market value 12 per cent less than book value, because of declines in bond prices.

The proportion of new investments of noninsured pension funds in common stock increased sharply in the past decade, reaching 75 per cent in 1967 and 1968. Stocks accounted for 90 per cent of the rise in market value of assets in these years.

Life insurance companies and state and

Andrews Appointed Sr. Vice President

John F. Andrews

John F. Andrews of 1113 Alder Lane, Mount Prospect, has been appointed senior vice president in charge of planning and development for the Midwest Stock Exchange Service Corp. He was formerly vice president, secretary and treasurer.

A native of Chicago, Andrews is a member of the Illinois Society of CPAs, the American Institute of CPAs and has served as past president of the Northwest Indiana Chapter of Accountants.

local governments also have been investing an increasing proportion of the pension funds they administer in common stocks. As stock purchases have increased investments in corporate bonds, mortgages, and Treasury securities have been reduced.

From 1961 through 1968 noninsured pension funds purchased net more than $24 billion of corporate stock, far more than any other class of investors.

EXPERIENCE OF pension funds with common stock investments has been generally favorable, according to the study. Corporate contributors to pension funds have been able to fund past service liabilities more rapidly in terms of market values. But the extent of the uptrend in stock prices in the past decade has resulted, in part, from purchases by these funds.

From the end of 1968 to the end of July 1969 average common stock prices declined by almost 14 per cent, suggesting a decline of more than $8 billion in the market value of stockholdings of noninsured pension funds, almost as much as the rise in these values last year.

A retreat in interest rates from recent record high levels would be accompanied by a rise in bond prices, the article notes. Some pension fund managers may decide that prospects for capital gains on bonds are more favorable than on stocks — the reverse of recent experience. Any significant shift in policies of fund managers would have a substantial influence on the capital markets, particularly the relationship between prices and yields of debt and equity securities.

Book Issued By Realtors

Under All is the Land, a book presenting color pictures and text on every state in the nation, is scheduled for publication in May, 1970, by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, James G. Houlihan, Bronx, N.Y., chairman of the Realtor-public relations committee, announced recently.

"This 128-page book, containing 250 photographs of both the familiar and unusual sights of this country, will be a unique addition to any library," Houlihan said.

The entire project is under the direction of Quest Travelbooks, Ltd., Vancouver, B.C.

Ted Czolowski, president of Quest, is on the last leg of his photographic tour of the United States, during which he has recorded local festivals, historic landmarks, natural wonders and everyday life.

Publication is scheduled to coincide with the 1970 celebration of Realtor Week, May 17 through 23. Under All is the Land will be available to the public only through Realtors and boards of Realtors, Houlihan said.

R. Edwards Promoted

Robert A. Edwards of 1815 Sherwood Road, Arlington Heights, group manager-floor care products of the Grocery Products Group of Armour-Dial, Inc., according to John T. Bycraft, director of product management. He replaces T. H. Wigginton, who resigned to accept a position in California.

Edwards was formerly product manager for Chiffon liquid detergent, joined Armour-Dial in 1964 as an assistant brand manager. He subsequently was advertising and promotion manager for the Dial Specialties department.

In his new position, Edwards will supervise the Bruce floor care and Parsons' household ammonia product lines.

Edwards is a graduate in finance from the University of Miami.

Sponsors Development Conference

A one-day community development conference sponsored by Northern Illinois Gas Co. will be held Sept. 10 at Pheasant Run Lodge in St. Charles.

The conference is for mayors, representatives of chambers of commerce and industrial development committees, municipal and county officials, land developers, newspaper personnel and others interested in learning how to plan for future growth in their local communities.

The speaker for the noon luncheon will be Calvin D. Johnson, consultant on public affairs for the American Trucking Assn. and director of customer relations for the Remington Rand Corp.

WILLIAM J. CROWLEY, president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the finance committee of Northern Illinois Gas Co., will speak during the evening dinner portion of the program.

Presiding over the various conference seminars will be Robert T. Edwards, Ni-Gas area industrial development consultant, and Ray Dickerson, director, and Harold J. Oosten, deputy director, both of the Illinois State Department of Business and Economic Development.

Other participants will be John E. Shaffer, vice president and director, industrial development, Chicago and North Western Railway Co.; Charles F. Willson, director of area development, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co.; Donald R. Pacey, manager, economic development department, Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, and John H. Rutledge, vice president, real properties, Swift & Co.

ALSO, ROBERT ADY, location consultant, Fantus Co.; Robert Brunton, city manager, Elgin; Thompson A. Dyke, asso-

Safety Council Advice for Parents

School has been out a while now, and for most children the novelty has worn off. When usual playtime activities cease to amuse young people, the National Safety Council finds the more adventuresome among them begin to look for new forms of entertainment — often in dangerous places.

The National Safety Council urges that parents face the fact that children are natural explorers, and in hazardous play areas, what they don't know can hurt them.

IN ONE CASE history reported to the council, a small boy discovered an ingenious and safe plaything — but a fatal "playground." While playing in a cardboard box in an alley, he was run over by a car.

Just as tragic are the accidents that occur when children congregate for play around excavation and construction sites, walk on railroad tracks, swim in quarries, play in sand piles, climb utility poles and towers, or investigate abandoned buildings that vandals may have rendered additionally unsafe.

Last summer, for example, one 14-year-old boy's sense of adventure led him to climb a water tower. As happens all too often, the boy slipped and fell. His fall was broken by a 23,000 volt power line.

This summer, instead of a baseball and glove, he is sporting an artificial leg and arm. Still, the council points out, he was fortunate compared to most victims of ciate partner, Harland Bartholomew and Associates, city planners; Douglas B. Morton, sanitary engineer, Illinois Department of Public Health, division of sanitary engineering; and Matthew J. Riddell of Greeley and Hanson, design engineers.

Ralph Gerrard, director of area industrial development for Ni-Gas, said that more than 600 persons are expected to attend the conference.

hazardous play area accidents — he lived.

ADULT SUPERVISORS are responsible for making sure that children not only know, but understand all the reasons behind warnings such as signs that read "No Trespassing" and "Keep Out."

A few supervised play areas already exist where children can climb, explore, build, daydream, and use their imaginations safely. The recreational equipment provided at these playgrounds approximates the natural environment children find so attractive — real rocks, tree stumps, construction materials, etc.

In these areas, the hazardous elements of unauthorized play areas have been rendered safe by moving them to a safe environment.

The council urges parents to take their children to safe swimming areas, get them involved in organized activities that reflect their interests and abilities, help them to find safe pursuits to satisfy their curiosity and energy levels.

Hurley Is Promoted To Staff Supervisor

John C.
Hurley

John C. Hurley, 708 N. Glenn Drive, Palatine, has been promoted by Illinois Bell Telephone Co. from central office foreman to staff supervisor and transferred from Arlington Heights to the company headquarters building in Chicago. In his new position he will help to coordinate activities and results in the 95 central offices of the switching department.

Hurley, who studied at Northwestern University, joined the company as a frameman in Chicago in 1946. He also worked as switchman and communications maintenance man.

DallaValle Promoted At Illinois Bell Co.

Frank DallaValle Jr.

Frank DallaValle Jr., 1550 Birch, Hanover Park, has been promoted by Illinois Bell Telephone Co. from assistant engineer to engineer in the company's north suburban area. In his new assignment he will deal with the engineering of outside telephone cable.

Prior to joining Illinois Bell as an apprentice splicer in 1947, DallaValle served with the Navy in the South Pacific. He has also worked as a communications maintenance man and senior assigner in the Plant Department.

He is committee chairman of the Boy Scouts of Hanover, Park, a group that he organized six years ago; a member of Forest Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America and of the Lions Club of Hanover Park; past member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Cicero and former coach in the Baseball League of Hanover Park.

Architect's Offices Now in Buffalo Grove

The office of Philip Lembo & Associates, architects, has been moved to new quarters at 232 Anthony Court, Buffalo Grove.

The firm has been active in the development of Urban Renewal projects, site development, and the development of commercial, residential and apartment sites. The firm has had high-rise experience with East Point Condominium, serving as associate architect.

Before starting his own firm, Lembo was associated with the firms of Ezra Gordon-Jack Levin & Assoc. In Chicago, Robert C. Taylor & Assoc. in Oak Park, and was a vice president of the firm of Blivas & Page Inc. in Chicago.

Lembo was a recipient of the James M. White Memorial Prize in Architecture at the University of Illinois, and was associated with four projects which have won awards from the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry, the American Institute of Architects and the federal government.

Peacock Shows Interest In Consolidation Study

"I believe we owe it to our constituency to explore the matter of consolidation," F. Edward Peacock, president of Itasca Dist. 10 school board said at Wednesday's meeting.

The question of consolidation came up for discussion as the result of two previous meetings between members of the Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville school districts.

Representatives from these districts had invited their counterparts from Itasca and Medinah, but neither of these districts had made any positive response.

"It's a difficult thing to evaluate in dollars and cents," Peacock continued. "We don't know whether money can be saved through consolidation or whether money can be obtained to offset any loss."

"THE CONSTITUTIONAL convention

will certainly have an effect also. No one knows what they will decide on state aid. At present, state aid favors consolidation into unit districts."

Mrs. Mary C. Hodgkin, secretary of the school board, Raymond Bensen, a board member and Peacock were selected to represent Dist. 10 in any further consolidation discussions.

"I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," Peacock said.

In other board action Wednesday evening three new contracts were accepted. They include Mrs. Marlene Zorn, who will teach second grade at the Watlington School, Mrs. Lynda Roschke, who will teach art throughout the district, and William McMullen, who will be guidance counselor for the district.

"THIS IS THE first year we will have a full time guidance counselor," Arnold Rusche, superintendent of the district said. "He will be working with students throughout the district who are having academic difficulties."

The building committee reported that all the major summer projects, including painting, had been completed.

The board also purchased a three foot by 60 foot roll of commercial matting for district school entrances.

"THERE ARE TWO sides to consolidation just as in everything else," Peacock said. "Taxpayers are interested in saving money and on that argument alone I believe we should look into consolidation. But the only way you can accurately measure the financial status of the five individual districts is by past performance, which is some cases has not been on a par throughout the five districts.

"In our case we have not had tax anticipation warrants for at least the past 12 years, while some of the other districts have. How do you reconcile this? This is just one of the facets of the question of consolidation that will have to be mulled over."

Davis To Go To Meeting

Medinah School Dist. 11 which has expressed an interest in consolidation but not a willingness to participate in any efforts right now, plans to attend the next meeting concerning the matter in October.

"I planned to attend the August meeting but I couldn't make it," Supt. Richard C. Davis said.

"We have always been interested in consolidation possibilities," Davis added. "Neither Itasca nor Medinah really needs to consolidate."

Roselle and Bloomingdale who have been pushing the issue are broke according to Davis. "We are just getting developers interested."

Davis went on to explain that the five per cent indebtedness was a major factor impeding consolidation, especially between high school and elementary districts.

As districts combine the bonding power decreases because the evaluation is taxed only once. Unless the indebtedness limit is raised the financial situation of the schools will be increasingly critical.

REVERSAL OF previous disinterest in consolidation talks on the part of School Dist. 10 resulted when F. Edward Peacock, Itasca school board member, advocated exploration of the idea. "I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," he said.

Itasca Gets Lower Bid

by SYD JAMIESON

An apparent low bid for installation of aeration equipment in the new lagoon of Itasca's expanded sewage treatment plant was submitted by W. Wanzonberg & Co. of Schiller Park. It was announced this week by Richard Koehler, consulting engineer.

Wanzonberg's bid, which was received Aug. 16 was $69,150, lower than a previous bid by Albert T. Wigert last March. Wigert is the contractor on the sewage treatment plant project.

According to Koehler, work on the aeration can start 90 days after a letter to proceed is issued and, following approval by the Illinois Sanitary Water Board and the federal government.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS elected to install the equipment after being advised by the state that such work would be required by 1972.

In other business during the village board meeting Tuesday night, trustees heard a favorable recommendation by its planning commission to the planned development "concept" for 431 apartment units proposed by Avtech, Inc.

The recommendation was presented by Charles Hodgkin, plan commission chairman.

Hodgkin told board members, "Based on the information presented, we recommend to the village board that this concept of a planned development with multifamily dwellings and open space with a lake be approved."

"HOWEVER," Hodgkin explained, "because of the pressure of time and an immediate decision, many things need to be studied more carefully."

He suggested to board members that prior to signing of Avtech's pre-annexation agreement, "a detailed investigation be made" in various areas.

Among these were adequacy of police and fire protection, street and traffic flow, sewer and water availability, engineering studies and definite time commitments for the proposed three-year building program.

Another area for consideration by the trustees is the ability of Avtech to finance the $14 million project.

"WE WILL BE happy to assist the board in any of these areas of investigation which may be of help to you," Hodgkin reported.

He said the commission's favorable recommendation to the planned development concept was based on the following:

- Locate the project in an outlying area.
- A buffer area of light manufacturing.
- The five-story buildings would be placed on a low portion of the land around the lake.
- Avtech would own and keep title to the development.
- It would be financed by private funds and no federal money would be used.
- Local people involved with Avtech should have real interest in this project.

BOARD MEMBERS appeared receptive to the commission's recommendations and indicated some ground work had already begun on some of the areas suggested for consideration by the commission.

They promised Hodgkin the commission would get "another look" at the pre-annexation agreement after Lawrence C. Traeger Jr., village attorney, has reviewed the proposal.

The commission will also offer recommendations once the preliminary plat has been submitted by Avtech.

Commission member Paul Pella informed the trustees "we want to make certain they carry their fair share. We know what we can give them; we want assets, not liabilities."

Rounding out the meeting agenda, board members mulled over a tree planting program for the apartment complex on Irving Park Road near Bloomingdale Road. A portion of some $5,500 in funds received by the village under a performance bond for public improvements claimed through default, will be used in the beautification program.

50 Expected At Water Show

More than 50 swimmers and acrobats will perform in the 11th annual Bensenville Water Show tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the pool located on Church and Main streets.

The theme of this year's show is "The Circus" and the ringleader will be Park Commissioner Bill Berde. Student directors Denise Palmer and Kathy Durlak will perform a synchronized swim duet and soloist Jackie Whitlow will demonstrate her tumbling skills.

Participants in the show have been practicing since the middle of July, according to one pool supervisor, and they will present 13 acts of swimming, diving, tumbling and dancing.

The United States Weather Bureau has promised nice weather both tonight and tomorrow night with "less than five per cent chance of precipitation." In case their prediction should fall, however, alternate rain dates for the show have been set at Aug. 30 and 31.

Review Little Theater

With just enough members for a quorum, the Dist. 100 Board of Education spent three hours Tuesday discussing the Little Theater Project, the matter of Wood

Dale's annexation of the future high school site and the question of joining Dist. 2 in a consolidation study.

Member Morton Wright served as president pro tem in the absence of Pres. James DiOrto. Members Martin Romme and Will Davidson were also missing from the meeting.

The board discussed at length the possibility of continuing plans for improvements of the Little Theater which were begun last spring. Wright had brought the subject up at the last board meeting, noting then that the board had never directed the administration to shelve the project.

SUPT. MARTIN ZUCKERMAN agreed Tuesday that he had received no such direction from the board and added, "Since the original funds for the project were depleted, I suggested to Ken Carroll (business manager) that we hold the line on the project."

Zuckerman continued, "Even if we did receive a favorable bid on the project, we have no present plan to finance it."

"I had understood," he said, "that it was not the intention of the board to get involved in projects not accounted for in the budget."

The superintendent reported that an estimated $9,000 would be needed before drawings of the project could be completed. This figure, he said, represented only about 8 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

Attention was focused on the inadequacies of the little theater earlier this year when Fenton dramatists brought back a first place win for their production of "The Romanians," despite poor facilities in the literally "little" theater.

WRIGHT SAID HE would like to study the cost figures before taking a vote on the matter. The board concurred and the item was tabled until the next board meeting.

In other business, Zuckerman told the board that the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board is studying "the advantages and disadvantages of the current dual district arrangement," and asked if the Dist. 100 board wished to cooperate in the study.

The matter was tabled until the next meeting when Zuckerman said a representative of the Dist. 2 board would be present to report progress of the study.

Business manager Kenneth Carroll also reported that the Wood Dale zoning commission has voted to move ahead on annexation of property designated as a future high school site.

Carroll said a pre-annexation agreement has been drawn which guarantees the school district adequate sewer and water facilities and the waiving of all customary annexation fees.

The 40-plus acres of land are located north of the Wood Dale Junior High on Wood Dale Road. Carroll said Wood Dale's sudden interest in annexation of the property is linked to desired annexation of land to the east and north of the site.

ZUCKERMAN ALSO presented a report called "The Challenge of Educational Leadership" in which he called for the board to give "thought and discussion relating to far-reaching responsibilities of educational leadership." Zuckerman told the board, "We must look beyond the snarls, entanglements and pressures of today. We must together be concerned about the future."

The only board action Tuesday was acceptance of the minutes, bills and one resignation. The board also approved two teacher contracts.

Attorney Seeks Evidence

Court action to get statements of evidence and documents from three of four Roselle village officials named in a suit against the village is being sought this week by an attorney for a group of Town Acres and other residents fighting sidewalks.

John Cummins, of the Samuel Young law firm of Chicago, told the Register Wednesday he was pushing to speed the suit to trial, if indeed a trial is to come. Alternative solutions like a legal summary judgment by a judge of what the law actually is could avoid an actual court trial, he said.

DISPOSITIONS, oral statements under oath before a court reporter, are being sought from Village Clerk Mrs. Mildred Winkler, Building Inspector William Manns and Treasurer Carl Lindquist. The court will have to order such dispositions given before the 30-day response-to-summons period expires in more than two weeks.

Cummins also told the Register he is seeking a discovery to force the officials to allow him to examine all pertinent records concerning sidewalk bonds, bond money and other important records.

He said Village Pres. Robert Frantz probably will not be asked to give a disposition because all the other three officials should have all the necessary documents he wants. If they don't, Frantz will be asked to produce the missing documents.

RECORDS OF WHO has posted sidewalk bonds, where they live, what money has been collected, what areas are affected and who is living under temporary occupancy permits will be sought. Temporary permits are given when a resident doesn't put in sidewalks.

A suit by several Town Acres residents including Mel Marvin, 218 E. Thorndale, was filed less than two weeks ago by Cummins against the village to test the legality of the sidewalk program and the way the village has enforced its own ordinances.

A temporary injunction to prevent the village from enforcing the sidewalk ordinance, issuing sidewalk permits and receiving sidewalk bond money may be sought next month, if it is warranted, Cummins said.

"We would have to show sufficient evidence to the court before such an injunction would be granted," he said, "and the injunction need not follow the gathering of dispositions. We could get one tomorrow if we wanted one and could prove a need."

THE SUIT IS backed by a group or committee called VOICE from Town Acres homeowners. It has organized opposition to the sidewalk program because of the rural atmosphere there among other reasons.

If the legal action is successful, DuPage County courts would declare provisions in certain village ordinances invalid and nonenforceable, thus stopping sidewalk installation at least in certain areas. The courts could also force the village to pay back all sidewalk bonds collected to date.

The officials are named in their official capacity only, not as individuals: Frantz because he is responsible for executing ordinances; Mrs. Winkler because she collects bond money; Manns because he inspects the work, and Lindquist because he handles the bond money funds.

THE SUIT QUESTIONS the legality of the village requirements of a sidewalk bond from building contractors prior to occupancy by resident homeowners. It also questions the legality of a village board action in 1967 which repealed a 10-year old ordinance which granted exemption to certain forested areas from sidewalks.

Certain streets or parts of streets were exempted as forested land from sidewalks by the 1957 ordinance. Some of the streets exempted were Town Acres Lane, East Thorndale, Crestwood Drive, Picton Road, Oak Street, Rosedale, North Prospect Street and others.

CUMMINS SAID that since the village abandoned the rights to sidewalk installation, it abandoned the property in effect. When a public agency abandons property, it goes to adjacent landowners, he said. If the village wants to put in sidewalks along the former right of way, then it must compensate the new owners of the once village property.

VOICE is fighting sidewalks more on the northern and extreme southern and western sections of the village while a group called the Roselle Better Government Association is starting to fight sidewalks in the central areas and throughout the rest of the village.

Scout Troops 60, 65 To Hold Paper Drive

Wood Dale Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 will hold a paper drive from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday. Residents are requested to place papers at the edge of the road by the driveway. Anyone wishing assistance is also requested to place a white rag on their mailbox. All money from paper drives goes into the operation of the Boy Scout troops.

Garbage Disposal Creates Growing Problems

by CHARLES E. HUFNAGEL
How is DuPage County going to handle its growing problem of solid waste disposal in the next five years and during the next 20 years?

This means garbage, the general run of domestic refuse around the county, including tin cans and junk cars.

Pat Riedy, Lisle Township chairman of the public works committee, in getting a unanimous recommendation asking the county board to spend $25,000 for a countywide study, has served notice that his committee, rather than spinning its wheels, is very much with it.

The committee recommendation will be presented to the next board session, where approval is expected. The committee decision came after representatives of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, a firm of consulting engineers said to be the best in the business, gave an off-the-cuff summary of what the problem was in DuPage County and outlined ways to solve the solid waste problem.

JOHN TOWNSEND, an Arlington Heights resident, appeared in person, and Carl Bowen, a partner and leading consulting engineer, told how the problem is being solved with new ideas at Flint, Mich., and Madison, Wis.

"What we're seeking is the most desirable program for the county and both from the standpoint of costs and effectiveness," John Morris, public works superintendent, told the committee.

But an agreement was not reached and a favorable vote taken until after some sharp exchanges between committee members.

Two things appeared to be conclusive: the incinerator was ruled out, at least until the last resort and the county had plenty of vacant land for landfill operations or other method of disposal.

John Stobb, York Township, recognized as top man in garbage disposal business in DuPage County, as a committee member, emphatically declared:

"We don't need a study. If we do our own engineers can do it."

"WE'RE NOT GOING to study incinerators, we're not going to take the material out of the county although Cook County brings it into us, we're going to use landfills. Why then do we have to have a study?"

But Paul Ronske, also of York Township, and chairman of the county board, took a different view. He said the county would continue to grow in population and this problem would intensify. The county needed a long range program.

"We're talking $25,000, a figure of $1,000 a year, to show us the best method to handle solid waste for 25 years. It's a good investment," said Ronske.

George Pratt, Wayne Township, said a study was necessary to set the direction. He told of past experiences of the county board in setting policies in this area.

"IF WE WANT A landfill here," he stated, "someone will kick and say put it over there, and the people over there will object with 'don't put it here'."

This is why, in his opinion, the county needed a study.

Don Prindle, Addison Township, who has begun to play a major role in county problem discussions, advised that DuPage County, unlike Kane, has thousands of acres of forest preserve land unfit for practically any use. Why not use it for landfill or other methods of solid waste disposal? He urged a study of the use of these properties as the least expensive and the most inoffensive to the public eye and nostril.

Bowen in his remarks about disposal lauded the Madison method as a model innovation of the day and urged DuPage County to send people there to make an appraisal.

He tossed a cellophane bag of solid waste disposal on the committee room table, a sample direct from the Madison plant. This material, originally garbage and other residential refuse including tin cans, is a product of a grinding process used at Madison.

AFTER IT PASSES through a grinder it is piled in wind-rows, spread out, or disposed of in several ways. On drying it becomes stringy and gray in color and appears that it would make pretty good humus. A sample was passed around for odor, and the consensus was — not bad.

In the opinion of the public works superintendent, grinding and pulverizing by using the Madison method will reduce costs. No cover would be necessary such as now being used with raw solid wastes on landfill. With acreage for disposal it could be wind-rowed or piled to a depth of several feet.

A rough estimate is that this county would need four grinders at the cost of $250,000 each. Such matters a study would accurately reveal.

THE STUDY WOULD also reveal facts not now available about industrial wastes and their disposal. This problem is also growing.

As Bowen pointed out, technological civilization with an enormous increase in population is confronted with a massive problem of disposing of its wastes. The environment, he says, is the only place where it can go.

In the near future the magnitude of the problem will become obvious to all in DuPage County. This is a waste disposal engineer's opinion.

Dist. 11 Budget Attacked

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

After nearly four hours of reviewing and trimming its tentative 1969-70 budget, Medinah School Dist. 11 board was told its efforts lacked consideration and careful planning.

The charge was made by board member Louis Lombardi after it was moved that the budget be approved. Lombardi made no statements during the meeting.

After the motion to approve was made he said, "I've been waiting a long time for this."

He proceeded to list his objections to the budget.

"I don't understand how, with two members of the board on the budget committee, this budget was devised. Items listed under administrative expenses are an attempt to establish policy without the approval of the board," he said.

LOMBARDI WAS REFERRING to provisions made for the positions of an attorney, treasurer and a full-time secretary, which he claimed should have been approved by the board.

During the meeting the board eliminated the treasurer, but voted to hire an attorney on a monthly retainer basis and create a new secretarial position in the understaffed South School office.

Lombardi also objected to the inclusion of tax anticipation warrants in the budget. "With careful pruning the budget would not have to have this item," he said.

"In rebuttal to Mr. Lombardi," William Mallory, president of the board, said, "I would like to point out that there was ample time to discuss pruning."

"IN MY OPINION Mr. Lombardi has done a disservice to the board by not bringing this up at the time of the discussion."

"We are here to work together," Paul Baumbach added.

Ignoring these assertions by the rest of the board, Lombardi insisted the board did not try to formulate a budget without including tax warrants.

Mallory called for a vote, ending the discussion.

Before the board was polled, Mallory advised Lombardi he could present a more economical budget at the public hearing Sept. 29.

"MR. LOMBARDI, you have 30 days to reduce the budget by $69,000," Mallory said.

The board then passed the motion approving the budget and setting the public hearing date.

The approved budget estimates a total cash revenue in the education fund of $559,573.42 and a total cash expenditure of $446,405.07.

This includes a $100 increase in teachers' salaries at each level in the schedule due to the increase in state aid.

The board agreed earlier to review salaries in the event an increase in state funds was forthcoming.

The base pay will now be $7,000 a year, which is about average for the state.

CAPITAL OUTLAY, which was originally set at $9,400 was cut to $7,200 as the board eliminated items not deemed necessary at this time.

Another $12,000 estimated for the new building and improvement account in the building fund was reduced by half.

Lombardi who appeared to have objections at the beginning of the meeting refrained from comment.

When board member Edward Thommen asked Lombardi to state his opinion on the item, Lombardi replied he wanted to wait until he had the "entire package."

Seek Free Lights

Representatives of the Bensenville Boys Athletic Association (BBAA) appeared at the Bensenville Park District meeting Wednesday to petition for waived electricity fees for the use of lights on the park's football field.

Will Davidson, BBAA football president, told the board of commissioners that his organization cannot afford the $4 per evening fee for the use of the football field lights. Davidson asked if a reevaluation could be made of costs to determine whether the $4 fee is an accurate price.

The commissioners were split on the issue. Commissioner Bill Burde said he felt the BBAA football is "such a good program" that the electricity fee should be donated by the park district.

COMMISSIONER Bob Nichols disagreed, saying, "If you don't charge BBAA the fee, then you can't charge anyone else either and right now we can't afford that."

Commissioner Jack Schuster asked the BBAA representatives why the older boys didn't play football on park district property but played instead at Fenton High School.

Davidson explained that the park field is only 80 yards in length and thus does not meet the 100-yard requirement of the league. Both organizations agreed to examine the field to see if it can be extended the extra footage. The question of whether electrical fees could be adjusted was referred to a committee.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board announced acquisition of lots 13, 14 and 15 on Poplar St., north of Irving Park Road and west of Route 83.

Park board Pres. Donald Carroll said he was "very happy" about the acquisition because prior to the purchase, children had to cross Route 83 in order to find a playground. Carroll said the land would be made into a lot for smaller children.

The board also officially welcomed Alan Randall, the new Bensenville Park director, and approved his salary at $10,800.

Years ago, a town could emerge from a few homes, usually somewhere along a railroad, and just sort of grow without much concern for the future. The future, years ago, was something that came much too slowly and it was figured that over the spread of a couple of generations, people could adapt.

People built permanence years ago, too, and would have laughed hysterically if someone said there should be a building inspector to check construction. There was no code, but they built better than most would have demanded in code anyway.

A MASTER PLAN? You've got to be joking. There was Main Street and a few others trickling off of it, and the stores were on Main and the houses usually weren't.

The towns took care of themselves, sometimes getting a hand from the sheriff when additional law enforcement was necessary.

The farmers came to town on Saturdays to do their business with retail merchants, and a school or church was something built by the town's people. Bond issues? Zoning? Sanitary districts, mosquito abatement, forest preserves, tax referendums? No such animals, no such need.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED, some say rather wistfully, and it would be impossible to have that system of government anymore.

You just can't think in terms of county sheriffs when you need a hand anymore. You've got to think of the neighboring community, the overall development of a region, and the preventatives for pollution of those things too precious to pollute. You've got to consider your tax base, and your business district, and how your town fits into an overall plan ideal for everyone.

So when you pound away at the need for cooperation among the little fiefdoms in DuPage County, you need an example, and you point to a town with ostrich head leadership and say "take a look and see how rotten things can get when a master plan is operated out of a hip pocket, subject to change without notice."

THE SONG SAYS "the old home town is still the same," and we personally report that such a pattern in Downers Grove continues — a good town, slowly sinking into a wretched sewer. It has been rotting since about 1955, and the stench is being carried this way with a Monday resolution opposing an eight-plant idea to consolidate the growing problem of sewage with a worthy byproduct of helping to clean up some of the rivers in the area.

They've got their own system, they maintain, and nobody but nobody is going to hack away at our little fiefdom. Independence is nice, but blind adherence to stupidity is something else.

Yep, Downers Grove, once a town of about 5,000 or so, along a railroad, in DuPage County, neat and residential, hasn't changed a bit in 14 years. The town has grown to nearly 30,000, we're told, with no plan, no cooperation, no thinking of the future, because they like to think in the fashion they did 50 years ago.

And you look around, and wonder how many Downers Groves lay along the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

Peacock Shows Interest In Consolidation Study

"I believe we owe it to our constituency to explore the matter of consolidation," F. Edward Peacock, president of Itasca Dist. 10 school board said at Wednesday's meeting.

The question of consolidation came up for discussion as the result of two previous meetings between members of the Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville school districts.

Representatives from these districts had invited their counterparts from Itasca and Medinah, but neither of these districts had made any positive response.

"It's a difficult thing to evaluate in dollars and cents," Peacock continued. "We don't know whether money can be saved through consolidation or whether money can be obtained to offset any loss."

"THE CONSTITUTIONAL convention

will certainly have an effect also. No one knows what they will decide on state aid. At present, state aid favors consolidation into unit districts."

Mrs. Mary C. Hodgkin, secretary of the school board, Raymond Bensen, a board member and Peacock were selected to represent Dist. 10 in any further consolidation discussions.

"I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," Peacock said.

In other board action Wednesday evening three new contracts were accepted. They include Mrs. Marlene Zorn, who will teach second grade at the Washington School, Mrs. Lynda Roschke, who will teach art throughout the district, and William McMullen, who will be guidance counselor for the district.

"THIS IS THE first year we will have a full time guidance counselor," Arnold Rusche, superintendent of the district said. "He will be working with students throughout the district who are having academic difficulties."

The building committee reported that all the major summer projects, including painting, had been completed.

The board also purchased a three foot by 60 foot roll of commercial matting for district school entrances.

"THERE ARE TWO sides to consolidation just as in everything else," Peacock said. "Taxpayers are interested in saving money and on that argument alone I believe we should look into consolidation. But the only way you can accurately measure the financial status of the five individual districts is by past performance, which is some cases has not been on a par throughout the five districts.

"In our case we have not had tax anticipation warrants for at least the past 12 years, while some of the other districts have. How do you reconcile this? This is just one of the facets of the question of consolidation that will have to be mullied over."

Davis To Go To Meeting

Medinah School Dist. 11 which has expressed an interest in consolidation but not a willingness to participate in any efforts right now, plans to attend the next meeting concerning the matter in October.

"I planned to attend the August meeting, but I couldn't make it," Supt. Richard C. Davis said.

"We have always been interested in consolidation possibilities," Davis added. "Neither Itasca nor Medinah really needs to consolidate."

Roselle and Bloomingdale who have been pushing the issue are broke according to Davis. "We are just getting developers interested."

Davis went on to explain that the five per cent indebtedness was a major factor impeding consolidation, especially between high school and elementary districts.

As districts combine the bonding power decreases because the evaluation is taxed only once. Unless the indebtedness limit is raised the financial situation of the schools will be increasingly critical.

Itasca Gets Lower Bid

by SYD JAMIESON

An apparent low bid for installation of aeration equipment in the new lagoon of Itasca's expanded sewage treatment plant was submitted by W. Wanzenberg & Co. of Schiller Park. It was announced this week by Richard Koehler, consulting engineer.

Wanzenberg's bid, which was received Aug. 16 was $68,150, lower than a previous bid by Albert T. Wigert last March. Wigert is the contractor on the sewage treatment plant project.

According to Koehler, work on the aeration can start 90 days after a letter to proceed is issued and, following approval by the Illinois Sanitary Water Board and the federal government.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS elected to install the equipment after being advised by the state that such work would be required by 1972.

In other business during the village board meeting Tuesday night, trustees heard a favorable recommendation by its planning commission to the planned development "concept" for 431 apartment units proposed by Avtech, Inc.

The recommendation was presented by Charles Hodgkin, plan commission chairman.

Hodgkin told board members, "Based on the information presented, we recommend to the village board that this concept of a planned development with multifamily dwellings and open space with a lake be approved."

"HOWEVER," Hodgkin explained, "because of the pressure of time and an immediate decision, many things need to be studied more carefully."

He suggested to board members that prior to signing of Avtech's pre-annexation agreement, "a detailed investigation be made" in various areas.

Among these were adequacy of police and fire protection, street and traffic flow, sewer and water availability, engineering studies and definite time commitments for the proposed three-year building program.

Another area for consideration by the trustees is the ability of Avtech to finance the $14 million project.

"WE WILL BE happy to assist the board in any of these areas of investigation which may be of help to you," Hodgkin reported.

He said the commission's favorable recommendation to the planned development concept was based on the following:

—Locate the project in an outlying area.

—A buffer area of light manufacturing.

—The five-story buildings would be placed on a low portion of the land around the lake.

—Avtech would own and keep title to the development.

—It would be financed by private funds and no federal money would be used.

—Local people involved with Avtech should have real interest in this project.

BOARD MEMBERS appeared receptive to the commission's recommendations and indicated some ground work had already begun on some of the areas suggested for consideration by the commission.

They promised Hodgkin the commission would get "another look" at the pre-annexation agreement after Lawrence C. Traeger Jr., village attorney, has reviewed the proposal.

The commission will also offer recommendations once the preliminary plat has been submitted by Avtech.

Commission member Paul Pella informed the trustees "we want to make certain they carry their fair share. We know what we can give them; we want assets, not liabilities."

Rounding out the meeting agenda, board members mullied over a tree planting program for the apartment complex on Irving Park Road near Bloomingdale Road. A portion of some $5,500 in funds received by the village under a performance bond for public improvements claimed through default, will be used in the beautification program.

50 Expected At Water Show

More than 50 swimmers and acrobats will perform in the 11th annual Bensenville Water Show tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the pool located on Church and Main streets.

The theme of this year's show is "The Circus" and the ringleader will be Park Commissioner Bill Berde. Student directors Denise Palmer and Kathy Durlak will perform a synchronized swim duet and soloist Jackie Whitlow will demonstrate her tumbling skills.

Participants in the show have been practicing since the middle of July, according to one pool supervisor, and they will present 13 acts of swimming, diving, tumbling and dancing.

The United States Weather Bureau has promised nice weather both tonight and tomorrow night with "less than five per cent chance of precipitation." In case their prediction should fail, however, alternate rain dates for the show have been set at Aug. 30 and 31.

Review Little Theater

With just enough members for a quorum, the Dist. 100 Board of Education spent three hours Tuesday discussing the Little Theater Project, the matter of Wood

Dale's annexation of the future high school site and the question of joining Dist. 2 in a consolidation study.

Member Morton Wright served as president pro tem in the absence of Pres. James DiOrto. Members Martin Romme and Will Davidson were also missing from the meeting.

The board discussed at length the possibility of continuing plans for improvements of the Little Theater which were begun last spring. Wright had brought the subject up at the last board meeting, noting then that the board had never directed the administration to shelve the project.

SUPT. MARTIN ZUCKERMAN agreed Tuesday that he had received no such direction from the board and added, "Since the original funds for the project were depleted, I suggested to Ken Carroll (business manager) that we hold the line on the project."

Zuckerman continued, "Even if we did receive a favorable bid on the project, we have no present plan to finance it."

"I had understood," he said, "that it was not the intention of the board to get involved in projects not accounted for in the budget."

The superintendent reported that an estimated $9,000 would be needed before drawings of the project could be completed. This figure, he said, represented only about 8 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

Attention was focused on the inadequacies of the little theater earlier this year when Fenton dramatists brought back a first place win for their production of "The Romantics" despite poor facilities in the literally "little" theater.

WRIGHT SAID HE would like to study the cost figures before taking a vote on the matter. The board concurred and the item was tabled until the next board meeting.

In other business, Zuckerman told the board that the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board is studying "the advantages and disadvantages of the current dual district arrangement," and asked if the Dist. 100 board wished to cooperate in the study.

The matter was tabled until the next meeting when Zuckerman said a representative of the Dist. 2 board would be present to report progress of the study.

Business manager Kenneth Carroll also reported that the Wood Dale zoning commission has voted to move ahead on annexation of property designated as a future high school site.

Carroll said a pre-annexation agreement has been drawn which guarantees the school district adequate sewer and water facilities and the waiving of all customary annexation fees.

The 40-plus acres of land are located north of the Wood Dale Junior High on Wood Dale Road. Carroll said Wood Dale's sudden interest in annexation of the property is linked to desired annexation of land to the east and north of the site.

ZUCKERMAN ALSO presented a report called "The Challenge of Educational Leadership" in which he called for the board to give "thought and discussion relating to far-reaching responsibilities of educational leadership." Zuckerman told the board, "We must look beyond the snarls, entanglements and pressures of today. We must together be concerned about the future."

The only board action Tuesday was acceptance of the minutes, bills and one resignation. The board also approved two teacher contracts.

REVERSAL OF previous disinterest in consolidation talks on the part of School Dist. 10 resulted when F. Edward Peacock, Itasca school board member, advocated exploration of the idea. "I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," he said.

Attorney Seeks Evidence

Court action to get statements of evidence and documents from three of four Roselle village officials named in a suit against the village is being sought this week by an attorney for a group of Town Acres and other residents fighting sidewalks.

John Cummins, of the Samuel Young law firm of Chicago, told the Register Wednesday he was pushing to speed the suit to trial, if indeed a trial is to come. Alternative solutions like a legal summary judgment by a judge of what the law actually is could avoid an actual court trial, he said.

DISPOSITIONS, oral statements under oath before a court reporter, are being sought from Village Clerk Mrs. Mildred Winkler, Building Inspector William Manns and Treasurer Carl Lindquist. The court will have to order such dispositions given before the 30-day response-to-summons period expires in more than two weeks.

Cummins also told the Register he is seeking a discovery to force the officials to allow him to examine all pertinent records concerning sidewalk bonds, bond money and other important records.

He said Village Pres. Robert Frantz probably will not be asked to give a disposition because all the other three officials should have all the necessary documents he wants. If they don't, Frantz will be asked to produce the missing documents.

RECORDS OF WHO has posted sidewalk bonds, where they live, what money has been collected, what areas are affected and who is living under temporary occupancy permits will be sought. Temporary permits are given when a resident doesn't put in sidewalks.

A suit by several Town Acres residents including Mel Marvin, 218 E. Thorndale, was filed less than two weeks ago by Cummins against the village to test the legality of the sidewalk program and the way the village has enforced its own ordinances.

A temporary injunction to prevent the village from enforcing the sidewalk ordinance, issuing sidewalk permits and receiving sidewalk bond money may be sought next month, if it is warranted, Cummins said.

"We would have to show sufficient evidence to the court before such an injunction would be granted," he said, "and the injunction need not follow the gathering of dispositions. We could get one tomorrow if we wanted one and could prove a need."

THE SUIT IS backed by a group or committee called VOICE from Town Acres homeowners. It has organized opposition to the sidewalk program because of the rural atmosphere there among other reasons.

If the legal action is successful, DuPage County courts would declare provisions in certain village ordinances invalid and nonenforceable, thus stopping sidewalk installation at least in certain areas. The courts could also force the village to pay back all sidewalk bonds collected to date.

The officials are named in their official capacity only, not as individuals: Frantz because he is responsible for executing ordinances; Mrs. Winkler because she collects bond money; Manns because he inspects the work, and Lindquist because he handles the bond money funds.

THE SUIT QUESTIONS the legality of the village requirements of a sidewalk bond from building contractors prior to occupancy by resident homeowners. It also questions the legality of a village board action in 1967 which repealed a 10-year old ordinance which granted exemption to certain forested areas from sidewalks.

Certain streets or parts of streets were exempted as forested land from sidewalks by the 1957 ordinance. Some of the streets exempted were Town Acres Lane, East Thorndale, Crestwood Drive, Picton Road, Oak Street, Rosedale, North Prospect Street and others.

CUMMINS SAID that since the village abandoned the rights to sidewalk installation, it abandoned the property in effect. When a public agency abandons property, it goes to adjacent landowners, he said. If the village wants to put in sidewalks along the former right of way, then it must compensate the new owners of the once village property.

VOICE is fighting sidewalks more on the northern and extreme southern and western sections of the village while a group called the Roselle Better Government Association is starting to fight sidewalks in the central areas and throughout the rest of the village.

Scout Troops 60, 65 To Hold Paper Drive

Wood Dale Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 will hold a paper drive from noon to 3 p.m., Sunday. Residents are requested to place papers at the edge of the road by the driveway. Anyone wishing assistance is also requested to place a white rag on their mailbox. All money from paper drives goes into the operation of the Boy Scout troops.

Garbage Disposal Creates Growing Problems

by CHARLES E. HUFNAGEL
How is DuPage County going to handle its growing problem of solid waste disposal in the next five years and during the next 20 years?

This means garbage, the general run of domestic refuse around the county, including tin cans and junk cars.

Pat Riedy, Lisle Township chairman of the public works committee, in getting a unanimous recommendation asking the county board to spend $25,000 for a countywide study, has served notice that his committee, rather than spinning its wheels, is very much with it.

The committee recommendation will be presented to the next board session, where approval is expected. The committee decision came after representatives of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, a firm of consulting engineers said to be the best in the business, gave an off-the-cuff summary of what the problem was in DuPage County and outlined ways to solve the solid waste problem.

JOHN TOWNSEND, an Arlington Heights resident, appeared in person, and Carl Bowen, a partner and leading consulting engineer, told how the problem is being solved with new ideas at Flint, Mich., and Madison, Wis.

"What we're seeking is the most desirable program for the county and both from the standpoint of costs and effectiveness," John Morris, public works superintendent, told the committee.

But an agreement was not reached and a favorable vote taken until after some sharp exchanges between committee members.

Two things appeared to be conclusive: the incinerator was ruled out, at least until the last resort and the county had plenty of vacant land for landfill operations or other method of disposal.

John Stobb, York Township, recognized as top man in garbage disposal business in DuPage County, as a committee member, emphatically declared:

"We don't need a study. If we do our own engineers can do it."

"WE'RE NOT GOING to study incinerators, we're not going to take the material out of the county although Cook County brings it into us, we're going to use landfills. Why then do we have to have a study?"

But Paul Ronske, also of York Township, and chairman of the county board, took a different view. He said the county would continue to grow in population and this problem would intensify. The county needed a long range program.

"We're talking $25,000, a figure of $1,000 a year, to show us the best method to handle solid waste for 25 years. It's a good investment," said Ronske.

George Pratt, Wayne Township, said a study was necessary to set the direction. He told of past experiences of the county board in setting policies in this area.

"IF WE WANT A landfill here," he stated, "someone will kick and say put it over there, and the people over there will object with 'don't put it here.'"

This is why, in his opinion, the county needed a study.

Don Prindle, Addison Township, who has begun to play a major role in county problem discussions, advised that DuPage County, unlike Kane, has thousands of acres of forest preserve land unfit for landfill or other methods of solid waste disposal? He urged a study of the use of these properties as the least expensive and the most inoffensive to the public eye and nostril.

Bowen in his remarks about disposal lauded the Madison method as a model innovation of the day and urged DuPage County to send people there to make an appraisal.

He tossed a cellophane bag of solid waste disposal on the committee room table, a sample direct from the Madison plant. This material, originally garbage and other residential refuse including tin cans, is a product of a grinding process used at Madison.

AFTER IT PASSES through a grinder it is piled in wind-rows, spread out, or disposed of in several ways. On drying it becomes stringy and gray in color and appears that it would make pretty good humus. A sample was passed around for odor, and the consensus was — not bad.

In the opinion of the public works superintendent, grinding and pulverizing by using the Madison method will reduce costs. No cover would be necessary such as now being used with raw solid wastes on landfill. With acreage for disposal it could be wind-rowed or piled to a depth of several feet.

A rough estimate is that this county would need four grinders at the cost of $250,000 each. Such matters a study would accurately reveal.

THE STUDY WOULD also reveal facts not now available about industrial wastes and their disposal. This problem is also growing.

As Bowen pointed out, technological civilization with an enormous increase in population is confronted with a massive problem of disposing of its wastes. The environment, he says, is the only place where it can go.

In the near future the magnitude of the problem will become obvious to all in DuPage County. This is a waste disposal engineer's opinion.

Dist. 11 Budget Attacked

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

After nearly four hours of reviewing and trimming its tentative 1969-70 budget, Medinah School Dist. 11 board was told its efforts lacked consideration and careful planning.

The charge was made by board member Louis Lombardi after it was moved that the budget be approved. Lombardi made no statements during the meeting.

After the motion to approve was made he said, "I've been waiting a long time for this."

He proceeded to list his objections to the budget.

"I don't understand how, with two members of the board on the budget committee, this budget was devised. Items listed under administrative expenses are an attempt to establish policy without the approval of the board," he said.

LOMBARDI WAS REFERRING to provisions made for the positions of an attorney, treasurer and a full-time secretary, which he claimed should have been approved by the board.

During the meeting the board eliminated the treasurer, but voted to hire an attorney on a monthly retainer basis and create a new secretarial position in the understaffed South School office.

Lombardi also objected to the inclusion of tax anticipation warrants in the budget. "With careful pruning the budget would not have to have this item," he said.

"In rebuttal to Mr. Lombardi," William Mallory, president of the board, said, "I would like to point out that there was ample time to discuss pruning."

"IN MY OPINION Mr. Lombardi has done a disservice to the board by not bringing this up at the time of the discussion."

"We are here to work together," Paul Baumbach added.

Ignoring these assertions by the rest of the board, Lombardi insisted the board did not try to formulate a budget without including tax warrants.

Mallory called for a vote, ending the discussion.

Before the board was polled, Mallory advised Lombardi he could present a more economical budget at the public hearing Sept. 29.

"MR. LOMBARDI, you have 30 days to reduce the budget by $69,000," Mallory said.

The board then passed the motion approving the budget and setting the public hearing date.

The approved budget estimates a total cash revenue in the education fund of $559,573.42 and a total cash expenditure of $446,405.07.

This includes a $100 increase in teachers' salaries at each level in the schedule due to the increase in state aid.

The board agreed earlier to review salaries in the event an increase in state funds was forthcoming.

The base pay will now be $7,000 a year, which is about average for the state.

CAPITAL OUTLAY, which was originally set at $9,400 was cut to $7,200 as the board eliminated items not deemed necessary at this time.

Another $12,000 estimated for the new building and improvement account in the building fund was reduced by half.

Lombardi who appeared to have objections at the beginning of the meeting refrained from comment.

When board member Edward Thommen asked Lombardi to state his opinion on the item, Lombardi replied he wanted to wait until he had the "entire package."

Seek Free Lights

Representatives of the Bensenville Boys Athletic Association (BBAA) appeared at the Bensenville Park District meeting Wednesday to petition for waived electricity fees for the use of lights on the park's football field.

Will Davidson, BBAA football president, told the board of commissioners that his organization cannot afford the $4 per evening fee for the use of the football field lights. Davidson asked if a reevaluation could be made of costs to determine whether the $4 fee is an accurate price.

The commissioners were split on the issue. Commissioner Bill Burde said he felt the BBAA football is "such a good program" that the electricity fee should be donated by the park district.

COMMISSIONER Bob Nicols disagreed, saying, "If you don't charge BBAA the fee, then you can't charge anyone else either and right now we can't afford that."

Commissioner Jack Schuster, asked the BBAA representatives why the older boys didn't play football on park district property but played instead at Fenton High School.

Davidson explained that the park field is only 80 yards in length and thus does not meet the 100-yard requirement of the league. Both organizations agreed to examine the field to see if it can be extended the extra footage. The question of whether electrical fees could be adjusted was referred to a committee.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board announced acquisition of lots 13, 14 and 15 on Poplar St., north of Irving Park Road and west of Route 83.

Park board Pres. Donald Carroll said he was "very happy" about the acquisition because prior to the purchase, children had to cross Route 83 in order to find a playground. Carroll said the land would be made into a tot-lot for smaller children.

The board also officially welcomed Alan Randall, the new Bensenville Park director, and approved his salary at $10,800.

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Years ago, a town could emerge from a few homes, usually somewhere along a railroad, and just sort of grow without much concern for the future. The future, years ago, was something that came much too slowly and it was figured that over the spread of a couple of generations, people could adapt.

People built permanence years ago, too, and would have laughed hysterically if someone said there should be a building inspector to check construction. There was no code, but they built better than most would have demanded in code anyway.

A MASTER PLAN? You've got to be joking. There was Main Street and a few others trickling off of it, and the stores were on Main and the houses usually weren't.

The towns took care of themselves, sometimes getting a hand from the sheriff when additional law enforcement was necessary.

The farmers came to town on Saturdays to do their business with retail merchants, and a school or church was something built by the town's people. Bond issues? Zoning? Sanitary districts, mosquito abatement, forest preserves, tax referendums? No such animals, no such need.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED, some say rather wistfully, and it would be impossible to have that system of government anymore.

You just can't think in terms of county sheriffs when you need a hand anymore. You've got to think of the neighboring community, the overall development of a region, and the preventatives for pollution of those things too precious to pollute. You've got to consider your tax base, and your business district, and how your town fits into an overall plan ideal for everyone.

So when you pound away at the need for cooperation among the little fieldfoms in DuPage County, you need an example, and you point to a town with ostrich head leadership and say "take a look and see how rotten things can get when a master plan is operated out of a hip pocket, subject to change without notice."

THE SONG SAYS "the old home town is still the same," and we personally report that such a pattern in Downers Grove continues — a good town, slowly sinking into a wretched sewer. It has been rotting since about 1955, and the stench is being carried this way with a Monday resolution opposing an eight-plant idea to consolidate the growing problem of sewage with a worthy byproduct of helping to clean up some of the rivers in the area.

They've got their own system, they maintain, and nobody but nobody is going to hack away at our little fiefdom. Independence is nice, but blind adherence to stupidity is something else.

Yep, Downers Grove, once a town of about 5,000 or so, along a railroad, in DuPage County, neat and residential, hasn't changed a bit in 14 years. Hie town has grown to nearly 30,000, we're told, with no plan, no cooperation, no thinking of the future, because they like to think in the fashion they did 50 years ago.

And you look around, and wonder how many Downers Groves lay along the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

Peacock Shows Interest In Consolidation Study

"I believe we owe it to our constituency to explore the matter of consolidation," F. Edward Peacock, president of Itasca Dist. 10 school board said at Wednesday's meeting.

The question of consolidation came up for discussion as the result of two previous meetings between members of the Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville school districts.

Representatives from these districts had invited their counterparts from Itasca and Medinah, but neither of these districts had made any positive response.

"It's a difficult thing to evaluate in dollars and cents," Peacock continued. "We don't know whether money can be saved through consolidation or whether money can be obtained to offset any loss."

"THE CONSTITUTIONAL convention

will certainly have an effect also. No one knows what they will decide on state aid. At present, state aid favors consolidation into unit districts."

Mrs. Mary C. Hodgkin, secretary of the school board, Raymond Bensen, a board member and Peacock were selected to represent Dist. 10 in any further consolidation discussions.

"I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," Peacock said.

In other board action Wednesday evening three new contracts were accepted. They include Mrs. Marlene Zorn, who will teach second grade at the Watlington School, Mrs. Lynda Roschke, who will teach art throughout the district, and William McMullen, who will be guidance counselor for the district.

"THIS IS THE first year we will have a full time guidance counselor," Arnold Rusche, superintendent of the district said. "He will be working with students throughout the district who are having academic difficulties."

The building committee reported that all the major summer projects, including painting, had been completed.

The board also purchased a three foot by 60 foot roll of commercial matting for district school entrances.

"THERE ARE TWO sides to consolidation just as in everything else," Peacock said. "Taxpayers are interested in saving money and on that argument alone I believe we should look into consolidation. But the only way you can accurately measure the financial status of the five individual districts is by past performance, which is some cases has not been on a par throughout the five districts.

"In our case we have not had tax anticipation warrants for at least the past 12 years, while some of the other districts have. How do you reconcile this? This is just one of the facets of the question of consolidation that will have to be mulled over."

Davis To Go To Meeting

Medinah School Dist. 11 which has expressed an interest in consolidation but not a willingness to participate in any efforts right now, plans to attend the next meeting concerning the matter in October.

"I planned to attend the August meeting but I couldn't make it," Supt. Richard C. Davis said.

"We have always been interested in consolidation possibilities," Davis added. "Neither Itasca nor Medinah really needs to consolidate."

Roselle and Bloomingdale who have been pushing the issue are broke according to Davis. "We are just getting developers interested."

Davis went on to explain that the five per cent indebtedness was a major factor impeding consolidation, especially between high school and elementary districts.

As districts combine the bonding power decreases because the evaluation is taxed only once. Unless the indebtedness limit is raised the financial situation of the schools will be increasingly critical.

REVERSAL OF previous disinterest in consolidation talks on the part of School Dist. 10 resulted when F. Edward Peacock, Itasca school board member, advocated exploration of the idea. "I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," he said.

Itasca Gets Lower Bid

by SYD JAMIESON

An apparent low bid for installation of aeration equipment in the new lagoon of Itasca's expanded sewage treatment plant was submitted by W. Wanzenberg & Co. of Schiller Park, it was announced this week by Richard Koehler, consulting engineer.

Wanzenberg's bid, which was received Aug. 16 was $68,150, lower than a previous bid by Albert T. Wigert last March. Wigert is the contractor on the sewage treatment plant project.

According to Koehler, work on the aeration can start 90 days after a letter to proceed is issued and, following approval by the Illinois Sanitary Water Board and the federal government.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS elected to install the equipment after being advised by the state that such work would be required by 1972.

In other business during the village board meeting Tuesday night, trustees heard a favorable recommendation by its planning commission to the planned development "concept" for 431 apartment units proposed by Avtech, Inc.

The recommendation was presented by Charles Hodgkin, plan commission chairman.

Hodgkin told board members, "Based on the information presented, we recommend to the village board that this concept of a planned development with multifamily dwellings and open space with a lake be approved."

"HOWEVER," Hodgkin explained, "because of the pressure of time and an immediate decision, many things need to be studied more carefully."

He suggested to board members that prior to signing of Avtech's pre-annexation agreement, "a detailed investigation be made" in various areas.

Among these were adequacy of police and fire protection, street and traffic flow, sewer and water availability, engineering studies and definite time commitments for the proposed three-year building program.

Another area for consideration by the trustees is the ability of Avtech to finance the $14 million project.

"WE WILL BE happy to assist the board in any of these areas of investigation which may be of help to you," Hodgkin reported.

He said the commission's favorable recommendation to the planned development concept was based on the following:

—Locate the project in an outlying area.

—A buffer area of light manufacturing.

—The five-story buildings would be placed on a low portion of the land around the lake.

—Avtech would own and keep title to the development.

—It would be financed by private funds and no federal money would be used.

—Local people involved with Avtech should have real interest in this project.

BOARD MEMBERS appeared to agree to the commission's recommendation and indicated some ground work had already begun on some of the areas suggested for consideration by the commission.

They promised Hodgkin the commission would get "another look" at the pre-annexation agreement after Lawrence C. Traeger Jr., village attorney, has reviewed the proposal.

The commission will also offer recommendations once the preliminary plat has been submitted by Avtech.

Commission member Paul Pella informed the trustees "we want to make certain they carry their fair share. We know what we can give them; we want assets, not liabilities."

Rounding out the meeting agenda, board members mulled over a tree planting program for the apartment complex on Irving Park Road near Bloomingdale Road. A portion of some $5,500 in funds received by the village under a performance bond for public improvements claimed through default, will be used in the beautification program.

50 Expected At Water Show

More than 50 swimmers and acrobats will perform in the 11th annual Bensenville Water Show tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the pool located on Church and Main streets.

The theme of this year's show is "The Circus" and the ringleader will be Park Commissioner Bill Berde. Student directors Denise Palmer and Kathy Durlak will perform a synchronized swim duet and soloist Jackie Whillow will demonstrate her tumbling skills.

Participants in the show have been practicing since the middle of July, according to one pool supervisor, and they will present 13 acts of swimming, diving, tumbling and dancing.

The United States Weather Bureau has promised nice weather both tonight and tomorrow night with "less than five per cent chance of precipitation." In case their prediction should fail, however, alternate rain dates for the show have been set at Aug. 30 and 31.

Review Little Theater

With just enough members for a quorum, the Dist. 100 Board of Education spent three hours Tuesday discussing the Little Theater Project, the matter of Wood

Dale's annexation of the future high school site and the question of joining Dist. 2 in a consolidation study.

Member Morton Wright served as president pro tem in the absence of Pres. James DiOrto. Members Martin Romme and Will Davidson were also missing from the meeting.

The board discussed at length the possibility of continuing plans for improvements of the Little Theater which were begun last spring. Wright had brought the subject up at the last board meeting, noting then that the board had never directed the administration to shelve the project.

SUPT. MARTIN ZUCKERMAN agreed Tuesday that he had received no such direction from the board and added, "Since the original funds for the project were depleted, I suggested to Ken Carroll (business manager) that we hold the line on the project."

Zuckerman continued, "Even if we did receive a favorable bid on the project, we have no present plan to finance it."

"I had understood," he said, "that it was not the intention of the board to get involved in projects not accounted for in the budget."

The superintendent reported that an estimated $9,000 would be needed before drawings of the project could be completed. This figure, he said, represented only about 8 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

Attention was focused on the inadequacies of the little theater earlier this year when Panton dramatists brought back a first place win for the production of "The Romantics." "The poor facilities in the literally 'little' theater," WRIGHT SAID HE would like to study the cost figures before taking a vote on the matter. The board concurred and the item was tabled until the next board meeting.

In other business, Zuckerman told the board that the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board is studying "the advantages and disadvantages of the current dual district arrangement," and asked if the Dist. 100 board wished to cooperate in the study.

The matter was tabled until the next meeting when Zuckerman said a representative of the Dist. 2 board would be present to report progress of the study.

Business manager Kenneth Carroll also reported that the Wood Dale zoning commission has voted to move ahead on annexation of property designated as a future high school site.

Carroll said a pre-annexation agreement has been drawn which guarantees the school district adequate sewer and water facilities and the waiving of all customary annexation fees.

The 40-plus acres of land are located north of the Wood Dale Junior High on Wood Dale Road. Carroll said Wood Dale's sudden interest in annexation of the property is linked to desired annexation of land to the east and north of the site.

ZUCKERMAN ALSO presented a report called "The Challenge of Educational Leadership" in which he called for the board to give "thought and discussion relating to far-reaching responsibilities of educational leadership." Zuckerman told the board, "We must look beyond the snarls, entanglements and pressures of today. We must together be concerned about the future."

The only board action Tuesday was acceptance of the minutes, bills and one resignation. The board also approved two teacher contracts.

Attorney Seeks Evidence

Court action to get statements of evidence and documents from three of four Roselle village officials named in a suit against the village is being sought this week by an attorney for a group of Town Acres and other residents fighting sidewalks.

John Cummins, of the Samuel Young law firm of Chicago, told the Register Wednesday he was pushing to speed the suit to trial, if indeed a trial is to come. Alternative solutions like a legal summary judgment by a judge of what the law actually is could avoid an actual court trial, he said.

DISPOSITIONS, oral statements under oath before a court reporter, are being sought from Village Clerk Mrs. Mildred Winkler, Building Inspector William Manns and Treasurer Carl Lindquist. The court will have to order such dispositions given before the 30-day response-to-summons period expires in more than two weeks.

Cummins also told the Register he is seeking a discovery to force the officials to allow him to examine all pertinent records concerning sidewalk bonds, bond money and other important records.

He said Village Pres. Robert Frantz probably will not be asked to give a disposition because all the other three officials should have all the necessary documents he wants. If they don't, Frantz will be asked to produce the missing documents.

RECORDS OF WHO has posted sidewalk bonds, where they live, what money has been collected, what areas are affected and who is living under temporary occupancy permits will be sought. Temporary permits are given when a resident doesn't put in sidewalks.

A suit by several Town Acres residents including Mel Marvin, 218 E. Thorndale, was filed less than two weeks ago by Cummins against the village to test the legality of the sidewalk program and the way the village has enforced its own ordinances.

A temporary injunction to prevent the village from enforcing the sidewalk ordinance, issuing sidewalk permits and receiving sidewalk bond money may be sought next month, if it is warranted, Cummins said.

"We would have to show sufficient evidence to the court before such an injunction would be granted," he said, "and the injunction need not follow the gathering of dispositions. We could get one tomorrow if we wanted one and could prove a need."

THE SUIT IS backed by a group of committee called VOICE from Town Acres homeowners. It has organized opposition to the sidewalk program because of the rural atmosphere there among other reasons.

If the legal action is successful, DuPage County courts would declare provisions in certain village ordinances invalid and nonenforceable, thus stopping sidewalk installation at least in certain areas. The courts could also force the village to pay back all sidewalk bonds collected to date.

The officials are named in their official capacity only, not as individuals: Frantz because he is responsible for executing ordinances; Mrs. Winkler because she collects bond money; Manns because he inspects the work, and Lindquist because he handles the bond money funds.

THE SUIT QUESTIONS the legality of the village requirements of a sidewalk bond from building contractors prior to occupancy by resident homeowners. It also questions the legality of a village board action in 1967 which repealed a 10-year old ordinance which granted exemption to certain forested areas from sidewalks.

Certain streets or parts of streets were exempted as forested land from sidewalks by the 1957 ordinance. Some of the streets exempted were Town Acres Lane, East Thorndale, Crestwood Drive, Picton Road, Oak Street, Rosedale, North Prospect Street and others.

CUMMINS SAID that since the village abandoned the rights to sidewalk installation, it abandoned the property in effect. When a public agency abandons property, it goes to adjacent landowners, he said. If the village wants to put in sidewalks along the former right of way, then it must compensate the new owners of the once village property.

VOICE is fighting sidewalks more on the northern and extreme southern and western sections of the village while a group called the Roselle Better Government Association is starting to fight sidewalks in the central areas and throughout the rest of the village.

Scout Troops 60, 65 To Hold Paper Drive

Wood Dale Boy Scout Troops 60 and 65 will hold a paper drive from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday. Residents are requested to place papers at the edge of the road by the driveway. Anyone wishing assistance is also requested to place a white rag on their mailbox. All money from paper drives goes into the operation of the Boy Scout troops.

Garbage Disposal Creates Growing Problems

by CHARLES E. HUFNAGEL
How is DuPage County going to handle its growing problem of solid waste disposal in the next five years and during the next 20 years?

This means garbage, the general run of domestic refuse around the county, including tin cans and junk cars.

Pat Riedy, Lisle Township chairman of the public works committee, in getting a unanimous recommendation asking the county board to spend $25,000 for a countywide study, has served notice that his committee, rather than spinning its wheels, is very much with it.

The committee recommendation will be presented to the next board session, where approval is expected. The committee decision came after representatives of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, a firm of consulting engineers said to be the best in the business, gave an off-the-cuff summary of what the problem was in DuPage County and outlined ways to solve the solid waste problem.

JOHN TOWNSEND, an Arlington Heights resident, appeared in person, and Carl Bowen, a partner and leading consulting engineer, told how the problem is being solved with new ideas at Flint, Mich., and Madison, Wis.

"What we're seeking is the most desirable program for the county and both from the standpoint of costs and effectiveness," John Morris, public works superintendent, told the committee.

But an agreement was not reached and a favorable vote taken until after some sharp exchanges between committee members.

Two things appeared to be conclusive: the incinerator was ruled out, at least until the last resort and the county had plenty of vacant land for landfill operations, or other method of disposal.

John Stobb, York Township, recognized as top man in garbage disposal business in DuPage County, as a committee member, emphatically declared:

"We don't need a study. If we do our own engineers can do it."

"WE'RE NOT GOING to study incinerators, we're not going to take the material out of the county although Cook County brings it into us, we're going to use landfills. Why then do we have to have a study?"

But Paul Ronske, also of York Township, and chairman of the county board, took a different view. He said the county would continue to grow in population and this problem would intensify. The county needed a long range program.

"We're talking $25,000, a figure of $1,000 a year, to show us the best method to handle solid waste for 25 years. It's a good investment," said Ronske.

George Pratt, Wayne Township, said a study was necessary to set the direction. He told of past experiences of the county board in setting policies in this area.

"IF WE WANT A landfill here," he stated, "someone will kick and say put it over there, and the people over there will object with 'don't put it here.'"

This is why, in his opinion, the county needed a study.

Don Prindle, Addison Township, who has begun to play a major role in county problem discussions, advised that DuPage County, unlike Kane, has thousands of acres of forest preserve land unfit for practically any use. Why not use it for landfill or other methods of solid waste disposal? He urged a study of the use of these properties as the least expensive and the most inoffensive to the public eye and nostril.

Bowen in his remarks about disposal lauded the Madison method as a model innovation of the day and urged DuPage County to send people there to make an appraisal.

He tossed a cellophane bag of solid waste disposal on the committee room table, a sample direct from the Madison plant. This material, originally garbage and other residential refuse including tin cans, is a product of a grinding process used at Madison.

AFTER IT PASSES through a grinder it is piled in wind-rows, spread out, or disposed of in several ways. On drying it becomes stringy and gray in color and appears that it would make pretty good humus. A sample was passed around for odor, and the consensus was — not bad.

In the opinion of the public works superintendent, grinding and pulverizing by using the Madison method will reduce costs. No cover would be necessary such as now being used with raw solid wastes on landfill. With acreage for disposal it could be wind-rowed or piled to a depth of several feet.

A rough estimate is that this county would need four grinders at the cost of $250,000 each. Such matters a study would accurately reveal.

THE STUDY WOULD also reveal facts not now available about industrial wastes and their disposal. This problem is also growing.

As Bowen pointed out, technological civilization with an enormous increase in population is confronted with a massive problem of disposing of its wastes. The environment, he says, is the only place where it can go.

In the near future the magnitude of the problem will become obvious to all in DuPage County. This is a waste disposal engineer's opinion.

Dist. 11 Budget Attacked

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

After nearly four hours of reviewing and trimming its tentative 1969-70 budget, Medinah School Dist. 11 board was told its efforts lacked consideration and careful planning.

The charge was made by board member Louis Lombardi after it was moved that the budget be approved. Lombardi made no statements during the meeting.

After the motion to approve was made he said, "I've been waiting a long time for this."

He proceeded to list his objections to the budget.

"I don't understand how, with two members of the board on the budget committee, this budget was devised. Items listed under administrative expenses are an attempt to establish policy without the approval of the board," he said.

Lombardi WAS REFERRING to provisions made for the positions of an attorney, treasurer and a full-time secretary, which he claimed should have been approved by the board.

During the meeting the board eliminated the treasurer, but voted to hire an attorney on a monthly retainer basis and create a new secretarial position in the understaffed South School office.

Lombardi also objected to the inclusion of tax anticipation warrants in the budget. "With careful pruning the budget would not have to have this item," he said.

In rebuttal to Mr. Lombardi, William Mallory, president of the board, said, "I would like to point out that there was ample time to discuss pruning."

"IN MY OPINION Mr. Lombardi has done a disservice to the board by not bringing this up at the time of the discussion."

"We are here to work together," Paul Baumbach added.

Ignoring these assertions by the rest of the board, Lombardi insisted the board did not try to formulate a budget without including tax warrants.

Mallory called for a vote, ending the discussion.

Before the board was polled, Mallory advised Lombardi he could present a more economical budget at the public hearing Sept. 29.

"MR. LOMBARDI, you have 30 days to reduce the budget by $69,000," Mallory said.

The board then passed the motion approving the budget and setting the public hearing date.

The approved budget estimates a total cash revenue in the education fund of $569,573.42 and a total cash expenditure of $446,405.07.

This includes a $100 increase in teachers' salaries at each level in the schedule due to the increase in state aid.

The board agreed earlier to review salaries in the event an increase in state funds was forthcoming.

The base pay will now be $7,000 a year, which is about average for the state.

CAPITAL OUTLAY, which was originally set at $9,400 was cut to $7,200 as the board eliminated items not deemed necessary at this time.

Another $12,000 estimated for the new building and improvement account in the building fund was reduced by half.

Lombardi who appeared to have objections at the beginning of the meeting refrained from comment.

When board member Edward Thommen asked Lombardi to state his opinion on the item, Lombardi replied he wanted to wait until he had the "entire package."

Seek Free Lights

Representatives of the Bensenville Boys Athletic Association (BBAA) appeared at the Bensenville Park District meeting Wednesday to petition for waived electricity fees for the use of lights on the park's football field.

Will Davidson, BBAA football president, told the board of commissioners that his organization cannot afford the $4 per evening fee for the use of the football field lights. Davidson asked if a reevaluation could be made of costs to determine whether the $4 fee is an accurate price.

The commissioners were split on the issue. Commissioner Bill Burde said he felt the BBAA football is "such a good program" that the electricity fee should be donated by the park district.

COMMISSIONER Bob Nicols disagreed, saying, "If you don't charge BBAA the fee, then you can't charge anyone else either and right now we can't afford that."

Commissioner Jack Schuster asked the BBAA representatives why the older boys didn't play football on park district property but played instead at Fenton High School.

Davidson explained that the park field is only 80 yards in length and thus does not meet the 100-yard requirement of the league. Both organizations agreed to examine the field to see if it can be extended the extra footage. The question of whether electrical fees could be adjusted was referred to a committee.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board announced acquisition of lots 13, 14 and 15 on Poplar St., north of Irving Park Road and west of Route 83.

Park board Pres. Donald Carroll said he was "very happy" about the acquisition because prior to the purchase, children had to cross Route 83 in order to find a playground. Carroll said the land would be made into a lot for smaller children.

The board also officially welcomed Alan Randall, the new Bensenville Park director, and approved his salary at $10,800.

Village Beat

Geoffrey Mehl

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Years ago, a town could emerge from a few homes, usually somewhere along a railroad, and just sort of grow without much concern for the future. The future, years ago, was something that came much too slowly and it was figured that over the spread of a couple of generations, people could adapt.

People built permanence years ago, too, and would have laughed hysterically if someone said there should be a building inspector to check construction. There was no code, but they built better than most would have demanded in code anyway.

A MASTER PLAN? You've got to be joking. There was Main Street and a few others trickling off of it, and the stores were on Main and the houses usually weren't.

The towns took care of themselves, sometimes getting a hand from the sheriff when additional law enforcement was necessary.

The farmers came to town on Saturdays to do their business with retail merchants, and a school or church was something built by the town's people. Bond issues? Zoning? Sanitary districts, mosquito abatement, forest preserves, tax referendums? No such animals, no such need.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED, some say rather wistfully, and it would be impossible to have that system of government anymore.

You just can't think in terms of county sheriffs when you need a hand anymore. You've got to think of the neighboring community, the overall development of a region, and the preventatives for pollution of those things too precious to pollute. You've got to consider your tax base, and your business district, and how your town fits into an overall plan ideal for everyone.

So when you pound away at the need for cooperation among the little fiefdoms in DuPage County, you need an example, and you point to a town with ostrich head leadership and say "take a look and see how rotten things can get when a master plan is operated out of a hip pocket, subject to change without notice."

THE SONG SAYS "the old home town is still the same," and we personally report that such a pattern in Downers Grove continues — a good town, slowly sinking into a wretched sewer. It has been rotting since, about, 1955, and the stench is being carried this way with a Monday resolution opposing an eight-plant idea to consolidate, the growing problem of sewage with a worthy byproduct of helping to clean up some of the rivers in the area.

They've got their own system, they maintain, and nobody but nobody is going to hack away at our little fiefdom. Independence is nice, but blind adherence to stupidity is something else.

Yep, Downers Grove, once a town of about 5,000 or so, along a railroad, in DuPage County, neat and residential, hasn't changed a bit in 14 years. Hte town has grown to nearly 30,000, we're told, with no plan, no cooperation, no thinking of the future, because they like to think in the fashion they did 50 years ago. And you, look around, and wonder how many Downers Groves lay along the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

Peacock Shows Interest In Consolidation Study

"I believe we owe it to our constituency to explore the matter of consolidation," F. Edward Peacock, president of Itasca Dist. 10 school board said at Wednesday's meeting.

The question of consolidation came up for discussion as the result of two previous meetings between members of the Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville school districts.

Representatives from these districts had invited their counterparts from Itasca and Medinah, but neither of these districts had made any positive response.

"It's a difficult thing to evaluate in dollars and cents," Peacock continued. "We don't know whether money can be saved through consolidation or whether money can be obtained to offset any loss."

"THE CONSTITUTIONAL convention

will certainly have an effect also. No one knows what they will decide on state aid. At present, state aid favors consolidation into unit districts."

Mrs. Mary C. Hodgkin, secretary of the school board, Raymond Bensen, a board member and Peacock were selected to represent Dist. 10 in any further consolidation discussions.

"I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," Peacock said.

In other board action Wednesday evening three new contracts were accepted. They include Mrs. Marlene Zorn, who will teach second grade at the Watlington School, Mrs. Lynda Roschke, who will teach art throughout the district, and William McMullen, who will be guidance counselor for the district.

"THIS IS THE first year we will have a full time guidance counselor," Arnold Rusche, superintendent of the district said. "He will be working with students throughout the district who are having academic difficulties."

The building committee reported that all the major summer projects, including painting, had been completed.

The board also purchased a three foot by 60 foot roll of commercial matting for district school entrances.

"THERE ARE TWO sides to consolidation just as in everything else," Peacock said. "Taxpayers are interested in saving money and on that argument alone I believe we should look into consolidation. But the only way you can accurately measure the financial status of the five individual districts is by past performance, which in some cases has not been on a par throughout the five districts.

"In our case we have not had tax anticipation warrants for at least the past 12 years, while some of the other districts have. How do you reconcile this? This is just one of the facets of the question of consolidation that will have to be mulled over."

Davis To Go To Meeting

Medinah School Dist. 11 which has expressed an interest in consolidation but not a willingness to participate in any efforts right now, plans to attend the next meeting concerning the matter in October.

"I planned to attend the August meeting but I couldn't make it," Supt. Richard C. Davis said.

"We have always been interested in consolidation possibilities," Davis added. "Neither Itasca nor Medinah really needs to consolidate."

Roselle and Bloomingdale who have been pushing the issue are broke according to Davis. "We are just getting developers interested."

Davis went on to explain that the five per cent indebtedness was a major factor impeding consolidation, especially between high school and elementary districts.

As districts combine the bonding power decreases because the evaluation is taxed only once. Unless the indebtedness limit is raised the financial situation of the schools will be increasingly critical.

Attorney Seeks Evidence

Court action to get statements of evidence and documents from three of four Roselle village officials named in a suit against the village is being sought this week by an attorney for a group of Town Acres and other residents fighting sidewalks.

John Cummins, of the Samuel Young law firm of Chicago, told the Register Wednesday he was pushing to speed the suit to trial, if indeed a trial is to come. Alternative solutions like a legal summary judgment by a judge of what the law actually

REVERSAL OF previous disinterest in consolidation talks on the part of School Dist. 10 resulted when F. Edward Peacock, Itasca, school board member, advocated exploration of the idea. "I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," he said.

Itasca Gets Lower Bid

by SYD JAMIESON

An apparent low bid for installation of aeration equipment in the new lagoon of Itasca's expanded sewage treatment plant was submitted by W. Wanzenberg & Co. of Schiller Park, it was announced this week by Richard Koehler, consulting engineer.

Wanzenberg's bid, which was received Aug. 16 was $58,150, lower than a previous bid by Albert T. Wigert last March. Wigert is the contractor on the sewage treatment plant project.

According to Koehler, work on the aeration can start 90 days after a letter to proceed is issued and, following approval by the Illinois Sanitary Water Board and the federal government.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS elected to install the equipment after being advised by the state that such work would be required by 1972.

In other business during the village board meeting Tuesday night, trustees heard a favorable recommendation by its planning commission to the planned development "concept" for 431 apartment units proposed by Avtech, Inc.

The recommendation was presented by Charles Hodgkin, plan commission chairman.

Hodgkin told board members, "Based on the information presented, we recommend to the village board that this concept of a planned development with multifamily dwellings and open space with a lake be approved."

"HOWEVER," Hodgkin explained, "because of the pressure of time and an immediate decision, many things need to be studied more carefully."

He suggested to board members that prior to signing of Avtech's pre-annexation agreement, "a detailed investigation be made" in various areas.

Among these were adequacy of police and fire protection, street and traffic flow, sewer and water availability, engineering studies and definite time commitments for the proposed three-year building program.

Another area for consideration by the trustees is the ability of Avtech to finance the $14 million project.

"WE WILL BE happy to assist the board in any of these areas of investigation which may be of help to you," Hodgkin reported.

He said the commission's favorable recommendation to the planned development concept was based on the following:

—Locate the project in an outlying area.

—A buffer area of light manufacturing.

—The five-story buildings would be placed on a low portion of the land around the lake.

—Avtech would own and keep title to the development.

—It would be financed by private funds and no federal money would be used.

—Local people involved with Avtech should have real interest in this project.

BOARD MEMBERS appeared receptive to the commission's recommendations and indicated some ground work had already begun on some of the areas suggested for consideration by the commission.

They promised Hodgkin the commission would get "another look" at the pre-annexation agreement after Lawrence C. Traeger Jr., village attorney, has reviewed the proposal.

The commission will also offer recommendations once the preliminary plat has been submitted by Avtech.

Commission member Paul Pella informed the trustees "we want to make certain they carry their fair share. We know what we can give them; we want assets, not liabilities."

Rounding out the meeting agenda, board members mulled over a tree planting program for the apartment complex on Irving Park Road near Bloomingdale Road. A portion of some $5,500 in funds received by the village under a performance bond for public improvements claimed through default, will be used in the beautification program.

50 Expected At Water Show

More than 50 swimmers and acrobats will perform in the 11th annual Bensenville Water Show tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the pool located on Church and Main streets.

The theme of this year's show is "The Circus" and the ringleader will be Park Commissioner Bill Berde. Student directors Denise Palmer and Kathy Durlak will perform a synchronized swim duet and soloist Jackie Whitlow will demonstrate her tumbling skills.

Participants in the show have been practicing since the middle of July, according to one pool supervisor, and they will present 13 acts of swimming, diving, tumbling and dancing.

The United States Weather Bureau has promised nice weather both tonight and tomorrow night with "less than five per cent chance of precipitation." In case their prediction should fail, however, alternate rain dates for the show have been set at Aug. 30 and 31.

Review Little Theater

With just enough members for a quorum, the Dist. 100 Board of Education spent three hours Tuesday discussing the Little Theater Project, the matter of Wood

Dale's annexation of the future high school site and the question of joining Dist. 2 in a consolidation study.

Member Morton Wright served as president pro tem in the absence of Pres. James DiOrto. Members Martin Romme and Will Davidson were also missing from the meeting.

The board discussed at length the possibility of continuing plans for improvements of the Little Theater which were begun last spring. Wright had brought the subject up at the last board meeting, noting then that the board had never directed the administration to shelve the project.

SUPT. MARTIN ZUCKERMAN agreed Tuesday that he had received no such direction from the board and added, "Since the original funds for the project were depleted, I suggested to Ken Carroll (business manager) that we hold the line on the project."

Zuckerman continued, "Even if we did receive a favorable bid on the project, we have no present plan to finance it."

"I had understood," he said, "that it was not the intention of the board to get involved in projects not accounted for in the budget."

The superintendent reported that an estimated $9,000 would be needed before drawings of the project could be completed. This figure, he said, represented only about 8 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

Attention was focused on the inadequacies of the little theater earlier this year when Fenton dramatists brought back a first place win for their production of "The Romantics," despite poor facilities in the literally "little" theater.

WRIGHT SAID HE would like to study the cost figures before taking a vote on the matter. The board concurred and the item was tabled until the next board meeting.

In other business, Zuckerman told the board that the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board is studying "the advantages and disadvantages of the current dual district arrangement," and asked if the Dist. 100 board wished to cooperate in the study.

The matter was tabled until the next meeting when Zuckerman said a representative of the Dist. 2 board would be present to report progress of the study.

Business manager Kenneth Carroll also reported that the Wood Dale zoning commission has voted to move ahead on annexation of property designated as a future high school site.

Carroll said a pre-annexation agreement has been drawn which guarantees the school district adequate sewer and water facilities and the waiving of all customary annexation fees.

The 40-plus acres of land are located north of the Wood Dale Junior High on Wood Dale Road. Carroll said Wood Dale's sudden interest in annexation of the property is linked to desired annexation of land to the east and north of the site.

ZUCKERMAN ALSO presented a report called "The Challenge of Educational Leadership" in which he called for the board to give "thought and discussion relating to far-reaching responsibilities of educational leadership." Zuckerman told the board, "We must look beyond the snarls, entanglements and pressures of today. We must together be concerned about the future."

The only board action Tuesday was acceptance of the minutes, bills and one resignation. The board also approved two teacher contracts.

Garbage Disposal Creates Growing Problems

by CHARLES E. HUFNAGEL
How is DuPage County going to handle its growing problem of solid waste disposal in the next five years and during the next 20 years?

This means garbage, the general run of domestic refuse around the county, including tin cans and junk cars.

Pat Riedy, Lisle Township chairman of the public works committee, in getting a unanimous recommendation asking the county board to spend $25,000 for a countywide study, has served notice that his committee, rather than spinning its wheels, is very much with it.

The committee recommendation will be presented to the next board session, where approval is expected. The committee decision came after representatives of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, a firm of consulting engineers said to be the best in the business, gave an off-the-cuff summary of what the problem was in DuPage County and outlined ways to solve the solid waste problem.

material out of the county although Cook County brings it into us, we're going to use landfills. Why then do we have to have a study?"

But Paul Ronske, also of York Township, and chairman of the county board, took a different view. He said the county would continue to grow in population and this problem would intensify. The county needed a long range program.

"We're talking $25,000, a figure of $1,000 a year, to show us the best method to handle solid waste for 25 years. It's a good investment," said Ronske.

George Pratt, Wayne Township, said a study was necessary to set the direction. He told of past experiences of the county board in setting policies in this area.

"IF WE WANT A landfill here," he stated, "someone will kick and say put it over there, and the people over there will object with 'don't put it here.'"

This is why, in his opinion, the county needed a study.

Don Prindle, Addison Township, who has begun to play a major role in county problem discussions, advised that DuPage County, unlike Kane, has thousands of acres of forest preserve land unfit for practically any use. Why not use it for landfill or other methods of solid waste disposal? He urged a study of the use of these properties as the least expensive and the most inoffensive to the public eye and nostril.

Bowen in his remarks about disposal lauded the Madison method as a model innovation of the day and urged DuPage County to send people there to make an appraisal.

He tossed a cellophane bag of solid waste disposal on the committee room table, a sample direct from the Madison plant. This material, originally garbage and other residential refuse including tin cans, is a product of a grinding process used at Madison.

AFTER IT PASSES through a grinder it is piled in wind-rows, spread out, or disposed of in several ways. On drying it becomes stringy and gray in color and appears that it would make pretty good humus. A sample was passed around for odor, and the consensus was — not bad.

In the opinion of the public works superintendent, grinding and pulverizing by using the Madison method will reduce costs. No cover would be necessary such as now being used with raw solid wastes on landfill. With acreage for disposal it could be wind-rowed or piled to a depth of several feet.

A rough estimate is that this county would need four grinders at the cost of $250,000 each. Such matters a study would accurately reveal.

THE STUDY WOULD also reveal facts not now available about industrial wastes and their disposal. This problem is also growing.

As Bowen pointed out, technological civilization with an enormous increase in population is confronted with a massive problem of disposing of its wastes. The environment, he says, is the only place where it can go.

In the near future the magnitude of the problem will become obvious to all in DuPage County. This is a waste disposal engineer's opinion.

Dist. 11 Budget Attacked

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

After nearly four hours of reviewing and trimming its tentative 1969-70 budget, Medinah School Dist. 11 board was told its efforts lacked consideration and careful planning.

The charge was made by board member Louis Lombardi after it was moved that the budget be approved. Lombardi made no statements during the meeting.

After the motion to approve was made he said, "I've been waiting a long time for this."

He proceeded to list his objections to the budget.

"I don't understand how, with two members of the board on the budget committee, this budget was devised. Items listed under administrative expenses are an attempt to establish policy without the approval of the board," he said.

LOMBARDI WAS REFERRING to provisions made for the positions of an attorney, treasurer and a full-time secretary, which he claimed should have been approved by the board.

During the meeting the board eliminated the treasurer, but voted to hire an attorney on a monthly retainer basis and create a new secretarial position in the understaffed South School office.

Lombardi also objected to the inclusion of tax anticipation warrants in the budget. "With careful pruning the budget would not have to have this item," he said.

"In rebuttal to Mr. Lombardi," William Mallory, president of the board, said, "I would like to point out that there was ample time to discuss pruning."

"IN MY OPINION Mr. Lombardi has done a disservice to the board by not bringing this up at the time of the discussion."

"We are here to work together," Paul Baumbach added.

Ignoring these assertions by the rest of the board, Lombardi insisted the board did not try to formulate a budget without including tax warrants.

Mallory called for a vote, ending the discussion.

Before the board was polled, Mallory advised Lombardi he could present a more economical budget at the public hearing Sept. 29.

"MR. LOMBARDI, you have 30 days to reduce the budget by $69,000," Mallory said.

The board then passed the motion approving the budget and setting the public hearing date.

The approved budget estimates a total cash revenue in the education fund of $559,573.42 and a total cash expenditure of $446,405.07.

This includes a $100 increase in teachers' salaries at each level in the schedule due to the increase in state aid.

The board agreed earlier to review salaries in the event an increase in state funds was forthcoming.

The base pay will now be $7,000 a year, which is about average for the state.

CAPITAL OUTLAY, which was originally set at $9,400 was cut to $7,200 as the board eliminated items not deemed necessary at this time.

Another $12,000 estimated for the new building and improvement account in the building fund was reduced by half.

Lombardi who appeared to have objections at the beginning of the meeting refrained from comment.

When board member Edward Thommen asked Lombardi to state his opinion on the item, Lombardi replied he wanted to wait until he had the "entire package."

Seek Free Lights

Representatives of the Bensenville Boys Athletic Association (BBAA) appeared at the Bensenville Park District meeting Wednesday to petition for waived electricity fees for the use of lights on the park's football field.

Will Davidson, BBAA football president, told the board of commissioners that his organization cannot afford the $4 per evening fee for the use of the football field lights. Davidson asked if a reevaluation could be made of costs to determine whether the $4 fee is an accurate price.

The commissioners were split on the issue. Commissioner Bill Burde said he felt the BBAA football is "such a good program" that the electricity fee should be donated by the park district.

COMMISSIONER Bob Nicols disagreed, saying, "If you don't charge BBAA the fee, then you can't charge anyone else either and right now we can't afford that."

Commissioner Jack Schuster asked the BBAA representatives why the older boys didn't play football on park district property but played instead at Fenton High School.

Davidson explained that the park field is only 80 yards in length and thus does not meet the 100-yard requirement of the league. Both organizations agreed to examine the field to see if it can be extended the extra footage. The question of whether electrical fees could be adjusted was referred to a committee.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board announced acquisition of lots 13, 14 and 15 on Poplar St., north of Irving Park Road and west of Route 83.

Park board Pres. Donald Carroll said he was "very happy" about the acquisition because prior to the purchase, children had to cross Route 83 in order to find a playground. Carroll said the land would be made into a lot for smaller children.

The board also officially welcomed Alan Randall, the new Bensenville Park director, and approved his salary at $10,800.

FROM UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

Curran's car went off the road while northbound on Route 83, and turned over several times' according to witnesses. He was reported in fair condition at St. Alexius Hospital.

Teens Still Wait for Center

by TOM JACHIMIEC

There's an anxiety of sorts building up in Elk Grove Village.

It's been growing since late in April when plans for the new teen center in Lions Park were approved. Sometimes the anxiety waned because of delays of one kind or another. But now, it is reaching a peak again.

What happened?

Village and park officials got together Monday night to iron out a problem over the parking facilities the center will have.

THE PARKING issue had already delayed work on the teen center for about four weeks. Because of it, no building permit was issued by the village to the park district.

Tuesday night the village consummated the agreement reached Monday by granting the building department permission to issue the permit. The vote was unanimous.

Thursday, a spokesman from the Midway Construction and Engineering Co., Mount Prospect, said they should be ready to begin assembling the prefabricated cedar structure within the next couple of weeks.

THE FIRM is ready to pay for the carpenter and masonry licenses before starting on the building.

"We're anxious to get to it," said the spokesman.

So are the teens of Elk Grove Village.

They've waited patiently for the past several months listening to promises that the building would be completed by late August or September.

They're probably tired by now. Some are probably disillusioned, never really believing the day will come when a teen center will be constructed.

They'll still have to wait a while before construction begins, but it really shouldn't be long now that the permit has been issued.

AND THEN, in another two or three months the building will be completed and ready for their use.

The building, designed by architect Roland Schapanski, will include a large recreation room, kitchen, and small meeting room. It will have more than 8,000 square feet.

Inside there will be a snack bar, juke box, dance floor and room for live entertainment. Pool tables, ping-pong tables, and other games will be made available. In addition, there will be space for studying and watching television.

Does it seem too good to be true?

Right now, it probably does. But the wait is getting shorter. Then, the only remaining hurdle will be to see just how the building will be accepted by the teens of Elk Grove Village.

Learning Center

The Diagnostic Learning Center in Arlington Heights, a beacon of hope for many area families, will introduce a pilot program in September for severely disturbed children.

The center, which usually treats children with special learning problems while they remain in regular classrooms, will work full-time, with some students during the 1969-70 school year.

John Wightman, executive director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO), said the children participating in the new program will be over 10 years of age. "We want to give these kids one last chance to get to a point where they may profit from classroom life."

THE CURRENT RULES and regulations of the state superintendent of public instruction provide that no child may be admitted to a class of this type after his 10th birthday. Maintaining that these students were bypassed in other years because appropriate programs were unavailable, NSSEO requested permission for the special project. School Dist. 25 and the center will co-sponsor the program.

The sessions will be limited to about eight children and many center staff members will pool resources to diagnose and treat individual problems. School districts referring children to the center this year are High School Dist. 214 and elementary districts 25, 15, 23, 57, 54 and 21.

The center was set up in 1966 with federal funds applied for by School Dist. 25 to serve students from Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships. For two years, staff members took an intensive look at children who were, for no obvious reason, two years behind their expected learning level. They were failing in spite of apparently normal abilities.

LAST YEAR THE center successfully requested government permission to include a treatment program.

NSSEO is now taking over the reins of center activities under the supervision of the recently formed Northwest Educational Cooperative. The cooperative governing board is made up of one delegate from each of the 10 participating school districts. Members include high school districts 214 and 211 and their feeder elementary districts. Seven districts opted for center assistance this year.

Wightman hopes all districts will use the center's services in the future to prevent possible duplication or overlapping of programs. His future plans also include mandatory attendance by parents and classroom teachers at in-service training pro-

Dist. 59 Low In Vandalism

Vandalism in Dist. 59 schools is low this year, but the "run-of-the-mill window breaking" has still taken its toll.

Donald DeBiase, Dist. 59 building and grounds director, reported that there has been "no real vandalism" at the schools this summer other than the window breaking.

Dist. 59 covers 20 elementary and junior high schools in Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and Des Plaines.

"Window breaking usually increases in the summer, going down to practically nothing in the winter," DeBiase explained.

He reported approximately 38 windows were broken in June, with 61 in the first 21 days of July. Although almost half of the damage has been done in Elk Grove Village, 10 of the 20 schools are in that area.

The highest amount of windows broken in one night was at Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect with 16. This school seems to be hit more than others, according to DeBiase.

"Most of the damage has done after midnight, which would indicate that older students are responsible," DeBiase said.

"A lot of the problem seems to stem from the fact that the school grounds are used for lovers lanes late at night. The areas are patrolled, but since the trouble doesn't occur every night we can't sit and wait for it.

"We've never caught anybody," DeBiase said.

Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village and Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights were the only schools to escape damage in the first two summer months.

"The amount of damage depends on the neighborhood a lot," DeBiase said. Other factors are the amount of time the school is open in the summer and the ability of the principals to control the vandalism, he said.

When the windows are repaired they are replaced with plastic windows. DeBiase explained that at the rate they are being broken, they'll all be plastic soon and eventually the problem of vandalism in the area of broken windows will lessen.

The grounds crew is now about 50 windows behind in repairs, it was reported. "The surge of damage in the summer and the amount of time required for ordering and delivering the plastic windows accounts for us being behind," DeBiase explained. About five or 10 windows a day are repaired.

Although damage to windows this summer is about normal, DeBiase said it's a light summer otherwise. "In past years there has been a lot of construction damage which we haven't had this year."

Curran Injured When Car Flipped

A 21-year-old Des Plaines man was seriously injured early Thursday when his sports car went off the road and flipped over several times before coming to a stop in the southbound lane of Route 83 near Greenleaf Avenue, Elk Grove.

James G. Curran, of 1441 Campbell St., was reported in fair condition Thursday morning at St. Alexius Hospital. He suffered multiple injuries and was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Patrolman Richard Rusch reported that Curran was northbound when his car ran off the road and rolled end-over-end three or four times.

Witnesses, among them two off-duty Elmhurst policemen, told Rusch the car flew approximately 30 feet through the air before landing upside down in the middle of the roadway.

Brief IBEW Strike

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW, the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

ADJUSTMENT to the water and resting in floating position are self-rescue practices taught at the Elk Grove Village Lions Pool lifesaving course. They are the first steps

NUMEROUS EXPLOSIONS went off after a fire started at a pipe line installation in Schaumburg. The fire started in a welding truck, above, located approximately 1,000 feet south of Boxwood and

Duxbury streets. Explosions were caused in the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank, aerosol cans and 100 rounds of ammunition that were in the truck. No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is unknown. Firemen used piping on either side of the truck for shelter from fragments from the explosions while they fought the flames.

Firemen Battle Blaze and Bullets

A fire, which started on a welding truck, caused a series of explosions Thursday morning at a pipeline installation near Boxwood and Duxbury in Schaumburg.

The incident took place in an open field where a pipeline is being installed for the Northern Illinois Gas Co. No injuries were reported, but the welding truck valued at $8,000 and 120 feet of pipeline costing $2,640 were destroyed.

The explosions were set off from the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank used for welding, from 100 rounds of ammunition in the truck, and from aerosol cans in the area.

"EVERYTHING was constantly blowing up," said John Bognar of the Schaumburg Police Department.

"The only reason there were no injuries was that the truck was parked between two large pipes that firemen used for shelter while fighting the fire," he added.

During the battle, the Schaumburg Fire Department ran out of water brought to the scene in a pump truck. The blaze was finally doused with detergent foam, Bognar said.

"Bullets were shooting into the truck's dashboard and all over during the fire," he added. Bognar said the ammunition belonged to the truck's owner, Charles H. Ballard of Amarillo, Tex.

THE EXPLOSIONS occurred 1,000 feet from any homes in the area, Bognar said.

Schaumburg Fire Chief Henry Mullen was drenched during the fire when he reached into the truck's cab to retrieve an item for Bognar. From the other side of the truck one of the chief's men saw a flame on the dashboard. A high pressure stream of water was shot into the cab to douse the flame, and Chief Mullen.

The pipeline installation was contracted to the Curran Pipeline Construction Co. of Great Falls, Mont. The truck owned by Ballard was a one-ton 1966 welding rig.

Simon Visit Set

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwesco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCZYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

grams. Sessions for both teachers and parents were scheduled in the past, but attendance was on a voluntary basis. Wightman said involvement by parents was crucial to maintain a proper environment and understanding for each child in the home. He said teachers will be released from classes to attend in-service sessions at the center. CHILDREN WHO attended the center last year will continue to receive assistance this fall. In the future, however, Wightman hopes that each student, after initial work at the center, may be placed in an appropriate class in his own district. Those returning to regular classrooms will be equipped with materials he has worked well with at the center and a special work program mapped out for his individual use.

In this way, Wightman said, the center may serve more students and "no child will be deprived of every avenue possible in his effort to learn and use his abilities."

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION TO transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

Dipping Duet Charms Patrons

by SHERIDA DILL

Dipping ice cream at a local ice cream shop could be a drag — wait around for customers, fill up a cone with the ice cream they want and wait around for customers again.

But, put two imaginative teenagers like Hiram Lopesilvero and John LaRoche in charge, and the business becomes a place of entertainment, for employees as well as customers.

Customers at the Hoffman Estates shop where the Conant students work range from grandmotherly types who come in from a day of shopping to cool off and rest their feet, to elementary school children on bicycles who come to meet their friends. They all receive the same cordial quips and service from LaRoche and Lopesilvero, however.

The self-made entertainment is spontaneous, as is most teenage fun. A lot of it revolves around the boys' task of asking customers whether they want sugar or plain cones.

"GO AHEAD and hit 'em with the question," instructs LaRoche as Lopesilvero takes an order. Or, on command the two boys will go into a five-minute duet act of how customers act at being asked the kind of cone they prefer.

"Sugar or Plain" is only one of their many acts. They also will perform such masterpieces as "What Happens When the Malt Machine Tears a Hole in the Malt Cup," "How to Wrap Wax Paper Around A Cone," or a fashion show of ill-fitting ice cream dippers' uniforms.

The many flavors of ice cream also lend to the humorous activity of the shop. Most every flavor has a standing warning or description. "Watch out that he doesn't choke on the pieces of bubble gum, Ma'am," Lopesilvero tells a mother as he hands a Pink Bubble Gum cone to her small son. And of course, the flavor Lunar Cheesecake is "out of this world."

The best time for the employees is after hours, however. The teenagers use the time to practice their work skills with dipping contests.

LaRoche holds both contest records with 15 dips stacked one on top of the other in one cone and with nine cones dipped in a minute. Lopesilvero's best is 10 dips stacked and six cones per minute.

"WE GET TO eat our mistakes," Lopesilvero explained. "We make a lot of mistakes when we're hungry."

Some of Lopesilvero's mistakes evolve from his premonitions that the next customer will order a certain flavor. Often they are so strong he makes the cone ahead of time, and when no one orders as he predicted, he's left with a cone to eat.

When the business is slow the boys have been known to solicit customers from the sidewalk. They take a cone outside and expound on its virtues to passersby.

Sometimes they get a customer and sometimes they don't. But if they do, the customer can be sure he's coming in for more than ice cream.

SELLING ICE CREAM is only part of John LaRoche's job at an ice cream parlor in Hoffman Estates. The rest is self-made entertainment for the customers.

McLaughlin Heads Committee

Businessman - industrialist David T. McLaughlin has accepted the chairmanship of the committee for the nomination of Joseph Mathewson as Republican candidate for Congress from the 13th district.

"I am impressed with the high caliber of those who have declared themselves to be for Joe Mathewson," McLaughlin said.

"Mathewson's energetic campaigning has brought him widespread support in the western areas of the district, as well as on the North Shore," he said.

McLaughlin, vice president of U. S. Plywood - Champion Papers, Inc., is president of the board of trustees of the Winnetka Community House, a director of the First National Bank of Mount Prospect, president of the Dartmouth Club of Chicago and a member of the board of overseers, Amos Tuck School of Business Administration, Hanover, N. H.

He is also a director of the Paperboard Packaging Council and St. Leonard's House of Chicago. He is a former Air Force jet pilot.

Mrs. Christensen Is Director for Young

Mrs. Earnest E. Christensen of Glenview has been named director of women's activities in the Sam Young for Congress campaign.

Young, a candidate for the 13th Congressional District seat vacated by Donald Rumsfeld, said Mrs. Christensen will arrange coffees and other women-oriented activities in the eight township area.

Schlickman To 'Walk' Again

Eugene Schlickman, of Arlington Heights, a Republican candidate for 13th District congressman, will take another "Walk to Washington" Saturday.

Schlickman will walk through Elk Grove Township, starting at 9 a.m. at Main and Central, Mount Prospect, and ending at 3:30 p.m. at the Grove Shopping Center, Elk Grove Village.

While the candidate walks through Elk Grove Township, his Youth for Schlickman groups will be running through all eight townships in the district.

Last Saturday, Schlickman began his "Walk to Washington" by walking the length of Evanston Township.

On his Saturday stroll, Schlickman will be accompanied by a musical group, the "City Schlickers" and the "Schlick Chicks." Balloons, buttons, bumper stickers and literature will be given away.

THE MARATHON run will begin at 10 a.m. at Oakton and Lehigh in Niles. Runners will carry a flaming torch through Niles, Skokie, Evanston, Wilmette, Winnetka, Kenilworth, Glencoe, Northbrook, Wheeling, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village.

Relay runners are scheduled to arrive at the Grove Shopping Center, Kennedy Boulevard and Arlington Heights Road, at the same time the candidate walks in.

Supporters Sponsor Mathewson Coffees

Nearly 1,500 13th District voters have gathered in 65 private homes at coffees arranged to meet Joseph Mathewson, Republican candidate for Congress, according to Mathewson's staff.

A Wilmette volunteer worker, Mrs. Robert E. Dressler, has been arranging and coordinating the gatherings since June 1.

The following coffees are scheduled: Sunday, 6 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Evert, 2233 Beechwood Ave., Wilmette. Monday: 8:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin G. Kirby, 900 Chestnut St., Wilmette.

"To show our support for Schlickman, who is running for Congress, we're running for Schlickman," Greg Busch, a relay runner, said. Busch is special projects coordinator of Youth for Schlickman and was captain of the Arlington Heights High School cross country team in 1966.

Schlickman's walk will take him south on Main Street from Central to Lincoln Street, then south on Elmhurst Road, west on Longquist Parkway, south on Waverly, west and south on Glenn and west on Golf to Busse.

From this point, the candidate and his entourage will go by car to the shopping center at Arlington Heights Road and Higgins Roads where they will lunch and campaign until 1:30 p.m.

RESUMING THE WALK, Schlickman will go east on Higgins, south and east on Ridgewood, south on Crest, west and south on Greenbrier, west on Landmeier, south on Ridge, west on Victoria Lane, south on Elk Grove Boulevard and west on Kennedy Boulevard to Arlington Heights Road and the shopping center.

Schlickman, a three-term representative in the Illinois House, is one of 11 GOP candidates for 13th District congressman in the special congressional race. The primary election is Oct. 7 and the general election, Nov. 25. The seat was left vacant May 25 with the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld, new director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Peacock Expresses Interest in Consolidation

"I believe we owe it to our constituency to explore the matter of consolidation," F. Edward Peacock, president of Itasca Dist. 10 school board said at Wednesday's meeting.

The question of consolidation came up for discussion as the result of two previous meetings between members of the Roselle, Bloomingdale and Keeneyville school districts.

Representatives from these districts had invited their counterparts from Itasca and Medinah, but neither of these districts had made any positive response.

"It's a difficult thing to evaluate in dollars and cents," Peacock continued. "We don't know whether money can be saved through consolidation or whether money can be obtained to offset any loss."

"THE CONSTITUTIONAL convention will certainly have an effect also. No one knows what they will decide on state aid. At present, state aid favors consolidation into unit districts."

Mrs. Mary C. Hodgins, secretary of the school board, Raymond Bensen, a board member and Peacock were selected to represent Dist. 10 in any further consolidation discussions.

"I really think consolidation has to be proven, but it certainly is worth looking into," Peacock said.

In other board action Wednesday evening three new contracts were accepted. They include Mrs. Marlene Zorn, who will teach second grade at the Washington School, Mrs. Lynda Roschke, who will teach art throughout the district, and William McMullen, who will be guidance counselor for the district.

"THIS IS THE first year we will have a full time guidance counselor," Arnold Rusche, superintendent of the district said.

"He will be working with students throughout the district who are having academic difficulties."

The building committee reported that all the major summer projects, including painting, had been completed.

The board also purchased a three foot by 60 foot roll of commercial matting for district school entrances.

"THERE ARE TWO sides to consolidation just as in everything else," Peacock said. "Taxpayers are interested in saving money and on that argument alone I believe we should look into consolidation. But the only way you can accurately measure the financial status of the five individual districts is by past performance, which is some cases has not been on a par throughout the five districts."

"In our case we have not had tax anti-pation warrants for at least the past 12 years, while some of the other districts have. How do you reconcile this? This is just one of the facets of the question of consolidation that will have to be mulled over."

'Golf Talk' Reveals Fabulous Front Nine

by PAUL LOGAN

This is it... Get ready... Fore!

You're about to be sent off on a tour of the fabulous front nine of Golf Talk's "dream eighteen."

Both today's elite set of holes and next Friday's were selected with the help of either the professional or manager of the 16 courses where Golf Talk stopped this summer.

In all, the excursion covered 15 of the Paddock area's top daily fee courses as well as THE most heralded private layout in the Midwest — Medinah Country Club.

Each course contributed at least one hole with the only two 36-hole daily fee layouts placing one on the list from each course.

Naturally the difficulty of the hole was one of the main points in the decision for selecting it to the unique group. However, the character, beauty and subtleness of play were also major factors in tabbing several holes for this all-time area selection.

This front side measures out to 3,892 yards. It had formerly been 3,890 yards but Mohawk Country Club's Dan Siliannoff remeasured his top notch hole — No. 1 — and found it was two yards longer from mid-tee to mid-green.

So, thanks to this Bensenville head pro, the total yardage for these tremendous 18 holes is now a lengthy 7,536.

Here we go... See you at the halfway house... Hope you break 50!

MOHAWK COUNTRY CLUB

463 Yard, Par 4

MOHAWK'S NO. 1 — The pro suggests that before teeing off on the longest daily fee par 4 hole in the area — 463 yards long, a golfer should definitely warm up at the range. This monstrous jumping off hole might want to make you do just that after you've attempted to play it.

Formerly a par 5, this initial challenge was changed to a four but the course didn't show any mercy by leaving the yardage the same.

Ex-sand traps provide the most trouble for those minus 200-yard drivers. The longer hitters will find problems farther out with another grass bunker on the left and bushes on the right at 210 yards out.

Waiting for errant second shots are three humps on the right and a large bunker on the left some 90 yards from the green. Finally, four sand traps are posted at every corner of the putting surface with trees flanking both sides of the hole.

Most hope for bogies but few get them on this terrifying opener.

GOLDEN ACRES C.C.

440 Yard, Par 4

GOLDEN ACRES' NO. 6 (Red Nine) — on this hole. A wide fairway aids the golfer in staying away from the out of bounds fence along Roselle Rd. Then comes the vital second swing. From the high point on the fairway — about 230 yards out — you can see the green, completely surrounded by hazards.

Five bridges separate a chain of ponds that protect the front, left and back sides of the green. On the other side are trees and the finally coming into play fence.

The green is fairly flat allowing a possible two-putt for those who get home in regulation. For the others who don't hit over the trouble, weeping willows near the green mourn for you.

hole is another back breaking par 4 that plays just as long if not longer to Mohawk's No. 1 because of the wind. And it will become even tougher when the proposed lake is gouged out of the right side of the fairway.

About 100 yards out the fairway slants downhill with a drive of about 240 yards needed to reach a flat area for a 210 yard second rap. When the lake is added, sprayed second shots by short hitters will find it.

A pulled approach will land in out of bounds territory which cuts in close to the green. Two large grass bunkers sit on either side of the putting surface. A five is a welcome score here for the green has plenty of break which many will not see.

INDIAN LAKES C.C.

550 Yard, Par 5

INDIAN LAKES' NO. 14 (Sioux Trails) — This final hole will make most golfers plenty thirsty and ready for the halfway house because it is the most troublesome par 5 on our entire 18.

It boasts of a sharp dogleg that is nearly impossible to cut because of two sand traps, a large tree, and a brief stretch of out of bounds that protects the 11th tee. After the turn toward the green, a large lake waits for pulled shots.

The first sight of the green is unbelievable for it appears to be a very small patch of green surrounded by sand. However, only two traps are right next to the green but they leave only a 14-yard space from which to enter. And another trap, which is located about a full sand wedge from the green, will gobble up any shots that the lake doesn't get.

Upon nearing the green, it is a little bit bigger than it first appeared but only a very accurate approach will give you a birdie shot. The good golfer will wish for a four, pray for a five and probably be very satisfied with a six here.

Finished!

No, not quite. However, all of you who made this journey have a full week to rest up at the halfway house before heading back to the clubhouse. You'll be happy to know that the final nine is much shorter — a 3,644 yard, par 36. But bring plenty of balls... you'll need them.

GLENDALE C.C.

GLENDALE'S NO. 11 — This is one of those "it's got it all" holes. The green, which is also two-leveled, is visible from the tee but the fairway dips about 200 yards out where trouble lurks. A big drive will find trees on both sides with a figure eight shaped lake very reachable.

To get home in two the linkster must be very accurate for the green is tucked into the corner of the course with out of bounds on three sides. Two bunkers, a sand trap and a rolling green give the player all he can handle and more.

MOUNT PROSPECT C.C.

160 Yard, Par 3

MOUNT PROSPECT'S NO. 7 — It's about time, you are probably thinking, that we got to a par 3 hole. After playing five holes you should be warm enough to cut loose with a medium iron, but watch out.

Although this was chosen mostly for its beauty, a quick look shows that there's a little bit of trouble almost everywhere. About halfway down the fairway a 12-foot deep creek bed can eat a golfer alive. The sharp dropoff makes retrieving a bad shot very difficult.

Added to this are these hazards: out of bounds running along the left side of the fairway and behind the green, two sand traps and two bunkers protecting the putting surface, and a two-level green with a three-foot drop between the two. This three-shotter could easily turn into a five-shotter.

BARTLETT HILLS G.C.

450 Yard, Par 4

BARTLETT HILLS' NO. 6 — Our seventh

VILLA OLIVIA C.C.

440 Yard, Par 4

VILLA OLIVIA'S NO. 13 — This was picked for our second hole because it was both picturesque — built at the top of a ski slope — and deadly. Living up to its number, the 13th offers trouble all the way to the cup.

First, you must steer your tee shot on to a plateau-like area about 230 to 250 yards out or you'll have a dangerous uphill lie. From there it's decision time — what to use to split the narrow gap between two well placed traps and then thread the needle again between two stands of cedars just in front of the green.

Rumor has it that the fairway is so narrow that players have to walk single file. However, I've seen a foursome walk four abreast through the trouble but they had to stay close together!

Avoiding these hazards with an extra club can get the golfer into even more difficulty for plenty of trees, a large hump and out of bounds to the back and the right represent a fine rear guard.

On top of all this, a small, mountain peak-like green presents some fast breaks to make three putts likely. Ugh!

WHITE PINES G.C.

449 Yard, Par 4

WHITE PINES' NO. 2 (South Course) — One must have a straight drive to do well on this troublesome par 4. The fairway narrows about 200 yards out with two large grass bunkers on the left followed by a tree and bush lined lake — just the spot for a hooking drive. To the right are scattered trees but it's the safest place to aim.

The slightly elevated green is guarded on the left and right by traps with a grass bunker positioned before the green on the right. Trees and bushes, which protect another teeoff, wait to punish the unwary. Lastly, a subtle sloping putting surface surprises many who think they have sure fours.

PALATINE HILLS G.C.

540 Yard, Par 5

PALATINE HILLS' NO. 6 — We held off to the fourth hole before throwing a par 5 at you, and what a par 5. A fairly straight drive will pass up out of bounds on the left and a small stand of trees and a trap on the right, the latter located about 230 yards out. From there you can finally see the green and the large lake that prevents most from reaching the green in two.

Nearly everyone aims to the right for their second shot and then tries to negotiate the green past a large sand trap on the right and the steep slope on the left. A straight approach regards the golfer with a good chance for a par; an errant shot might be followed by either a splash or a thud.

Kickin' It Around

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

THERE WAS A PROMISE of trouble, and the promise was kept.

Play in the PGA golf tournament last weekend in Dayton was disrupted — as predicted — by a coalition of civil rights groups that insisted the local chamber of commerce devoted much more attention to the tourney than to the impoverished people immediately around it.

They tried to shake up Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus during their tension-packed competition by throwing things and storming the greens, but order was restored quickly and the tourney went on as scheduled.

The general feeling is that the civil rights movement has surely moved past the point where "invaders" must perform stunts like this to draw attention to their cause.

Most people are beyond the point where they can be shocked into further action. Civil rights supporters will not see any major social advances made in this manner. There will be just more arrests made and more indignation on the part of virtually everyone.

What happened in Dayton undoubtedly antagonized the very people whose money and energy are required to get things done in the movement.

But, in viewing what happened in Dayton, there is something to consider. Isn't it surprising that golf hasn't been the victim before now?

It was becoming increasingly obvious, in this era of social awareness, that the Negro has been sidetracked somewhere on the road to golfing fame and fortune.

Perhaps golf will be forced to withstand more Dayton's because of the semi-exclusive world in which it exists.

The status of the present-day Negro golfer lies somewhere between the two extremes. He can play the game socially, but hardly ever in the surroundings of a country club. He is not yet able to pursue a scholastic and playing career in parallel.

Golf is catching fire everywhere these days. Its popularity is booming. But the teenage Negro athlete has not moved in this direction in any real number.

Few receive the opportunity to learn the game properly at an age when champions are formed. The Negro golfer doesn't have the access to the courses, the teaching, the money or the time to hone a golf game to the levels required by the tour today. Few white men can even do this.

Most golfers need sponsors to help carry them through the difficult days on the tour, and a wealthy businessman once admitted to us that white golfers can be good investment. They've been winning money for 50 years. Negroes just look like bad risks on the golf tour.

It's obvious that country club golf is still the white man's game. Talk with any golfer today and he'll admit that the Negro learns the game under difficult conditions in most cases and must redesign his golf completely in order to have a chance against the more sophisticated tour pro who learned on the best courses.

"I learned on those litty-bitty bounce-up courses where nothing sticks on the greens unless you roll it in," says George Johnson, a Negro in his first year on the pro golf tour.

"People always ask me how come I have such a short backswing. I know why. I got it from tip-toeing out on a course before dawn — in the moonlight sometimes — then peckin' over my shoulder real quick to see if anyone was watching and then whackin' through with the fastest, shortest swing you ever saw so I could hit the ball and get moving before I got caught."

But Johnson, as do the few other Negro golfers on the tour, says things aren't as difficult as he anticipated.

"I expected to feel all kinds of eyes on me when I started. Nope, the only time I feel uneasy is when I miss the four-foot putt."

And Pete Brown, a very capable Negro golf pro, said last week in Dayton: "Everything's wide open now. Even the South isn't closed up like it used to be. It's a different place entirely from when I started six years ago. I used to put all kinds of pressure on myself, on my game, because I felt so black. I thought of myself constantly as a Negro golfer. I don't anymore. I'm just a golfer."

Charlie

Although the George Johnsons, Pete Browns, Lee Elders, and Charlie Siffords speak now of less pressure, one fact still stands out. There are only 10 Negroes on the pro golf tour.

Baseball, like most big-time sports, eventually moved to let the Negro in because the Negro meant more profits to team owners; the Negroes helped teams become winners, and winners draw crowds and dollars.

The Negro golfer was not an attraction. He couldn't play well enough so there was no exploitation involved when the doors finally did open. The doors were open but there was nobody to walk through.

The need now is for a Negro golfer of world-ranking merit, and for an increase in numbers that would blur the conspicuousness of those few who have already crossed the frontier.

Sifford, who gave the Negro golfer a tremendous boost when he won the $20,000 first prize in the Los Angeles Open, perhaps said it best:

"Negroes haven't been exposed to golf like the white man. Golf has been the white man's game forever, and the black man's just comin' to it now."

"It isn't easy catchin' up now. We've got the opportunity to play golf. We've just got a lot of catchin' up to do, that's all."

Ten Years Ago...

A switch of veteran quarterback Gene Dahlquist to end highlighted the Arlington football drills... No seniors and no lettermen didn't lessen the tremendous optimism in the Prospect camp as Bill Beckman's Knights worked toward the first game in school history... Obvious depth was the encouraging factor for Charley Feutz at Palatine.

A TIE? Not according to the umpire last Monday night when the undefeated Willie's Lumber team — the Bruins — took on upset-minded Willie's Tavern at Meadows Park under the lights. The Bruins had to come from behind to defeat the tavern team, 18-12, in extra innings.

WATCHFUL EYES. Ken Spain (left), who will be a rookie with the Chicago Bulls this year, and Bob Weiss (in suit), a Bulls veteran, watch as a Hoffman Estates youngster goes in for a layup. Spain and Weiss were in Hoffman Estates last week and had some interesting topics to speak on. See story.

NIMAGA Tourney Opens Today at Chevy Chase; 48 in Crack Field

A talented group of young golfers will tee off at Chevy Chase Country Club this morning in the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association Jr. Open Championship.

The top finishers in the previous NIMAGA tournaments make up the powerful field of 48, which includes 16 boys in each of three classes.

First group of golfers will tee off at 7 a.m. and will consist of Rick Garcia of Bensenville, Jim Formas of Country Club Hills, Joe Dougherty of Prospect Heights, and Jeff Oakley of Palatine. They'll be shooting for honors in the Jr. Class.

Other tee-off times are as follows:

JUNIORS:
7:07 — Doc O'Neal of Carmel, Ind., Mike

Milligan of Bloomington, Scott Ittersagen of Homewood, and Dennis Sullivan of Grant Park.

'Alcindor Can Be Handled' Says Chicago Bulls Rookie

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

"Elvin Hayes is a great ball player, but Spencer Haywood is better, much better." "Alcindor doesn't go all-out most of the time; he's sort of lazy."

Says who? Ken Spain, former basketball star with the University of Houston, a member of the 1968 United States Olympic team and now a rookie with the Chicago Bulls.

"Robertson is tougher to defend against than West, but West is tougher on defense than Robertson."

"CHAMBERLAIN CAN SCORE anytime he feels like it. If he feels like playing, who can stop him?"

Says who? Bob Weiss, formerly of Penn State University and now a veteran with the Chicago Bulls.

Spain and Weiss paid Hoffman Estates a visit last week at the request of the campaigning Alan Johnston who is seeking a place in the United States Congress under the Republican ticket.

JOHNSTON ASKED SPAIN and Weiss to show a few pointers to youngsters in the Hoffman area at the Golf-Rose Shopping Center parking lot.

"Hayes is really a great basketball player," Spain said, "and he's going to be a great pro. He already is. But Haywood... that guy's something else."

Spain is one of the world's only 18 basketball players who have played in Houston's Astrodome and he revealed that it was quite an experience.

"Of all the places I've played," Spain said, "the Astrodome was the best. The place was dark except for the playing area so the Dome did not throw your shooting off with its size."

"YOU COULD HARDLY hear the fans and you couldn't see them at all."

In the Astrodome, Houston handed UCLA its first of two losses the Bruins suffered in the three-year reign of King Lew Alcindor.

"Alcindor can be handled," Spain said. "He doesn't go all-out much of the time and he seemed to me to be lazy. How will he do in the pros? He should be good but he isn't that strong, you know, not near as strong as Chamberlain. He'll have a time against Chamberlain."

SPEAKING OF WILT Chamberlain, Weiss said, "He's so strong, I don't know how anybody can stop him." Weiss, a resident of Arlington Heights, went on to say, "He doesn't go all-out all the time either."

Spain, while playing for the Olympic team, noticed, "The other countries are coming along in basketball slowly but surely. The Russians and Yugoslavia are really strong teams."

The 6-9 forward-center is looking forward to his rookie season with the Bulls. "I picked the Bulls because they are in the NBA and I wanted to play in the best league. I think that this is going to be a challenge to me."

"I THINK THAT THERE are a lot of good players on the Bulls and it looks like we could have a good team. I just hope that I can help out."

Paint Team Still Leads

Only two nights remain in the Friday Night League at Arlington Country Club and Webber Paints continue to hold down first place with a 4½-1½ win over Illinois Alloy.

In other action Park Ridge Auto beat Sylvias Flowers, 4-2, to move into second place just in back of the leaders.

Borchardt's held its close third place position by beating Don Russ-Stat Farm, 4-2. Other action found L-Nor Cleaners defeating Arlington Bank & Trust, 4-2, Joy-Di stopping Acacia Park, 4-2, and Union Hotel nipping Harris Pharmacies, 3½-2½.

Fred Mingus of Joy-Di pulled the shot of the night by holding out a 110-yard wedge shot on the par 4, 17th for an eagle two. Birdies were carded by Emil Moestue and Bob Helfers on the 14th, Hank Huberty on the 16th, and Jerry Sim on the 17th.

John DeNicolo captured the low net honors with an excellent score of 28. He had his first sub-50 round of the season carding a gross 43. Bob Helfers carded his second consecutive sub-40 total with a 39 gross. Bill Powers of the league leaders had the low gross of the season, a two-over-par 37.

TEAM STANDINGS

Popular in Finland

HELSINKI UPI — Hunting is a popular sport in Finland and results are good. In 1968 there were 179,848 registered hunters, one out of every 12th male over the age of 17. According to the Ministry of Agriculture, 8,609 licenses were issued for elk hunting and 7,094 elk were bagged by these hunters.

Weiss plays guard for the Bulls and week after week he is faced with the dilemma of stopping the likes of Oscar Robertson, Jerry West, Walt Frazier, Earl Monroe and the like.

There has been many an argument over who is the more complete player, Robertson or West, and Weiss gave his opinion.

"ROBERTSON IS BIGGER than West and he shoots the ball from behind his head so he is more difficult to stop. I'd rather face West than Robertson."

"Not too many people know this, but West, when he is healthy, is the best defensive guard in the league."

With those words, Weiss left the argument over who is better still wide open. According to Weiss, give Robertson the edge in offense, give West the edge on defense. Over-all? The argument still rages.

The Bulls have another tough climb to reach the National Basketball Association Western Division playoffs. With the Bulls in the West are Los Angeles, Atlanta, San Francisco, Seattle, Phoenix and San Diego.

"The expansion teams (Seattle, Phoenix and San Diego) all look better again this year," Weiss said, "so it's going to tough to make those playoffs."

Indeed, it will.

Grove All-Stars Continue

The Elk Grove Traveling All-Stars stayed alive in the Berwyn Tournament by defeating Augustana, 23-12, recently.

This is just one of three tournaments that the Grove stars are participating in. The others are the Thillens State-Wide Tournament and the Highwood Tournament.

Parkway League To Open Tuesday

Parkway bowling league will open its 34th season of competition Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 7 p.m. at Beverly Lanes with league president Henry P. Wist of Arlington Heights officiating.

Team No. 1: Schroeder 187, Joern 194, Sundling 153, Donahue 146, Helgeson 122, team 772.

Team No. 2: Sheddler 176, Rose 158, Cutler 151, Mueller 147, Metzger 140, team 772.

Team No. 3: Conroy 173, Lampert 166, Mills 154, Bergdahl 142, Sang 137, team 772.

Team No. 4: Glenn Quade 172, E. Williams 162, Heumann 167, Ellering 149, R. Quade 131, team 772.

Team No. 5: Meyer 168, Geo. Quade 160, Baker 156, Frye 149, Haanel 130, team 772.

Team No. 6: L. Williams 166, Paddock 165, Gendner 160, Wist 150, Wallstrom 131, team 772.

Dave Miller slammed a homer with three men on in the first to get the Grove off to a fast start. The second was almost the same thing as Mike Brandt homered with two aboard to up the total to seven. Then the Grove added to the outburst in the second as Miller and Randy Romano had back-to-back doubles for a score, Jim Hammers, singled in another, Steve Pritchard doubled in a run and Mark Sokniewicz sent home the final run.

The third saw more homer action as Brandt cracked his second of the day to send home Bob Brum who had reached on a single. Romano and Hammers followed with back-to-back singles and Romano came home on an error.

Fourth inning antics saw the lousy hitting Groves this time start off with a homer by Glenn Stromberg.

Then, in the fifth, Miller singled, Hammers doubled, and Jim Samuels was hit by a pitch to lead the bases. John Fleming came through with a single to score two and Steve Carroll and Bob Brum had a pair of run-producing singles.

Stromberg started off the sixth with a single and Brandt produced his third homer of the game and accounted for six of the Grove's 23 runs. But they didn't stop there. Miller walked, Romano singled, Hammers walked, and Samuels got a sacrifice fly and Stromberg also contributed with a run-producing single to cap the scoring.

Jubilee Fun

Nearing End

Wheeling's Diamond Jubilee which began last Friday, enters its final weekend. Tonight, all the neighboring mayors will be guests of honor at the Wheeling Diamond Jubilee pageant at 8:30 in the Wheeling High School football stadium at Elmhurst and Hintz roads.

Athletic contests for men will start off tomorrow at 10 a.m. in Heritage Park, on Wolf Road, just south of Dundee Road.

A beard contest will be held for all the residents sporting "facial foliage" at 1:30 p.m. in Holmes Junior High School, across from Heritage Park.

Also at Holmes the oldest resident awards will be presented at 3 p.m. Honored will be the person who has lived in Wheeling the longest, the oldest resident, the largest family living in Wheeling, and the oldest married couple.

THE FINAL PAGEANT performance will be tomorrow night.

Sunday's feature will be the grand finale parade. It will start at Wheeling High School, go south on Route 83, and then east on Dundee Road to Heritage Park. More than 60 floats, antique cars, bands, and drill teams will participate in this last jubilee event.

Jubilee Queen Ev Adamicka receives her cape.

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

NUMEROUS EXPLOSIONS went off after a fire started at a pipe line installation in Schaumburg. The fire started in a welding truck, above, located approximately 1,000 feet south of Boxwood and Duxbury streets. Explosions were caused in the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank, aerosol cans and 100 rounds of ammunition that were in the truck. No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is unknown. Firemen used piping on either side of the truck for shelter from fragments from the explosions while they fought the flames.

Firemen Battle Blaze and Bullets

A fire, which started on a welding truck, caused a series of explosions Thursday morning at a pipeline installation near Boxwood and Duxbury in Schaumburg.

The incident took place in an open field where a pipeline is being installed for the Northern Illinois Gas Co. No injuries were reported, but the welding truck valued at $6,000 and 120 feet of pipeline costing $2,640 were destroyed.

The explosions were set off from the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank used for welding, from 100 rounds of ammunition in the truck, and from aerosol cans in the area.

"EVERYTHING was constantly blowing up," said John Bognar of the Schaumburg Police Department.

"The only reason there were no injuries was that the truck was parked between two large pipes that firemen used for shelter while fighting the fire," he added.

During the battle, the Schaumburg Fire Department ran out of water brought to the scene in a pump truck. The blaze was finally doused with detergent foam, Bognar said.

"Bullets were shooting into the truck's dashboard and all over during the fire," he added. Bognar said the ammunition belonged to the truck's owner, Charles H. Ballard of Amarillo, Tex.

THE EXPLOSIONS occurred 1,000 feet from any homes in the area, Bognar said.

Indian Guides Sponsor Program

So community residents can see what YMCA Indian Guides are all about, the Sauk Nation group of Indian Guide tribes will hold a special "Y-Indian Guide Day" from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the parking lot of the Golf-Rose shopping center in Hoffman Estates.

The afternoon will be filled with Indian craft displays, camping exhibits, an actual Indian Guide meeting in progress, slides of past events and a program featuring Indian dancing, according to War Chief Gordon Borske.

"WE WANT THE AREA to get an idea of the fun and good work being done by our Y-Indian Guides," Borske said. "Usually our events are for father and son only. This one is for the whole family, including moms."

"The Indian Guide program seeks to develop the relationship between fathers and sons in grades one through three. The Sauk Nation has developed from the 27 Indian Guide tribes sponsored by the Twinbrook YMCA. Additional tribes will be organized in September, when the Sauk Nation will split into two new nations.

Schaumburg Fire Chief Henry Mullen was drenched during the fire when he reached into the truck's cab to retrieve an item for Bognar. From the other side of the truck one of the chief's men saw a flame on the dashboard. A high pressure stream of water was shot into the cab to douse the flame, and Chief Mullen.

The pipeline installation was contracted to the Curran Pipeline Construction Co. of Great Falls, Mont. The truck owned by Ballard was a one-ton 1966 welding rig.

Beauty Pageant Saturday

A Schaumburg Township girl may possibly take the first step to being named Miss America at the Miss Hoffman Estates 1970 pageant 8 p.m. Saturday at Conant High School.

Eight girls are entered in the local pageant, which is a preliminary event to Miss Illinois and Miss America contests. The girl selected to wear the title, "Miss Hoffman Estates," will compete in the state pageant next summer.

Hoffman Estates Jaycees are sponsors of the local beauty pageant, which is in its sixth year. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

PAGEANT ENTRANTS include:

—Cathy Sue Chappell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chappell, 236 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

—Patricia Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kenney, 330 Hassel Court, Hoffman Estates.

—Carol Lynn Knight, 121 N. Woodlawn, Hoffman Estates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Knight.

—Cheris Marek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Marek, 122 Kingman Lane, Hoffman Estates.

—Denise Michels, 123 Durham Lane, Hoffman Estates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Michels.

—Suzanne Jean Montabon, 162 4Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Montabon.

—Linda Pribula, 328 Roselle Road, Schaumburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Pribula.

—Judith Ann Whitaker, 316 Pleasant St., Hoffman Estates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Whitaker.

The eight pageant entrants will compete in bathing suit, evening gown, and talent categories.

Building Progresses

From Schaumburg Road, it doesn't look like much is going on in the construction of Schaumburg High School, although graders and bulldozers have been on the site since mid-May.

Recently Tonyan Construction Co., general contractors for the 82-classroom school, began pouring the concrete substructure, the first phase of actual building construction.

Completion of the $5 million building, the first high school in Illinois to be built with state funds, is scheduled for Dec. 31, 1970. In his report to the Dist. 211 School Board this month, Erie Jones, school architect, said some classroom area may be ready for the opening of school in September, 1970.

JONES GAVE the board a progress schedule graph showing what months the contractor will be working on different parts of the building.

"From looking at the graph, I think Tonyan will build one floor at a time," James Lawrence, Dist. 211 business manager, said.

Whether construction is completed on schedule depends on two things, Lawrence said. "The contractor has scheduled much of his concrete pouring and structural construction during the winter months. If we have a mild winter, he will be able to stay on schedule. It depends on the weather."

Labor strikers are the second factor, Lawrence said. "They can sometimes stop work completely for several weeks."

THE BAR GRAPH, which hangs in the Dist. 211 board room in the administration building on Roselle Road, shows that about 10 per cent of the contractor's work will be done between now and Nov. 1. This includes site drainage, completion of the concrete substructure and structural steel frame, and the beginning of putting up the exterior brick wall.

Plumbers and electricians, who will be on the site until completion, will also be tions of Schaumburg High School, scheduled to be completed in December, 1970. The 82-classroom building will be three stories at the rear of the site where it sits against the bottom of a hill and two stories high in the front.

THREE ACQUAINTANCES from Arlington Heights are opponents in the delegate race for Constitutional Convention. From left, they are Mrs. Madeline Schroeder, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald and John Woods. The candidates spoke at the first Con-Con public forum Wednesday in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall. Tax and judicial reforms topped the list of issues that concern people about the present state constitution.

Con-Con Candidates Speak

The delegate fight for the Illinois Constitutional Convention got under way on a friendly basis Wednesday night in the race's first delegate confrontation.

With the 16 delegates barely outnumbered by the members of the audience in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall, Con-Con candidates put on an informative, if somewhat academic, program.

The judicial and revenue articles of the state's current 1870 Constitution got the most attention. In the five minutes allotted, the several lawyers on the program favored the judicial article as an issue topic. From their questioning, the audience favored discussion on the revenue article.

Many candidates got by without questions from the audience.

SAM LASUSA of Palatine, Wood Dale municipal attorney, was the only candidate to take a fair-game swipe at any other candidate. He said he would be a delegate independent of any special interest or pressure group, alluding to Republican and Democratic party endorsements of four candidates.

John Woods, past Arlington Heights village president, received most audience questions, drawing three from the audience, including one from opponent candidate Mrs. Madeline Schroeder.

About 25 townspeople attended the forum sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop.

The low turnout could be an indication of delegates' job ahead at getting elected — not only getting their names out to voters, but informing people of the purpose of the convention and the issues that will be facing it. Only four candidates could be considered widely known.

THEY INCLUDE LaSusa, Woods, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, past Wheeling Township Republican committeewoman, and William Englehardt, former Inverness village president.

Baker Shifts Trustee Duties

Stressing that the Hanover Park Village Board must be flexible, Mayor Richard Baker shifted trustee committee responsibilities at an informal meeting Wednesday.

He also announced that Harold Engels will serve as a public information director for the village.

In announcing the committee changes, Baker said the appointments are not necessarily permanent. The standing committees, headed by trustees, usually have two or more citizens serving on them that working during this period.

Other candidates speaking were Gene Griffin, Mrs. Mary Carlson, Mrs. Schroeder, Thomas Johnson, LeMoine Stitt, Wilfred Robbins, Winn Davidson, Lester Bonaguro and Donald Colby. Douglas Cannon was absent.

The primary election will select four candidates Sept. 23 and the Nov. 18 general election will narrow this to two delegates for Con-Con from the state's third Senate District. Con-Con will convene Dec. 8 in Springfield.

During the winter months from November to April, concrete floors and slabs will be poured, the exterior masonry completed and interior masonry about 50 per cent completed.

Roofing and sheet metal, fireproofing and insulation, stairwells, door and window frames and heating will be installed beginning in late November and early December. About 30 per cent of the work on are appointed by the chairman

Secretarial help is available to committees. "We're getting more government going and spending less time at meetings," Baker said. He said committee reports will be made public.

UNTIL BAKER took office this spring, trustees chaired one committee and served as members of two others, thus spending many nights each month attending meetings.

Appointing citizens instead of trustees to committees is in keeping with one of Baker's campaign promises to delegate authority beyond elected officials.

Trustee Gordon Jensen was relieved of committee duties "until his health has improved," Baker said. He was formerly chairman of the water department. Ill health has apparently prevented him from attending recent board meetings.

Health and rodent control responsibilities were put under the public safety committee headed by Trustee Lou Barone. These two areas were formerly under the finance committee chaired by Trustee Barry Rogers.

WEED CONTROL was put under the public works department that Trustee James Scheuber heads. Baker said the village intends to start a more extensive weed control program.

The licensing responsibility was delegated to the village clerk and mayor. It was formerly a finance committee responsibility.

Streets were made a separate committee to be chaired by Trustee Rev. David Bugh. He was formerly head of the building department. Trustee James Lewis will head the planning and zoning committee. Baker said the building department is now in the able hands of six inspectors.

Scheuber, with the help of Pastor Bugh, will head the new water and sewer committee. In making the changes, Baker said, "We're attempting something very solid."

School Work Goes On

(First in a Series)
by JUDY BRANDES

Going back to school while hammers and drills are still audible in the school building is not new to high school students in Dist. 211.

At least one of the three high schools in the district has been under construction, whether it be an addition or completion, since 1960. And this year is no exception.

Both the second addition to Fremd High School and the new Schaumburg High School will have workmen on the site when school opens Sept. 2.

The three existing high schools, Palatine, Fremd and Conant, have all undergone improvements this summer, although some will not be visible to students.

"WITH A 40-YEAR-OLD building like Palatine High School, things begin to wear out," James Lawrence, business manager, said.

This summer, skylights have been taken out of the Palatine High roof and repairs made to stop water from leaking into classrooms and halls. Replacing window frames and an eroding retaining wall, and recovering the blacktop parking area are three of the major improvements which will be done when students return to Palatine High School.

New seats have been installed in Cutting Hall. Blue nylon covered seats will replace the 40-year-old leather seats put in when the school was built.

Roofing repairs have also been done on Conant High School where water leaked into the gym area. New lights are in the inner stairwell in Conant.

Fremd High School students will face the biggest building changes when they walk in the door Sept. 2. One English room has become a teachers' lounge, a science room has been moved, the library will have tarps on one wall separating it from the reading rooms under construction in the new addition.

The second floor crosswalk, which will not be finished until winter, will block off windows at the ends of two corridors.

The $1.5 million addition to Fremd is the last complete construction project the district can undertake without exceeding its bonding power set by state law.

The assessed valuation of Dist. 211, which includes greater parts of Palatine and Schaumburg townships, is $252 million, $33 million more than last year. This district may sell bonds equal to 5 per cent of the $252 million.

IN MARCH, 1967, a referendum for $3 million placed the district at its bonding limit. Schaumburg High School for which $1.5 million came from the 1967 referendum, is being built primarily with state funds.

Although the assessed valuation of the district has increased more this year than in previous years, the educational budget has gone up $2 million over last year. Enrollment this fall will also increase more than in previous years.

With a projected enrollment figure of 6,200 students and an educational budget of more than $7 million, it will cost the school district $1,148 to educate each student in Dist. 211 this year. Last year, with a 5,500 enrollment, and a $5 million budget, cost was $938 per student.

Each year the district's enrollment increases by more than 500 students. "If you think about the future," Lyle Johnson, board president, says, "that means we have to build a new high school about every two or three years."

It's been five years since the district opened a new school, but Palatine High School has had one addition and Fremd will have two.

Monday: Who uses the buildings?

Real Labor Day: Sept. 2

54 schools this fall while classroom construction is being completed.

JUNIOR HIGH pupils in Dist. 54 will be attending Robert Frost Junior High in two shifts until the new Jane Addams Junior High on Springinguth Road is finished. And Churchill School, Jones Road and Evergreen, will be on double sessions until a 14-room addition is completed. The scheduled completion date for the Churchill addition is Oct. 18.

At Frost Junior High, pupils scheduled to attend Frost originally will attend school from 7 a.m. until noon, while Jane Addams pupils will attend from noon until 5 p.m.

HOWEVER, SIXTH graders from the Blackhawk School area and the Schaumburg School area will attend Robert Frost on a full-day schedule beginning Sept. 3.

Fifth and sixth graders previously scheduled to attend Jane Addams School will attend a local elementary school, either Campanelli, Dooley or Nathan Hale.

Water Carnival

Nearly 150 swimmers of all ages will take part in the Schaumburg Park District water carnival today at 7 p.m. at the Civic Pool.

Carnival events will include a father-son piggy back race, water ballet routines, a greased watermelon contest for boys 10 to 12, a splash dive contest, several races and relays, and diving for pennies.

Lifesaving awards will be given to those enrolled in junior and senior lifesaving classes at the carnival.

Simon Visit Set

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwestco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

Pool Vote Is Tomorrow

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

Trailer Problem Back

Buffalo Grove's planning commission is reopening a matter that has often proved to be a Pandora's box for other villages.

At Wednesday night's commission meeting the commission agreed to take up the matter of a proposed recreational trailer ordinance for the village.

The plan commission had begun work on a new ordinance earlier, but the matter has been dormant through most of the summer.

In April the plan commission had a public hearing for trailer owners and homeowners in the village to air their opinions on a trailer ordinance for Buffalo Grove.

THE COMMENTS included calling for a clause allowing a week to remove a trailer violating the ordinance. Provisions for special use permits for trailers in hardship cases were also requested.

Henry Cimaglio, the outgoing plan commission chairman, told the commission he had copies of both the Wheeling recreational vehicle ordinance and a model ordinance distributed by a recreational trailer magazine.

The commission planned to look at the Wheeling and trailer magazine ordinances. It directed Don Zitzewitz to secure trailer ordinances from other villages in the area.

ZITZEWITZ SAID he would "survey other villages on both the type and the status of their trailer ordinances."

Presently Wheeling is considering a controversial trailer ordinance that would allow recreational trailers up to 22-feet long to be stored in back yards of proper screening was erected around the trailer.

Two factions, one supporting the ordinance, and another opposing it have formed in Wheeling. The group opposing passage of the new ordinance wants the present village trailer ordinance, banning parked trailers from within village limits, to remain in effect.

A SHOWDOWN BATTLE between the two groups was to have come up at a recent board meeting when the new ordinance was on the agenda. However, the board postponed discussion on the matter because the village planner was absent from the meeting.

It was the village planner who drafted the new proposal after attending public hearings on the matter held by the zoning board of appeals.

Meanwhile, in Rolling Meadows, an amendment to the trailer ordinance was passed allowing campers, trailers and recreational vehicles up to eight feet long to be parked or stored on a single-family dwelling lot to the rear of the building, inside the garage or in the side yard behind the front building line.

THE AMENDMENT also gave the licenses, police and health committee authority to grant exceptions to the parking and storing requirements.

The amendment was passed only after two to three weeks of discussion among village board members and Rolling Meadows residents.

Even in Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect, trailer ordinances and their enforcement has caused headaches for homeowners.

Cook County ordinances governing unincorporated areas prohibit trailers in residential areas, but homeowners report it is difficult to get the county to enforce its statute.

Campers, a living unit mounted on a truckbed, are not included in the county's definition of trailers. They carry truck license plates and therefore come under the truck regulation.

COUNTY STATUTES required trucks to be kept under roof in unincorporated residential areas, and campers are too high to clear a standard garage opening.

Moreover, some camping enthusiasts confuse county officials even further by removing the camper unit from the truckbed.

Arlington Heights has one of the stiffest ordinances in the area regarding trailers and campers. It allows only passenger cars and station wagons to be parked between the street and the front line of a house.

Trailers and campers that do not exceed a maximum size may be stored in rear yards providing they are screened with opaque fencing or shrubbery.

MOUNT PROSPECT has no specific ordinances dealing with trailers but handles complaints under public nuisance laws.

Meanwhile, Buffalo Grove passed an ordinance last May affecting only trailers on the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

The matter came up after Buffalo Grove Golf Club officials asked the village for permission to install a residential trailer on club property. The trailer was to house six to eight laborers who were to work at the golf course from April to November.

The ordinance limited the number of persons living in the trailer to six. It further specified that use of the trailer by the golf course was to end by Oct. 31.

Residents in the River Trails Park District will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a $475,000 bond referendum for a new swimming pool.

Voters living west of Wolf Road will vote at the Euclid School at Wheeling Road and Euclid Avenue. Those living east of Wolf Road will vote at the Indian Grove School at 208 S. Lee St. The polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The proposed pool, which might be completed as early as next summer if the referendum passes, would be located in the district's Woodland Trails Park on Euclid Avenue near Wolf Road.

MARVIN WEISS, park district director, said "the tone of the voters appears favorable to the pool." He declined to speculate on whether the turnout would be large.

Weiss said the bond issue, if it passes, would push the district to its legal limit in terms of the amount of bonds it has outstanding.

Weiss said he saw no problem in having the bonds sold if the referendum passes.

"The legislature raised the maximum interest rate on what we can pay on our bonds to 7 per cent about two months ago." The new maximum interest rate for park districts is equal to that allowed on municipal bonds.

THE BOND issue will cover costs of the proposed pool bathhouse, lighting, parking area and development of some of the surrounding grounds.

The average increase in the park district's portion of next year's real estate taxes would be about $3 per home if the referendum passes, Weiss said.

Weiss explained the pool could be ready next summer because plans for the pool have already been approved. Construction could start immediately if the referendum passes.

"We would ask for bids sometime in October. I would hope it would be open by July 1. But this depends on contractors and on weather conditions," he said.

The pool will be 165 feet long and 47 feet wide with a diving area extension on one side. Also planned is a smaller pool for children.

THE POOL WOULD be able to accommodate 1,000 people. Weiss said it would be big enough to serve a park district population of about 20,000. Present population of the district is about 12,000 to 14,000.

"Besides regular swimming the pool would have swimming lessons, life saving instruction, synchronized swimming, team swimming and special separate nights for adults and teenagers."

The bathhouse would be heated and used as a skating shelter in the winter and for other outdoor activities as well," Weiss said.

Weiss said a bond issue two years ago passed by a 5-1 margin.

The park district is in Prospect Heights, unincorporated Mount Prospect and the Village of Mount Prospect. Roughly, it is bounded on the north by Old Willow Road, on the south by Foundry Road; on the west by the Randhurst Shopping Center, and on the east by River Road.

Candidates Meet At Con-Con Forum

The delegate fight for the Illinois Constitutional Convention got under way on a friendly basis Wednesday night in the race's first delegate confrontation.

The primary election will select four candidates Sept. 23 and the Nov. 18 general election will narrow this to two delegates for Con-Con from the state's third Senate District. Con-Con will convene Dec. 8 in Springfield.

2 Drivers Cited

Wheeling police charged two drivers in a three-car accident at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday on the east side of Route 83 south of Old McHenry Road.

The drivers are to appear Sept. 16 in Arlington Heights District Court.

Lois L. Range, 42, of Woodstock was charged with following too closely, and Cynthia L. Davero, 16, of 23 Crestview Terrace in Buffalo Grove, was charged with driving on an instruction permit while not accompanied by a licensed driver.

The third driver, Richard G. Orderson, 27, of Ingleside was not charged.

POLICE SAID Miss Davero stopped suddenly after pulling away from a stop sign. The cars then collided in a chain reaction after the car driven by Mrs. Range hit Orderson's car, according to the police report.

Jaycees Sponsor Fertilizer Sale

The annual fall fertilizer sale sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees will be held this Saturday and Sunday.

Jaycee members will take orders these two days in the village on a door-to-door basis. Telephone orders will be accepted until next Wednesday. Those ordering by telephone are asked to call 537-5576.

The Jaycees will deliver the fertilizer Sept. 6 and 7.

Proceeds from the annual fall sale will be used to support youth, recreational and community programs.

first Con-Con public forum Wednesday in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall. Tax and judicial reforms topped the list of issues that concern people about the present state constitution.

MARGARET FALKENBERG, 54, of Des Plaines, was injured Thursday morning when the camper-trailer she was in exploded as she opened the door of an LP gas refrigerator. She was rushed to Holy Family Hospital for treatment. The accident occurred near the corner of Route 83 and Algonquin road in an unincorporated area of Elk Grove Township.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 760 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Simon Visit Set

LI. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwest, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

2-Year-Old Boy

Is Bitten by Dog

A 2-year-old Wheeling boy was treated in Holy Family Hospital Wednesday after a dog bit him on the face.

The boy, Richard Cmiel of 384 S. Wolf, received hospital treatment.

Police took the boy to the hospital after Mrs. Jesse P. Church, 390 S. Wolf, reported the accident at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said, the dog would be impounded.

IBEW Holds Brief Walkout

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION TO transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

Petition Out Against Rats

A dead rat found earlier this week by Ray Burgermeister of 476 White Pine Rd. has resulted in his circulating a petition calling on the village to end what he terms 'the rat problem in the White Pines drainage ditch area.'

According to Burgermeister's wife, the petition also asks the village to "clean up the White Pines drainage ditch area."

Last weekend Burgermeister found a dead rat by one of his basement windows.

BURGERMEISTER appeared at Monday's village board meeting to bring the problem before the trustees. Allan Thornd, a trustee, told Burgermeister that a professional exterminating firm had been operating in the White Pines area for two years.

Burgermeister said that he contacted Dr. David Saidel, the new village health officer, about the problem. Dr. Saidel told the Herald yesterday he is checking into it and "taking necessary steps."

Mrs. Burgermeister said, "The exterminators aren't enough. The weeds are tall, and people dump their junk in the ditch area. The condition of the White Pines area is part of the cause of the rats."

She said that about 60 people had signed the petition to date.

Pool Vote Is Tomorrow

ADJUSTMENT to the water and resting in floating position are self-rescue practices taught at the Elk Grove Village Lions Pool lifesaving course. They are the first steps to help swimmers learn personal safety in the water and lifesaving techniques. (See more pictures in Section 3, Page 7.)

Residents in the River Trails Park District will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a $475,000 bond referendum for a new swimming pool.

Voters living west of Wolf Road will vote at the Euclid School at Wheeling Road and Euclid Avenue. Those living east of Wolf Road will vote at the Indian Grove School at 208 S. Lee St. The polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The proposed pool, which might be completed as early as next summer if the referendum passes, would be located in the district's Woodland Trails Park on Euclid Avenue near Wolf Road.

MARVIN WEISS, park district director, said "the tone of the voters appears favorable to the pool." He declined to speculate on whether the turnout would be large.

Weiss said the bond issue, if it passes, would push the district to its legal limit in terms of the amount of bonds it has outstanding.

Weiss said he saw no problem in having the bonds sold if the referendum passes. "The legislature raised the maximum interest rate on what we can pay on our bonds to 7 per cent about two months ago." The new maximum interest rate for park districts is equal to that allowed on municipal bonds.

THE BOND issue will cover costs of the proposed pool bathhouse, lighting, parking area and development of some of the surrounding grounds.

The average increase in the park district's portion of next year's real estate taxes would be about $3 per home if the referendum passes, Weiss said. Weiss explained the pool could be ready next summer because plans for the pool have already been approved. Construction could start immediately if the referendum passes.

"We would ask for bids sometime in October. I would hope it would be open by July 1. But this depends on contractors and on weather conditions," he said.

The pool will be 165 feet long and 47 feet wide with a diving area extension on one side. Also planned is a smaller pool for children.

THE POOL WOULD be able to accommodate 1,000 people. Weiss said it would be big enough to serve a park district population of about 20,000. Present population of the district is about 12,000 to 14,000.

Besides regular swimming the pool would have swimming lessons, life saving instruction, synchronized swimming, team swimming and special separate nights for adults and teenagers.

The bathhouse would be heated and used as a skating shelter in the winter and for other outdoor activities as well," Weiss said.

Weiss said a bond issue two years ago passed by a 5-1 margin.

The park district is in Prospect Heights, unincorporated Mount Prospect and the Village of Mount Prospect. Roughly, it is bounded on the north by Old Willow Road, on the south by Foundry Road; on the west by the Randhurst Shopping Center, and on the east by River Road.

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

Trailer Problem Back

Buffalo Grove's planning commission is reopening a matter that has often proved to be a Pandora's box for other villages.

At Wednesday night's commission meeting the commission agreed to take up the matter of a proposed recreational trailer ordinance for the village.

The plan commission had begun work on a new ordinance earlier, but the matter has been dormant through most of the summer.

In April the plan commission had a public hearing for trailer owners and homeowners in the village to air their opinions on a trailer ordinance for Buffalo Grove.

THE COMMENTS included calling for a clause allowing a week to remove a trailer violating the ordinance. Provisions for special use permits for trailers in hardship cases were also requested.

Henry Cimaglio, the outgoing plan commission chairman, told the commission he had copies of both the Wheeling recreational vehicle ordinance and a model ordinance distributed by a recreational trailer magazine.

The commission planned to look at the Wheeling and trailer magazine ordinances. It directed Don Zitzewitz to secure trailer ordinances from other villages in the area.

ZITZEWITZ SAID he would "survey other villages on both the type and the status of their trailer ordinances."

Presently Wheeling is considering a controversial trailer ordinance that would allow recreational trailers up to 22-feet long to be stored in back yards of proper screening was erected around the trailer.

Two factions, one supporting the ordinance, and another opposing it have formed in Wheeling. The group opposing passage of the new ordinance wants the present village trailer ordinance, banning parked trailers from within village limits, to remain in effect.

A SHOWDOWN BATTLE between the two groups was to have come up at a recent board meeting when the new ordinance was on the agenda. However, the board postponed discussion on the matter because the village planner was absent from the meeting.

It was the village planner who drafted the new proposal after attending public hearings on the matter held by the zoning board of appeals.

Meanwhile, in Rolling Meadows, an amendment to the trailer ordinance was passed allowing campers, trailers and recreational vehicles up to eight feet long to be parked or stored on a single-family dwelling lot to the rear of the building, inside the garage or in the side yard behind the front building line.

THE AMENDMENT also gave the licenses, police and health committee authority to grant exceptions to the parking and storing requirements.

The amendment was passed only after two to three weeks of discussion among village board members and Rolling Meadows residents.

Even in Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect, trailer ordinances and their enforcement has caused headaches for homeowners.

Cook County ordinances governing unincorporated areas prohibit trailers in residential areas, but homeowners report it is difficult to get the county to enforce its statute.

Campers, a living unit mounted on a truckbed, are not included in the county's definition of trailers. They carry truck license plates and therefore come under the truck regulation.

COUNTY STATUTES required trucks to be kept under roof in unincorporated residential areas, and campers are too high to clear a standard garage opening.

Moreover, some camping enthusiasts confuse county officials even further by removing the camper unit from the truckbed.

Arlington Heights has one of the stiffest ordinances in the area regarding trailers and campers. It allows only passenger cars and station wagons to be parked between the street and the front line of a house.

Trailers and campers that do not exceed a maximum size may be stored in rear yards providing they are screened with opaque fencing or shrubbery.

MOUNT PROSPECT has no specific ordinances dealing with trailers but handles complaints under public nuisance laws.

Meanwhile, Buffalo Grove passed an ordinance last May affecting only trailers on the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

The matter came up after Buffalo Grove Golf Club officials asked the village for permission to install a residential trailer on club property. The trailer was to house six to eight laborers who were to work at the golf course from April to November.

The ordinance limited the number of persons living in the trailer to six. It further specified that use of the trailer by the golf course was to end by Oct. 31.

Candidates Meet At Con-Con Forum

The delegate fight for the Illinois Constitutional Convention got under way on a friendly basis Wednesday night in the race's first delegate confrontation.

With the 16 delegates barely outnumbered by the members of the audience in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall, Con-Con candidates put on an informative, if somewhat academic, program.

The judicial and revenue articles of the state's current 1870 Constitution got the most attention. In the five minutes allotted, the several lawyers on the program favored the judicial article as an issue topic. From their questioning, the audience favored discussion on the revenue article.

Many candidates got by without questions from the audience.

SAM LASUSA of Palatine, Wood Dale municipal attorney, was the only candidate to take a fair-game swipe at any other candidate. He said he would be a delegate independent of any special interest or pressure group, alluding to Republican and Democratic party endorsements of four candidates.

John Woods, past Arlington Heights village president, received most audience questions, drawing three from the audience, including one from opponent candidate Mrs. Madeline Schroeder.

About 25 townspeople attended the forum sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop.

The low turnout could be an indication of delegates' job ahead at getting elected — not only getting their names out to voters, but informing people of the purpose of the convention and the issues that will be facing it. Only four candidates could be considered widely known.

THEY INCLUDE LaSusa, Woods, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, past Wheeling Township Republican committeewoman, and William Englehardt, former Inverness village president.

Other candidates speaking were Gene Griffin, Mrs. Mary Carlson, Mrs. Schroeder, Thomas Johnson, LeMoine Stitt, Wilfred Robbins, Winn Davidson, Lester Bonaguro and Donald Colby. Douglas Cannon was absent.

The primary election will select four candidates Sept. 23 and the Nov. 18 general election will narrow this to two delegates for Con-Con from the state's third Senate District. Con-Con will convene Dec. 8 in Springfield.

2 Drivers Cited

Wheeling police charged two drivers in a three-car accident at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday on the east side of Route 83 south of Old McHenry Road.

The drivers are to appear Sept. 16 in Arlington Heights District Court.

Lois L. Range, 42, of Woodstock was charged with following too closely, and Cynthia L. Davero, 16, of 23 Crestview Terrace in Buffalo Grove, was charged with driving on an instruction permit while not accompanied by a licensed driver.

The third driver, Richard G. Orderson, 27, of Ingleside was not charged.

POLICE SAID Miss Davero stopped suddenly after pulling away from a stop sign. The cars then collided in a chain reaction after the car driven by Mrs. Range hit Orderson's car, according to the police report.

Jaycees Sponsor Fertilizer Sale

The annual fall fertilizer sale sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees will be held this Saturday and Sunday.

Jaycee members will take orders these two days in the village on a door-to-door basis. Telephone orders will be accepted until next Wednesday. Those ordering by telephone are asked to call 537-5576.

The Jaycees will deliver the fertilizer Sept. 6 and 7.

Proceeds from the annual fall sale will be used to support youth, recreational and community programs.

first Con-Con public forum Wednesday in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall. Tax and judicial reforms topped the list of issues that concern people about the present state constitution.

MARGARET FALKENBERG, 54, of Des Plaines, was injured Thursday morning when the camper-trailer she was in exploded as she opened the door of an LP gas refrigerator. She was rushed to Holy Family Hospital for treatment. The accident occurred near the corner of Route 83 and Algonquin road in an unincorporated area of Elk Grove Township.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 760 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Simon Visit Set

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwesco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

2-Year-Old Boy Is Bitten by Dog

A 2-year-old Wheeling boy was treated in Holy Family Hospital Wednesday after a dog bit him on the face.

The boy, Richard Cmiel of 304 S. Wolf, received hospital treatment.

Police took the boy to the hospital after Mrs. Jesse P. Church, 300 S. Wolf, reported the accident at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said, the dog would be impounded.

IBEW Holds Brief Walkout

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION to transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

Petition Out Against Rats

A dead rat found earlier this week by Ray Burgermeister of 476 White Pine Rd. has resulted in his circulating a petition calling on the village to end what he terms the rat problem in the White Pines drainage ditch area.

According to Burgermeister's wife, the petition also asks the village to "clean up the White Pines drainage ditch area."

Last weekend Burgermeister found a dead rat by one of his basement windows.

BURGERMEISTER appeared at Monday's village board meeting to bring the problem before the trustees. Allan Thorud, a trustee, told Burgermeister that a professional exterminating firm had been operating in the White Pines area for two years.

Burgermeister said that he contacted Dr. David Saidel, the new village health officer, about the problem. Dr. Saidel told the Herald yesterday he is checking into it and "taking necessary steps."

Mrs. Burgermeister said, "The exterminators aren't enough. The weeds are tall, and people dump their junk in the ditch area. The condition of the White Pines area is part of the cause of the rats."

She said that about 60 people had signed the petition to date.

Pool Vote Is Tomorrow

ADJUSTMENT to the water and resting in floating position are self-rescue practices taught at the Elk Grove Village Lions Pool lifesaving course. They are the first steps to help swimmers learn personal safety in the water and lifesaving techniques. (See more pictures in Section 3, Page 7.)

Residents in the River Trails Park District will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a $475,000 bond referendum for a new swimming pool.

Voters living west of Wolf Road will vote at the Euclid School at Wheeling Road and Euclid Avenue. Those living east of Wolf Road will vote at the Indian Grove School at 208 S. Lee St. The polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The proposed pool, which might be completed as early as next summer if the referendum passes, would be located in the district's Woodland Trails Park on Euclid Avenue near Wolf Road.

MARVIN WEISS, park district director, said "the tone of the voters appears favorable to the pool." He declined to speculate on whether the turnout would be large.

Weiss said the bond issue, if it passes, would push the district to its legal limit in terms of the amount of bonds it has outstanding.

Weiss said he saw no problem in having the bonds sold if the referendum passes. "The legislature raised the maximum interest rate on what we can pay on our bonds to 7 per cent about two months ago." The new maximum interest rate for park districts is equal to that allowed on municipal bonds.

THE BOND issue will cover costs of the proposed pool bathhouse, lighting, parking area and development of some of the surrounding grounds.

The average increase in the park district's portion of next year's real estate taxes would be about $3 per home if the referendum passes, Weiss said.

Weiss explained the pool could be ready next summer because plans for the pool have already been approved. Construction could start immediately if the referendum passes.

"We would ask for bids sometime in October. I would hope it would be open by July 1. But this depends on contractors and on weather conditions," he said.

The pool will be 165 feet long and 47 feet wide with a diving area extension on one side. Also planned is a smaller pool for children.

THE POOL WOULD be able to accommodate 1,000 people. Weiss said it would be big enough to serve a park district population of about 20,000. Present population of the district is about 12,000 to 14,000.

Besides regular swimming the pool would have swimming lessons, life saving instruction, synchronized swimming, team swimming and special separate nights for adults and teenagers.

The bathhouse would be heated and used as a skating shelter in the winter and for other outdoor activities as well," Weiss said.

Weiss said a bond issue two years ago passed by a 5-1 margin.

The park district is in Prospect Heights, unincorporated Mount Prospect and the Village of Mount Prospect. Roughly, it is bounded on the north by Old Willow Road, on the south by Foundry Road; on the west by the Randhurst Shopping Center, and on the east by River Road.

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $60 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

Trailer Problem Back

Buffalo Grove's planning commission is reopening a matter that has often proved to be a Pandora's box for other villages.

At Wednesday night's commission meeting the commission agreed to take up the matter of a proposed recreational trailer ordinance for the village.

The plan commission had begun work on a new ordinance earlier, but the matter has been dormant through most of the summer.

In April the plan commission had a public hearing for trailer owners and homeowners in the village to air their opinions on a trailer ordinance for Buffalo Grove.

THE COMMENTS included calling for a clause allowing a week to remove a trailer violating the ordinance. Provisions for special use permits for trailers in hardship cases were also requested.

Henry Cimaglio, the outgoing plan commission chairman, told the commission he had copies of both the Wheeling recreational vehicle ordinance and a model ordinance distributed by a recreational trailer magazine.

The commission planned to look at the Wheeling and trailer magazine ordinances. It directed Don Zitzewitz to secure trailer ordinances from other villages in the area.

ZITZEWITZ SAID he would "survey other villages on both the type and the status of their trailer ordinances."

Presently Wheeling is considering a controversial trailer ordinance that would allow recreational trailers up to 22-feet long to be stored in back yards of proper screening was erected around the trailer.

Two factions, one supporting the ordinance, and another opposing it have formed in Wheeling. The group opposing passage of the new ordinance wants the present village trailer ordinance, banning parked trailers from within village limits, to remain in effect.

A SHOWDOWN BATTLE between the two groups was to have come up at a recent board meeting when the new ordinance was on the agenda. However, the board postponed discussion on the matter because the village planner was absent from the meeting.

It was the village planner who drafted the new proposal after attending public hearings on the matter held by the zoning board of appeals.

Meanwhile, in Rolling Meadows, an amendment to the trailer ordinance was passed allowing campers, trailers and recreational vehicles up to eight feet long to be parked or stored on a single-family dwelling lot to the rear of the building, inside the garage or in the side yard behind the front building line.

THE AMENDMENT also gave the licenses, police and health committee authority to grant exceptions to the parking and storing requirements.

The amendment was passed only after two to three weeks of discussion among village board members and Rolling Meadows residents.

Even in Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect, trailer ordinances and their enforcement has caused headaches for homeowners.

Cook County ordinances governing unincorporated areas prohibit trailers in residential areas, but homeowners report it is difficult to get the county to enforce its statute.

Campers, a living unit mounted on a truckbed, are not included in the county's definition of trailers. They carry truck license plates and therefore come under the truck regulation.

COUNTY STATUTES required trucks to be kept under roof in unincorporated residential areas, and campers are too high to clear a standard garage opening.

Moreover, some camping enthusiasts confuse county officials' even further by removing the camper unit from the truckbed.

Arlington Heights has one of the stiffest ordinances in the area regarding trailers and campers. It allows only passenger cars and station wagons to be parked between the street and the front line of a house.

Trailers and campers that do not exceed a maximum size may be stored in rear yards providing they are screened with opaque fencing or shrubbery.

MOUNT PROSPECT has no specific ordinances dealing with trailers but handles complaints under public nuisance laws.

Meanwhile, Buffalo Grove passed an ordinance last May affecting only trailers on the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

The matter came up after Buffalo Grove Golf Club officials asked the village for permission to install a residential trailer on club property. The trailer was to house six to eight laborers who were to work at the golf course from April to November.

The ordinance limited the number of persons living in the trailer to six. It further specified that use of the trailer by the golf course was to end by Oct. 31.

Candidates Meet At Con-Con Forum

The delegate fight for the Illinois Constitutional Convention got under way on a friendly basis Wednesday night in the race's first delegate confrontation.

With the 16 delegates barely outnumbered by the members of the audience in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall, Con-Con candidates put on an informative, if somewhat academic, program.

The judicial and revenue articles of the state's current 1870 Constitution got the most attention. In the five minutes allotted, the several lawyers on the program favored the judicial article as an issue topic. From their questioning, the audience favored discussion on the revenue article.

Many candidates got by without questions from the audience.

SAM LASUSA of Palatine, Wood Dale municipal attorney, was the only candidate to take a fair-game swipe at any other candidate. He said he would be a delegate independent of any special interest or pressure group, alluding to Republican and Democratic party endorsements of four candidates.

John Woods, past Arlington Heights village president, received most audience questions, drawing three from the audience, including one from opponent candidate Mrs. Madeline Schroeder.

About 25 townspeople attended the forum sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop.

The low turnout could be an indication of delegates' job ahead at getting elected — not only getting their names out to voters, but informing people of the purpose of the convention and the issues that will be facing it. Only four candidates could be considered widely known.

THEY INCLUDE LaSusa, Woods, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, past Wheeling Township Republican committeewoman, and William Englehardt, former Inverness village president.

Other candidates speaking were Gene Griffin, Mrs. Mary Carlson, Mrs. Schroeder, Thomas Johnson, LeMoine Stitt, Wilfred Robbins, Winn Davidson, Lester Bonaguro and Donald Colby, Douglas Cannon was absent.

The primary election will select four candidates Sept. 23 and the Nov. 18 general election will narrow this to two delegates for Con-Con from the state's third Senate District. Con-Con will convene Dec. 8 in Springfield.

2 Drivers Cited

Wheeling police charged two drivers in a three-car accident at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday on the east side of Route 83 south of Old McHenry Road.

The drivers are to appear Sept. 16 in Arlington Heights District Court.

Lois L. Range, 42, of Woodstock was charged with following too closely, and Cynthia L. Davero, 16, of 23 Crestview Terrace in Buffalo Grove, was charged with driving on an instruction permit while not accompanied by a licensed driver.

The third driver, Richard G. Orderson, 27, of Ingleside was not charged.

POLICE SAID Miss Davero stopped suddenly after pulling away from a stop sign. The cars then collided in a chain reaction after the car driven by Mrs. Range hit Orderson's car, according to the police report.

Jaycees Sponsor Fertilizer Sale

The annual fall fertilizer sale sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees will be held this Saturday and Sunday.

Jaycee members will take orders these two days in the village on a door-to-door basis. Telephone orders will be accepted until next Wednesday. Those ordering by telephone are asked to call 537-5576.

The Jaycees will deliver the fertilizer Sept. 6 and 7.

Proceeds from the annual fall sale will be used to support youth, recreational and community programs.

THREE ACQUAINTANCES from Arlington Heights are opponents in the delegate race for Constitutional Convention. From left, they are Mrs. Madeline Schroeder, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald and John Woods. The candidates spoke at the first Con-Con public forum Wednesday in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall. Tax and judicial reforms topped the list of issues that concern people about the present state constitution.

MARGARET FALKENBERG, 54, of Des Plaines, was injured Thursday morning when the camper-trailer she was in exploded as she opened the door of an LP gas refrigerator. She was rushed to Holy Family Hospital for treatment. The accident occurred near the corner of Route 83 and Algonquin road in an unincorporated area of Elk Grove Township.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 780 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Simon Visit Set

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Northwestern, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

2-Year-Old Boy Is Bitten by Dog

A 2-year-old Wheeling boy was treated in Holy Family Hospital Wednesday after a dog bit him on the face.

The boy, Richard Cmiel of 384 S. Wolf, received hospital treatment.

Police took the boy to the hospital after Mrs. Jesse P. Church, 390 S. Wolf, reported the accident at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said, the dog would be impounded.

IBEW Holds Brief Walkout

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION to transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

Petition Out Against Rats

A dead rat found earlier this week by Ray Burgermeister of 476 White Pine Rd. has resulted in his circulating a petition calling on the village to end what he terms the rat problem in the White Pines drainage ditch area.

According to Burgermeister's wife, the petition also asks the village to "clean up the White Pines drainage ditch area."

Last weekend Burgermeister found a dead rat by one of his basement windows.

BURGERMEISTER appeared at Monday's village board meeting to bring the problem before the trustees. Allan Thorud, a trustee, told Burgermeister that a professional exterminating firm had been operating in the White Pines area for two years.

Burgermeister said that he contacted Dr. David Saidel, the new village health officer, about the problem. Dr. Saidel told the Herald yesterday he is checking into it and "taking necessary steps."

Mrs. Burgermeister said, "The exterminators aren't enough. The weeds are tall, and people dump their junk in the ditch area. The condition of the White Pines area is part of the cause of the rats."

She said that about 60 people had signed the petition to date.

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

PALATINE'S TALLEST BUILDING will be identified soon with a 1,000-square-foot sign on the roof. Yesterday, work began to raise the sign 10

Sept. 2: School

(Last of a Series)
by JUDY BRANDES

With program guide cards and student identification cards in hand, Dist. 211's 6,200 high school students will start back to school Sept. 2.

The hallways in Palatine and Conant high schools will be more crowded because of the increase in number of students. Palatine's enrollment of 1,350 last year will increase to 1,450 students. Conant High School will be at capacity with 3,000 students, 400 more than last year.

Fremd High School, which also increased enrollment by 100, will be crowded for six weeks. After that, the 44-classroom addition will be open and by the end of first semester Fremd's 1,750 students will be able to use the second-floor crosswalk.

THERE WILL be changes in the faces of teachers. Every department will receive some of the 109 new teachers hired this year. Last year there were 94. This year the teaching staff will be 364, 60 more than last year.

Teachers and students in Fremd will also have a new principal. Richard Kolze has moved to the administration building to become assistant superintendent. Carl Weimer is the new principal.

The administrative staff has assigned homerooms and lockers, set up the master Claude Bailey, director of transportation, estimates that 85 per cent of the students at Conant and Fremd ride the bus and 60 to 70 per cent of the students at Palatine High School do.

THERE COULD be a difference in the appearance of some students walking through the halls this year, as principals in the three schools want to form a dress review committee made up of students, parents, teachers and administrators.

Another change will come in the music department, where students again will be offered private music lessons from school instructors, but the fee has been raised from $3 to $3.50 per half-hour.

Juniors and seniors at Conant High School will not be required to take physical education courses this year because of crowded conditions.

FOR THE NEW students and freshmen who come into Dist. 211's three high schools, the changes won't be noticeable. Already they've provided a birth certificate and taken a physical examination form to their schools, a new regulation passed by the state legislature this spring.

Simon Plans Visit

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwesco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

What'll Its Name Be?

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

To Juliet, Romeo would retain that "dear perfection" even if he were called Oscar.

What's in a name is a different story, however, when it concerns the naming of a new high school in Rolling Meadows.

"For the first school, naming it after Rolling Meadows would be all right," said Mrs. Jack Decker, 2204 Martin Lane.

She said this would be a fine name and show pride in the community to name the school after the town.

MRS. DECKER has children who will be just at high school age when the school is scheduled to open.

The first in Rolling Meadows, the high school is scheduled to open in 1971. It will be the seventh high school in Dist. 214.

Located on Central Road the new school will be built across from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

The first reaction of Mrs. Denny Evans, 3807 Wren Lane, was to call the new school Neil Armstrong High School.

She said a high school named after the city wouldn't be too appropriate since so many others in the area are named for famous people.

"After the moon flight, it would be more appropriate to name it after them," she said. It would be nice to name it after all three, but that would be too "long and drawn out," she said.

She couldn't think of anyone else she would prefer to have the school named after, but she liked naming it after an astronaut better than naming it Rolling Meadows High School.

FOR REASONS OF community spirit, Mrs. Frances Endre, 2411 Park St., said after the city. She also said it would tell where the school is located. Mrs. Endre has a child that will be going to the high school.

Another vote for Neil Armstrong came from Mrs. Douglas French, 2704 Rohlwing

Road. She thinks it should be named after a famous person and "Armstrong sounds great."

This is definitely a good choice, better than someone who was killed or is dead, she said.

Mrs. R. W. Glaser, 3500 Bobolink Lane, said she thinks the city name is more appropriate than the name of a person.

"That wouldn't be bad to name it after Rolling Meadows," she said.

Preferring to having the school named after the town, she said it would better identify it by its location. Mrs. Glaser has children who she said will probably be going to the new high school.

"EACH TOWN SHOULD have a high school named after it," said Mrs. Thomas Alt, 3609 Holly Lane. She also has children of high school age, and thinks at least one school in the city should have the city's name.

"Armstrong or John Glenn sounds good," said Mrs. Richard Barker, 156 S. Maple Court. Mrs. Barker thought it would be nice to name the school after a famous person.

She also liked a name reflecting the space age. She said a school can always be named after a town. This, she thinks, is an "easy out."

Mrs. Robert Bean, 3803 S. Wren Lane, said it would be better to name the school after someone who is alive. She thought naming the school for Armstrong was a good idea.

SHE DIDN'T OBJECT to naming it after Rolling Meadows, and said either one would be good, but the important thing is that the school is good.

It would simplify things to name the high school after Rolling Meadows, said Mrs. John Connor, 3001 Grouse Lane.

In reference to naming the school for Armstrong, she said, "That's a thought, too. I don't think it would matter."

She said she had no special preference, either name would be fine with her.

EXPANDING ON naming the school after the astronaut, Mrs. Connor said it would be a good idea to name it after one of the space men, because then it wouldn't be forgotten.

She will probably have one or two children going to the school. Mrs. Connor is looking forward to the school being opened, it will be nice, she said, and will save people busing to other schools.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION TO transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

NUMEROUS EXPLOSIONS went off after a fire started at a pipe line installation in Schaumburg. The fire started in a welding truck, above, located approximately 1,000 feet south of Boxwood and

Duxbury streets. Explosions were caused in the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank, aerosol cans and 100 rounds of ammunition that were in the truck. No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is unknown. Firemen used piping on either side of the truck for shelter from fragments from the explosions while they fought the flames.

Learning Center Program Set

The Diagnostic Learning Center in Arlington Heights, a beacon of hope for many area families, will introduce a pilot program in September for severely disturbed children.

The center, which usually treats children with special learning problems while they remain in regular classrooms, will work full-time with some students during the 1969-70 school year.

John Wightman, executive director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education

Organization (NSSEO), said the children participating in the new program will be over 10 years of age. "We want to give these kids one last chance to get to a point where they may profit from classroom life."

THE CURRENT RULES and regulations of the state superintendent of public instruction provide that no child may be admitted to a class of this type after his 10th birthday. Maintaining that these students were bypassed in other years because appropriate programs were unavailable, NSSEO requested permission for the special project. School Dist. 25 and the center will co-sponsor the program.

The sessions will be limited to about eight children and many center staff members will pool resources to diagnose and treat individual problems. School districts referring children to the center this year are High School Dist. 214 and elementary districts 25, 15, 23, 57, 54 and 21.

The center was set up in 1966 with federal funds applied for by School Dist. 25 to serve students from Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships. For two years, staff members took an intensive look at children who were, for no obvious reason, two years behind their expected learning level. They were failing in spite of apparently normal abilities.

LAST YEAR THE center successfully requested government permission to include a treatment program.

NSSEO is now taking over the reins of center activities under the supervision of the recently formed Northwest Educational Cooperative. The cooperative governing board is made up of one delegate from each of the 10 participating school districts. Members include high school districts 214 and 211 and their feeder elementary districts. Seven districts opted for center assistance this year.

Wightman hopes all districts will use the center's services in the future to prevent possible duplication or overlapping of programs. His future plans also include mandatory attendance by parents and classroom teachers at in-service training programs.

Sessions for both teachers and parents were scheduled in the past, but attendance was on a voluntary basis. Wightman said involvement by parents was crucial to maintain a proper environment and understanding for each child in the home. He said teachers will be released from classes to attend in-service sessions at the center.

CHILDREN WHO attended the center last year will continue to receive assistance this fall. In the future, however, Wightman hopes that each student, after initial work at the center, may be placed in an appropriate class in his own district. Those returning to regular classrooms will be equipped with materials he has worked well with at the center and a special work program mapped out for his individual use.

In this way, Wightman said, the center may serve more students and "no child will be deprived of every avenue possible in his effort to learn and use his abilities."

Con-Con Candidates Speak

The delegate fight for the Illinois Constitutional Convention got under way on a friendly basis Wednesday night in the race's first delegate confrontation.

With the 16 delegates barely outnumbered by the members of the audience in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall, Con-Con candidates put on an informative, if somewhat academic, program.

The judicial and revenue articles of the state's current 1870 Constitution got the most attention. In the five minutes allotted, the several lawyers on the program favored the judicial article as an issue topic. From their questioning, the audience favored discussion on the revenue article.

Many candidates got by without questions from the audience.

SAM LASUSA of Palatine, Wood Dale municipal attorney, was the only candidate to take a fair-game swipe at any other candidate. He said he would be a delegate independent of any special interest or pressure group, alluding to Republican and Democratic party endorsements of four candidates.

John Woods, past Arlington Heights village president, received most audience questions, drawing three from the audience, including one from opponent candidate Mrs. Madeline Schroeder.

About 25 townspeople attended the forum sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop.

The low turnout could be an indication of delegates' job ahead at getting elected — not only getting their names out to voters, but informing people of the purpose of the convention and the issues that will be facing it. Only four candidates could be considered widely known.

THEY INCLUDE LaSusa, Woods, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, past Wheeling Township Republican committeewoman, and William Englehardt, former Inverness village president.

Other candidates speaking were Gene Griffin, Mrs. Mary Carlson, Mrs. Schroeder, Thomas Johnson, LeMoine Stitt, Wilfred Robbins, Winn Davidson, Lester Bonaguro and Donald Colby. Douglas Cannon was absent.

The primary election will select four candidates Sept. 23 and the Nov. 18 general election will narrow this to two delegates for Con-Con from the state's third Senate District. Con-Con will convene Dec. 8 in Springfield.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 760 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Plan Completion Of Ost Bleachers

Ost Field at Palatine High School will look more like a football field after this weekend when parents and friends finish putting up bleachers on both sides of the field.

About 60 weekend workers have been recruited by the Palatine High School V.P.'s (Very Interested Parents) to erect the 15-row home bleachers and 10-row visitors' bleachers.

PUTTING UP the bleachers is one of the final steps in equipping Ost Field for football games. Since October, when it was announced the Palatine Pirates would return to Ost Field, funds have been collected to buy a scoreboard, fence, flag-pole, sound system, and press box.

The bleachers were bought for the school by the Dist. 211 Board of Education. Totally, both sets of bleachers have a seating capacity of 1700. Present baseball and track bleachers can increase the capacity to 2100 seats.

The bleacher-builders will begin erecting seats at 9 a.m. Saturday while the team practices.

Brief IBEW Strike

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

Building Progresses

From Schaumburg Road, it doesn't look like much is going on in the construction of Schaumburg High School, although graders and bulldozers have been on the site since mid-May.

Recently Tonyman Construction Co., general contractors for the 82-classroom school, began pouring the concrete substructure, the first phase of actual building construction.

Completion of the $5 million building, the first high school in Illinois to be built with state funds, is scheduled for Dec. 31, 1970. In his report to the Dist. 211 School Board this month, Erle Jones, school architect, said some classroom area may be ready for the opening of school in September, 1970.

JONES GAVE the board a progress schedule graph showing what months the contractor will be working on different parts of the building.

"From looking at the graph, I think Tonyman will build one floor at a time," James Lawrence, Dist. 211 business manager, said.

Whether construction is completed on schedule depends on two things, Lawrence said. "The contractor has scheduled much of his concrete pouring and structural construction during the winter months. If we have a mild winter, he will be able to stay on schedule. It depends on the weather."

Labor strikers are the second factor, Lawrence said. "They can sometimes stop work completely for several weeks."

THE BAR GRAPH, which hangs in the Dist. 211 board room in the administration building on Roselle Road, shows that about 10 per cent of the contractor's work will be done between now and Nov. 1. This includes site drainage, completion of the concrete substructure and structural steel frame, and the beginning of putting up the exterior brick wall.

Plumbers and electricians, who will be on the site until completion, will also be working during this period.

During the winter months from November to April, concrete floors and slabs will be poured, the exterior masonry completed and interior masonry about 50 per cent completed.

Roofing and sheet metal, fireproofing and insulation, stairwells, door and window frames and heating will be installed beginning in late November and early December. About 30 per cent of the work on the site should be finished by April 1.

THROUGH the summer months all masonry will be completed, installation of door knobs and handles, window glass, plaster, and an elevator will be almost done and painting will begin.

Equipment such as lecture room seats, laboratory furniture, gymnasium equipment, home economics equipment, lockers, restrooms, and cafeteria equipment is not scheduled to be installed until mid-October, November and December.

"The district is trying to do all it can to stimulate progress, but the Illinois State Building Commission let the bid," Lawrence said. "We don't control the money, so we really can't push as much as we want to."

Tournament To Go 72 Hours

Arlington Heights was beating Rolling Meadows yesterday afternoon in a volleyball tournament by a score of 1017 to 738 after 18 hours of play.

The margin could be cut considerably if Rolling Meadows stages a comeback before the games end Saturday night.

Two area church youth groups are presently playing a marathon 72-hour volleyball game which began Wednesday night at 9 p.m. The tournament is a rematch after Arlington Heights Free Church Youth Fellowship beat the Meadows Baptist Church Youth Group in a 50-hour volleyball game last year.

During spring vacation, other area churches held 55-hour games and the Arlington Heights group decided to go all out this summer and play for 72 hours.

MEETING BEFORE the game started, team members discussed ground rules. There are no referees and, in order to stay in the contest, each side must have a minimum of three players.

At times, teams have had as many as 24 players on each side and have dwindled down to as few as three. The low point was reached yesterday about 11 a.m.

The marathon was "going really well. We've had only one flat volleyball," said Mark Senter, youth director of the Arlington Heights Free Evangelical church. Senter said they played with the slowly deflating ball until a new one was found.

Plans for the marathon include having special times set aside for different types of players. These include hours for girls, seniors and sophomores, parents, deacons and trustees. Another time slot is set aside where the players will all wear hats.

SINCE THE tournament is so long, the special hours were planned to help spice up the tournament, Senter said.

Most players come and go as their schedules permit. Senter said there was one player there yesterday afternoon who had stayed the whole time, getting a couple hours of sleep.

The marathon is being played in the yard adjacent to the Arlington Heights Free Evangelical Church, Dunton at St. James. Spotlights are used for night time play.

The climax to the tournament will be a performance by the South Jersey Young Americans who will appear at the church Saturday at 9 p.m.

THE YOUNG Americans are a group of 21 teenagers who banded together to present their music in many different styles, from hymns to guitar accompanied contemporary songs with a live beat.

Directed by 19-year-old Steve De George, members represent 11 different churches in the southern New Jersey area.

The public has been invited to hear the group sing in during the 90-minute sacred concert which is planned for the whole family.

LIKE ALL LIONS, Palatine Lions president Marvin Schramm collects other chapter pins on his blue and yellow cap. He came back from the Lions International meeting in Tokyo, with some foreign pins no one else in Palatine has.

Trip to Tokyo

When Marvin Schramm, 1312 Joan Drive, Palatine, came home from the Lions International meeting in Tokyo this summer, his Lions cap was full of chapter pins from all over the world.

"I don't really have as many as other Lions do," he admits. Swapping pins is traditional among Lions whenever they meet.

But few Lions have as many foreign pins or tales of how they got them as Schramm does. "Sometimes we couldn't even understand each other, but point at the pin we wanted."

Schramm tells of how he and some of the northwest area people who were among the 32,000 Lions at the four-day convention went to dinner at a Japanese restaurant in Tokyo. "While we were eating a waiter came up to me and indicated he wanted my pin. It was the only one I had, but I gave it to him anyway."

"ON OUR WAY out the guy came up and tapped me on the shoulder, opened his white jacket, and showed me a whole shirt full of pins. He was very proud of those pins."

As president of the Palatine Lions Club, Schramm was sent to the international meeting by the club. "It's a tradition in our club to send the president to the meeting. We haven't missed in many years."

The Palatine club is one of the oldest Lions clubs in the country. The fraternal service organization was founded in Chicago 53 years ago. The Palatine Lions club is 45-years-old.

"I was impressed with the vastness of Lions International," Schramm says. "Working in your own community, you forget it is a world-wide group."

OUTSIDE OF THE convention, Schramm found the Japanese cities very clean. "The cleanliness was unbelievable in both Tokyo and Kyoto." After the convention Schramm and 59 Chicago-area Lions toured Japan, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Hawaii.

"Some of the cab drivers had flowers in their cars and doilies on the back shelf. They all wore white gloves."

Most of the cabbies didn't speak English, so Schramm and his friends had to write down the places they wanted to go. "All the streets have both English and Japanese signs on them. Most Japanese speak English because they learn it in school."

This was the first international meeting held in Asia. "The Japanese people were very courteous. Both the Emperor and prime minister of Japan addressed the convention. As I understand, the Emperor makes very few state appearances."

SCHRAMM TRAVELED on the Bullet, a 100 m.p.h. train, from Tokyo to Kyoto. "The train went past the tea and rice paddies. I noticed the Japanese use every available square inch of land."

From Kyoto, his group flew to Hong Kong. "The trains and planes were always full of Japanese, they travel a lot."

The harbor, Schramm says, is beautiful, like a fairland, until you get into the city. "I know now what they mean by 'the teaming hordes of Asia.' All the buildings are tall, I didn't see one under four stories."

Schramm found the people in Hong Kong different from the Japanese. "The Japanese smiled at us, though they were quite reserved and wouldn't shake hands very often. I think Hong Kong people reflect their history. They don't trust the whites."

EVERYBODY IN Hong Kong can get a job. "There's no unemployment, but you can see how poor people are. There are shacks up in the hills where they live. They come down with bamboo poles and water buckets every day."

After four days in Hong Kong, Schramm went to Taiwan for two days. "I was amazed at the apparent stability of the island. They have industry. I found the people more bold than the Japanese, particularly in tipping. In Japan, you don't tip. It's insulting. But in Taiwan and Hong Kong, you had to."

Schramm flew to Honolulu from Taiwan, but did not stay. "I came home for our Palatine carnival. I felt it was important to be here while it was on."

"I think the international meeting gave me a chance to see what others are doing. It made the Lions principle of helping others take on more meaning. I'm glad I had the opportunity to go."

TOPSOIL SCRAPED off the site, basic grading done, construction workers begin to dig the foundations of Schaumburg High School, scheduled to be completed in December, 1970. The 82-classroom building will be three stories at the rear of the site where it sits against the bottom of a hill and two stories high in the front.

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roots and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Nixon Welcomes Park

SAN FRANCISCO — President Nixon welcomed South Korean President Park Chung Hee to a two-day summit meeting yesterday with assurances the United States will stand by its commitment to defend the Asian nation against Communist threats from the North.

Park told Nixon he was in accord with the U.S. President's Asian policy, which advocates self-reliance for Asian nations with American economic assistance but without U.S. troops.

PALATINE'S TALLEST BUILDING will be identified soon with a 1,000-square-foot sign on the roof. Yesterday, work began to raise the sign 10 stories to the top of the Suburban National Bank Building at the corner of Rohlwing Road and Northwest Highway.

Sept. 2: School

(Last of a Series)
by JUDY BRANDES

With program guide cards and student identification cards in hand, Dist. 211's 6,200 high school students will start back to school Sept. 2.

The hallways in Palatine and Conant high schools will be more crowded because of the increase in number of students. Palatine's enrollment of 1,350 last year will increase to 1,450 students. Conant High School will be at capacity with 3,000 students, 400 more than last year.

Fremd High School, which also increased enrollment by 100, will be crowded for six weeks. After that, the 44-classroom addition will be open and by the end of first semester Fremd's 1,750 students will be able to use the second-floor crosswalk.

THERE WILL be changes in the faces of teachers. Every department will receive some of the 109 new teachers hired this year. Last year there were 94. This year the teaching staff will be 364, 60 more than last year.

Teachers and students in Fremd will also have a new principal. Richard Kolze has moved to the administration building to become assistant superintendent. Carl Weimer is the new principal.

The administrative staff has assigned homerooms and lockers, set up the master Claude Bailey, director of transportation, estimates that 85 per cent of the students at Conant and Fremd ride the bus and 60 to 70 per cent of the students at Palatine High School do.

THERE COULD be a difference in the appearance of some students walking through the halls this year, as principals in the three schools want to form a dress review committee made up of students, parents, teachers and administrators.

Another change will come in the music department, where students again will be offered private music lessons from school instructors, but the fee has been raised from $3 to $3.50 per half-hour.

Juniors and seniors at Conant High School will not be required to take physical education courses this year because of crowded conditions.

FOR THE NEW students and freshmen who come into Dist. 211's three high schools, the changes won't be noticeable. Already they've provided a birth certificate and taken a physical examination form to their schools, a new regulation passed by the state legislature this spring.

Simon Plans Visit

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwesco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

What'll Its Name Be?

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

To Juliet, Romeo would retain that "dear perfection" even if he were called Oscar.

What's in a name is a different story, however, when it concerns the naming of a new high school in Rolling Meadows.

"For the first school, naming it after Rolling Meadows would be all right," said Mrs. Jack Decker, 2204 Martin Lane.

She said this would be a fine name and show pride in the community to name the school after the town.

MRS. DECKER has children who will be just at high school age when the school is scheduled to open.

The first in Rolling Meadows, the high school is scheduled to open in 1971. It will be the seventh high school in Dist. 214.

Located on Central Road the new school will be built across from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

The first reaction of Mrs. Denny Evans, 3807 Wren Lane, was to call the new school Neil Armstrong High School.

She said a high school named after the city wouldn't be too appropriate since so many others in the area are named for famous people.

"After the moon flight, it would be more appropriate to name it after them," she said. It would be nice to name it after all three, but that would be too "long and drawn out," she said.

She couldn't think of anyone else she would prefer to have the school named after, but she liked naming it after an astronaut better than naming it Rolling Meadows High School.

FOR REASONS OF community spirit, Mrs. Frances Endre, 2411 Park St., said after the city. She also said it would tell where the school is located. Mrs. Endre has a child that will be going to the high school.

Another vote for Neil Armstrong came from Mrs. Douglas French, 2704 Rohlwing

Road. She thinks it should be named after a famous person and "Armstrong sounds great."

This is definitely a good choice, better than someone who was killed or is dead, she said.

Mrs. R. W. Glaser, 3500 Bobolink Lane, said she thinks the city name is more appropriate than the name of a person. "That wouldn't be bad to name it after Rolling Meadows," she said.

Preferring to having the school named after the town, she said it would better identify it by its location. Mrs. Glaser has children who she said will probably be going to the new high school.

"EACH TOWN SHOULD have a high school named after it," said Mrs. Thomas Alt, 3609 Holly Lane. She also has children of high school age, and thinks at least one school in the city should have the city's name.

"Armstrong or John Glenn sounds good," said Mrs. Richard Barker, 156 S. Maple Court. Mrs. Barker thought it would be nice to name the school after a famous person.

She also liked a name reflecting the space age. She said a school can always be named after a town. This, she thinks, is an "easy out."

Mrs. Robert Bean, 3803 S. Wren Lane, said it would be better to name the school after someone who is alive. She thought naming the school for Armstrong was a good idea.

SHE DIDN'T OBJECT to naming it after Rolling Meadows, and said either one would be good, but the important thing is that the school is good.

It would simplify things to name the high school after Rolling Meadows, said Mrs. John Connor, 3001 Grouse Lane.

In reference to naming the school for Armstrong, she said, "That's a thought, too. I don't think it would matter."

She said she had no special preference, either name would be fine with her.

EXPANDING ON naming the school after the astronaut, Mrs. Connor said it would be a good idea to name it after one of the space men, because then it wouldn't be forgotten.

She will probably have one or two children going to the school. Mrs. Connor is looking forward to the school being opened, it will be nice, she said, and will save people busing to other schools.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION TO transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

NUMEROUS EXPLOSIONS went off after a fire started at a pipe line installation in Schaumburg. The fire started in a welding truck, above, located approximately 1,000 feet south of Boxwood and

Duxbury streets. Explosions were caused in the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank, aerosol cans and 100 rounds of ammunition that were in the truck. No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is unknown. Firemen used piping on either side of the truck for shelter from fragments from the explosions while they fought the flames.

Learning Center Program Set

The Diagnostic Learning Center in Arlington Heights, a beacon of hope for many area families, will introduce a pilot program in September for severely disturbed children.

The center, which usually treats children with special learning problems while they remain in regular classrooms, will work full-time with some students during the 1969-70 school year.

John Wightman, executive director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education

Organization (NSSEO), said the children participating in the new program will be over 10 years of age. "We want to give these kids one last chance to get to a point where they may profit from classroom life."

THE CURRENT RULES and regulations of the state superintendent of public instruction provide that no child may be admitted to a class of this type after his 10th birthday. Maintaining that these students were bypassed in other years because appropriate programs were unavailable, NSSEO requested permission for the special project. School Dist. 25 and the center will co-sponsor the program.

The sessions will be limited to about eight children and many center staff members will pool resources to diagnose and treat individual problems. School districts referring children to the center this year are High School Dist. 214 and elementary districts 25, 15, 23, 57, 54 and 21.

The center was set up in 1966 with federal funds applied for by School Dist. 25 to serve students from Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships. For two years, staff members took an intensive look at children who were, for no obvious reason, two years behind their expected learning level. They were failing in spite of apparently normal abilities.

LAST YEAR THE center successfully requested government permission to include a treatment program.

NSSEO is now taking over the reins of center activities under the supervision of the recently formed Northwest Educational Cooperative. The cooperative governing board is made up of one delegate from each of the 10 participating school districts. Members include high school districts 214 and 211 and their feeder elementary districts. Seven districts opted for center assistance this year.

Wightman hopes all districts will use the center's services in the future to prevent possible duplication or overlapping of programs. His future plans also include mandatory attendance by parents and classroom teachers at in-service training programs.

Sessions for both teachers and parents were scheduled in the past, but attendance was on a voluntary basis. Wightman said involvement by parents was crucial to maintain a proper environment and understanding for each child in the home. He said teachers will be released from classes to attend in-service sessions at the center.

CHILDREN WHO attended the center last year will continue to receive assistance this fall. In the future, however, Wightman hopes that each student, after initial work at the center, may be placed in an appropriate class in his own district. Those returning to regular classrooms will be equipped with materials he has worked well with at the center and a special work program mapped out for his individual use.

In this way, Wightman said, the center may serve more students and "no child will be deprived of every avenue possible in his effort to learn and use his abilities."

LIKE ALL LIONS, Palatine Lions president Marvin Schramm collects other chapter pins on his blue and yellow cap. He came back from the Lions International meeting in Tokyo, with some foreign pins no one else in Palatine has.

Con-Con Candidates Speak

The delegate fight for the Illinois Constitutional Convention got under way on a friendly basis Wednesday night in the race's first delegate confrontation.

With the 16 delegates barely outnumbered by the members of the audience in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall, Con-Con candidates put on an informative, if somewhat academic, program.

The judicial and revenue articles of the state's current 1870 Constitution got the most attention. In the five minutes allotted, the several lawyers on the program favored the judicial article as an issue topic. From their questioning, the audience favored discussion on the revenue article.

Many candidates got by without questions from the audience.

SAM LaSUSA of Palatine, Wood Dale municipal attorney, was the only candidate to take a fair-game swipe at any other candidate. He said he would be a delegate independent of any special interest or pressure group, alluding to Republican and Democratic party endorsements of four candidates.

John Woods, past Arlington Heights village president, received most audience questions, drawing three from the audience, including one from opponent candidate Mrs. Madeline Schroeder.

About 25 townspeople attended the forum sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop.

The low turnout could be an indication of delegates' job ahead at getting elected — not only getting their names out to voters, but informing people of the purpose of the convention and the issues that will be facing it. Only four candidates could be considered widely known.

THEY INCLUDE LaSUSA, Woods, Mrs. Griffin, Mrs. Mary Carlson, Mrs. Schroeder, Thomas Johnson, LeMoine Skitt, Wilfred Robbins, Winn Davidson, Lester Bonaguro and Donald Colby. Douglas Cannon was absent.

Other candidates speaking were Gene Griffin, Mrs. Mary Carlson, Mrs. Schroeder, Thomas Johnson, LeMoine Skitt, Wilfred Robbins, Winn Davidson, Lester Bonaguro and Donald Colby. Douglas Cannon was absent.

The primary election will select four candidates Sept. 23 and the Nov. 18 general election will narrow this to two delegates for Con-Con from the state's third Senate District. Con-Con will convene Dec. 8 in Springfield.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 700 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Brief IBEW Strike

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

Plan Completion Of Ost Bleachers

Ost Field at Palatine High School will look more like a football field after this weekend when parents and friends finish putting up bleachers on both sides of the field.

About 60 weekend workers have been recruited by the Palatine High School VIP's (Very Interested Parents) to erect the 15-row home bleachers and 10-row visitors' bleachers.

PUTTING UP the bleachers is one of the final steps in equipping Ost Field for football games. Since October, when it was announced the Palatine Pirates would return to Ost Field, funds have been collected to buy a scoreboard, fence, flagpole, sound system, and press box.

The bleachers were bought for the school by the Dist. 211 Board of Education. Totally, both sets of bleachers have a seating capacity of 1700. Present baseball and track bleachers can increase the capacity to 2100 seats.

The bleacher-builders will begin erecting seats at 9 a.m. Saturday while the team practices.

Building Progresses

From Schaumburg Road, it doesn't look like much is going on in the construction of Schaumburg High School, although graders and bulldozers have been on the site since mid-May.

Recently Tonyan Construction Co., general contractors for the 82-classroom school, began pouring the concrete substructure, the first phase of actual building construction.

Completion of the $5 million building, the first high school in Illinois to be built with state funds, is scheduled for Dec. 31. In his report to the Dist. 211 School Board this month, Erle Jones, school architect, said some classroom area may be ready for the opening of school in September, 1970.

JONES GAVE the board a progress schedule graph showing what months the contractor will be working on different parts of the building.

"From looking at the graph, I think Tonyan will build one floor at a time," James Lawrence, Dist. 211 business manager, said.

Whether construction is completed on schedule depends on two things, Lawrence said. "The contractor has scheduled much of his concrete pouring and structural construction during the winter months. If we have a mild winter, he will be able to stay on schedule. It depends on the weather."

Labor strikers are the second factor, Lawrence said. "They can sometimes stop work completely for several weeks."

THE BAR GRAPH, which hangs in the Dist. 211 board room in the administration building on Roselle Road, shows that about 10 per cent of the contractor's work will be done between now and Nov. 1. This includes site drainage, completion of the concrete substructure and structural steel frame, and the beginning of putting up the exterior brick wall.

Plumbers and electricians, who will be on the site until completion, will also be working during this period.

During the winter months from November to April, concrete floors and slabs will be poured, the exterior masonry completed and interior masonry about 50 per cent completed.

Roofing and sheet metal, fireproofing and insulation, stairwells, door and window frames and heating will be installed beginning in late November and early December. About 30 per cent of the work on the site should be finished by April 1.

THROUGH the summer months all masonry will be completed, installation of door knobs and handles, window glass, plaster, and an elevator will be almost done and painting will begin.

Equipment such as lecture room seats, laboratory furniture, gymnasium equipment, home economics equipment, lockers, restrooms, and cafeteria equipment is not scheduled to be installed until mid-October, November and December.

"The district is trying to do all it can to stimulate progress, but the Illinois State Building Commission let the bid," Lawrence said. "We don't control the money, so we really can't push as much as we want to."

Tournament To Go 72 Hours

Arlington Heights was beating Rolling Meadows yesterday afternoon in a volleyball tournament by a score of 1017 to 736 after 18 hours of play.

The margin could be cut considerably if Rolling Meadows stages a comeback before the games end Saturday night.

Two area church youth groups are presently playing a marathon 72-hour volleyball game which began Wednesday night at 9 p.m. The tournament is a rematch after Arlington Heights Free Church Youth Fellowship beat the Meadows Baptist Church Youth Group in a 50-hour volleyball game last year.

During spring vacation, other area churches held 55-hour games and the Arlington Heights group decided to go all out this summer and play for 72 hours.

MEETING BEFORE the game started, team members discussed ground rules. There are no referees and, in order to stay in the contest, each side must have a minimum of three players.

At times, teams have had as many as 24 players on each side and have dwindled down to as few as three. The low point was reached yesterday about 11 a.m.

The marathon was "going really well. We've had only one flat volleyball," said Mark Senter, youth director of the Arlington Heights Free Evangelical church. Senter said they played with the slowly deflating ball until a new one was found.

Plans for the marathon include having special times set aside for different types of players. These include hours for girls, seniors and sophomores, parents, deacons and trustees. Another time slot is set aside where the players will all wear hats.

SINCE THE tournament is so long, the special hours were planned to help spice up the tournament, Senter said.

Most players come and go as their schedules permit. Senter said there was one player there yesterday afternoon who had stayed the whole time, getting a couple hours of sleep.

The marathon is being played in the yard adjacent to the Arlington Heights Free Evangelical Church, Dunton at St. James. Spotlights are used for night time play.

The climax to the tournament will be a performance by the South Jersey Young Americans who will appear at the church Saturday at 9 p.m.

THE YOUNG Americans are a group of 21 teenagers who banded together to present their music in many different styles, from hymns to guitar accompanied contemporary songs with a live beat.

Directed by 19-year-old Steve De George, members represent 11 different churches in the southern New Jersey area.

The public has been invited to hear the group sing in during the 90-minute sacred concert which is planned for the whole family.

TOPSOIL SCRAPED off the site, basic grading done, construction workers begin to dig the foundations of Schaumburg High School, scheduled to be completed in December, 1970. The 82-classroom building will be three stories at the rear of the site where it sits against the bottom of a hill and two stories high in the front.

Lions Main Office Here?

ADJUSTMENT TO the water and resting in floating position are self-rescue practices taught at the Elk Grove Village Lions Pool lifesaving course. They are the first steps to help swimmers learn personal safety in the water and lifesaving techniques. (See more pictures in Section 3, Page 7.)

Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect has been singled out as a possible site for a new Lions Club international headquarters, the Herald learned yesterday.

Jack Keller, president of the Arlington Heights chapter of Lions, said no decision has been made, but added that one could be expected within a week.

One Lion member said the site being considered at Old Orchard contains 42 acres. The country club itself is located at 700 W. Rand Road, Mount Prospect.

Keller, who works for FBK Realtors in Arlington Heights, said when the new site is chosen and the building is constructed, Japan will donate $100,000 to $200,000 for landscaping the property. This, he said, would serve as their contribution to the new international headquarters.

THE INTERNATIONAL GROUP sold its 100-year-old building at 209 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, but the organization's constitution demands that headquarters remain in the Chicago metropolitan area.

The old building was deemed outdated by the Lions, although 300 persons are employed there, and it was sold. There are approximately one million Lions in the world, according to one source.

Executive administrator John Vogt said Wednesday that four sites are being studied by a special committee and that final selection by the international board of directors is imminent.

The new headquarters must be completed by July, 1971, when the Lions are slated to vacate their present offices.

General Counsel Roy Schaezel said designs for the new building will be hashed out soon with the architects.

INTERNATIONAL Headquarters coordinate Lions Club activities throughout the world and are usually included in the convention schedule.

The group rotates conventions and met in Chicago in 1967, Dallas in 1968 and Tokyo last month. Atlantic City, N.J., is slated for next year's session.

Pledged to take an active interest in civic, social and moral welfare of the community, Lions Club members work and contribute to the blind and retarded.

Committees include education and youth exchange, citizenship and health and welfare.

Maintaining that these students were bypassed in other years because appropriate programs were unavailable, NSSEO requested permission for the special project. School Dist. 25 and the center will co-sponsor the program.

The sessions will be limited to about eight children and many center staff members will pool resources to diagnose and treat individual problems. School districts referring children to the center this year are High School Dist. 214 and elementary districts 25, 15, 23, 57, 54 and 21.

The center was set up in 1966 with federal funds applied for by School Dist. 25 to serve students from Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships. For two years, staff members took an intensive look at children who were, for no obvious reason, two years behind their expected learning level. They were failing in spite of apparently normal abilities.

LAST YEAR THE center successfully requested government permission to include a treatment program.

NSSEO is now taking over the reins of center activities under the supervision of the recently formed Northwest Educational Cooperative. The cooperative governing board is made up of one delegate from each of the 10 participating school districts. Members include high school districts 214 and 211 and their feeder elementary districts. Seven districts opted for center assistance this year.

Wightman hopes all districts will use the center's services in the future to prevent possible duplication or overlapping of programs. His future plans also include mandatory attendance by parents and classroom teachers at in-service training programs.

Sessions for both teachers and parents were scheduled in the past, but attendance was on a voluntary basis. Wightman said involvement by parents was crucial to maintain a proper environment and understanding for each child in the home. He said teachers will be released from classes to attend in-service sessions at the center.

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Invasion Remembered

PRAGUE — Thirty Czechoslovak army tanks rumbled into central Prague after more than 100,000 Czechoslovaks jammed Wenceslas Square yesterday on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion and, in an emotional appeal, chanted: "Russians go home!"

As in the previous two nights of battles with police, the demonstrators yesterday regrouped after a tear gas attack and returned to the square.

Vandalism Low in Dist. 59

Vandalism in Dist. 59 schools is low this year, but the "run-of-the-mill window breaking" has still taken its toll.

Donald DeBiase, Dist. 59 building and grounds director, reported that there has been "no real vandalism" at the schools this summer other than the window breaking.

Dist. 59 covers 20 elementary and junior high schools in Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and Des Plaines.

"Window breaking usually increases in the summer, going down to practically nothing in the winter," DeBiase explained.

He reported approximately 38 windows were broken in June, with 61 in the first 21 days of July. Although almost half of the damage has been done in Elk Grove Village, 10 of the 20 schools are in that area.

The highest amount of windows broken in one night was at Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect with 16. This school seems to be hit more than others, according to DeBiase.

"Most of the damage has done after midnight, which would indicate that older students are responsible," DeBiase said.

"A lot of the problem seems to stem from the fact that the school grounds are used for lovers lanes late at night. The areas are patrolled, but since the trouble doesn't occur every night we can't sit and wait for it."

"We've never caught anybody," DeBiase said.

The Prospect Day reported to police that its office on Main Street had been entered and an enlarging lens was missing yesterday.

There was no sign of forcible entry and police speculated a key had been used to enter the building.

IBEW Holds Brief Walkout

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 760 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night

Pool Bond Vote Is Tomorrow

Residents in the River Trails Park District will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a $475,000 bond referendum for a new swimming pool.

Voters living west of Wolf Road will vote at the Euclid School at Wheeling Road and Euclid Avenue. Those living east of Wolf Road will vote at the Indian Grove School at 208 S. Lee St. The polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The proposed pool, which might be completed as early as next summer if the referendum passes, would be located in the district's Woodland Trails Park on Euclid Avenue near Wolf Road.

MARVIN WEISS, park district director, said "the tone of the voters appears favorable to the pool." He declined to speculate on whether the turnout would be large.

Weiss said the bond issue, if it passes, would push the district to its legal limit in terms of the amount of bonds it has outstanding.

Weiss said he saw no problem in having the bonds sold if the referendum passes. "The legislature raised the maximum interest rate on what we can pay on our bonds to 7 per cent about two months ago." The new maximum interest rate for park districts is equal to that allowed on municipal bonds.

THE BOND issue will cover costs of the proposed pool bathhouse, lighting, parking area and development of some of the surrounding grounds.

The average increase in the park district's portion of next year's real estate taxes would be about $3 per home if the referendum passes, Weiss said.

Weiss explained the pool could be ready next summer because plans for the pool have already been approved. Construction could start immediately if the referendum passes.

"We would ask for bids sometime in October. I would hope it would be open by July 1. But this depends on contractors and on weather conditions," he said.

The pool will be 165 feet long and 47 feet wide with a diving area extension on one side. Also planned is a smaller pool for children.

THE POOL WOULD be able to accommodate 1,000 people. Weiss said it would big enough to serve a park district population of about 20,000. Present population of the district is about 12,000 to 14,000.

"Besides regular swimming the pool would have swimming lessons, life saving instruction, synchronized swimming, team swimming and special separate nights for adults and teenagers.

The bathhouse would be heated and used as a skating shelter in the winter and for other outdoor activities as well," Weiss said.

Weiss said a bond issue two years ago passed by a 5-1 margin.

The park district is in Prospect Heights, unincorporated Mount Prospect and the Village of Mount Prospect. Roughly, it is bounded on the north by Old Willow Road, on the south by Foundry Road; on the west by the Randhurst Shopping Center, and on the east by River Road.

BATTERED SHELL of sports car was separated from frame following an accident early Thursday in which James G. Curran, 21, of Des Plaines was injured. Curran's car went off the road while northbound on Route 83, and turned over several times' according to witnesses. He was reported in fair condition at St. Alexius Hospital.

Simon Visit Set

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwesco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION to transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

Mail Positions Open

Positions as mail carriers are now available at the Mount Prospect Post Office according to Postmaster Theodore C. Geocaris.

The positions are available to either male or female applicants for full time permanent employees as letter carriers.

Applications are being taken at the post office, 202 E. Evergreen or by calling the assistant postmaster at 392-2730.

Curran Injured When Car Flipped

A 21-year-old Des Plaines man was seriously injured early Thursday when his sports car went off the road and flipped over several times before coming to a stop in the southbound lane of Route 83 near Greenleaf Avenue, Elk Grove.

James G. Curran, of 1441 Campbell St., was reported in fair condition Thursday morning at St. Alexius Hospital. He suffered multiple injuries and was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Patrolman Richard Rusch reported that Curran was northbound when his car ran off the road and rolled end-over-end three or four times.

Witnesses, among them two off-duty Elmhurst policemen, told Rusch the car flew approximately 30 feet through the air before landing upside down in the middle of the roadway.

Firemen Fight Fire, Bullets

A fire, which started on a welding truck, caused a series of explosions Thursday morning at a pipeline installation near Boxwood and Duxbury in Schaumburg.

The incident took place in an open field where a pipeline is being installed for the Northern Illinois Gas Co. No injuries were reported, but the welding truck valued at $6,000 and 120 feet of pipeline costing $2,640 were destroyed.

The explosions were set off from the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank used for welding, from 100 rounds of ammunition in the truck, and from aerosol cans in the area.

"EVERYTHING was constantly blowing up," said John Bognar of the Schaumburg Police Department.

"The only reason there were no injuries was that the truck was parked between two large pipes that firemen used for shelter while fighting the fire," he added.

During the battle, the Schaumburg Fire

Department ran out of water brought to the scene in a pump truck. The blaze was finally doused with detergent foam, Bognar said.

"Bullets were shooting into the truck's dashboard and all over during the fire," he added. Bognar said the ammunition belonged to the truck's owner, Charles H. Ballard of Amarillo, Tex.

THE EXPLOSIONS occurred 1,000 feet from any homes in the area, Bognar said.

Schaumburg Fire Chief Henry Mullen was drenched during the fire when he reached into the truck's cab to retrieve an item for Bognar. From the other side of the truck one of the chief's men saw a flame on the dashboard. A high pressure stream of water was shot into the cab to douse the flame, and Chief Mullen.

The pipeline installation was contracted to the Curran Pipeline Construction Co. of Great Falls, Mont. The truck owned by Ballard was a one-ton 1966 welding rig.

Learning Is ESP To Lasers

by JOAN KLUSSMAN

Students at St. James Junior High School yesterday shook their hands, concentrated hard and rolled dice. The stakes were purely scientific.

Members of a ScienSummer enrichment program attended by pupils from 17 local schools, the pupils were testing their extra sensory perception and trying to influence the fall of the dice by thinking of a particular number.

The experiment got off to an exciting start when one girl rapidly threw four 6's during her first turn. But, unfortunately for ESP buffs, she was thinking of another number.

While the dice clinked on some laboratory tables, other blindfolded pupils tested extraocular vision and attempted to predict the color of cards scattered before them. One boy did a spectacular job but honestly admitted later that he discovered a difference in texture on some of the cards. Their textbooks told them that at least 100 tries were necessary for good results.

Before the advanced biology class adjourned, students recorded the weights of mice they have been feeding all month. The small animals serve as a testing ground for individually planned diets and to illustrate the basic rules of heredity. The mice are white, black or hairless and characteristics in their offspring are easily discernible.

The ScienSummer format, sparked last year by St. James science coordinator Jay Kreiner, is largely oriented to laboratory work. Introductory biology students check their own blood types and make permanent specimen slides. Members of the physics class make motors and use spectrosopes to determine the colors coming from candlelight, sunlight and incandescent bulbs.

AN INTENSE red dot jumped around the physics room yesterday when Kreiner

introduced an optical laser to the class. Reminding the kids that the astronauts placed a laser on the moon to determine its precise distance from the earth, Kreiner placed different polarizers (similar to sunglass lenses) on the laser and asked students to predict the results.

Kreiner, who teaches all summer classes, is a young, slight man in a huge white lab coat. He is casual, calm and never raises his voice. He also commands intense student respect. Comments ranged from "he's great," to "his knowledge of science is tremendous." Most of the students, including the girls, say the summer courses are fun.

Kreiner says the boys outnumber the girls 3 to 1, most probably because "cultural conditioning" makes girls think in terms of a non-scientific future.

The one girl enrolled in physics admits she had qualms at first but now it doesn't make a bit of difference. "We all work together and I don't feel strange at all."

The program, for fifth through ninth graders, was divided into two five-week sessions and many of the students take two or three classes at the same time. Total cost per session is $20, which goes toward purchase of equipment. The $100 classroom laser, put on the market this year, was bought with tuition funds.

THERE ARE five scholarships available to students who write brief essays and submit letters of recommendation from their science teachers. Movies on scientific subjects are shown daily and any student may come early or stay late to watch the films. Kreiner is planning more classes next summer and may include courses in radiobiology, nucleonics and aviation education. Those attending the summer sessions are given extra credits by High School Dist. 214. The younger children may use the credits when they enter high school.

The science coordinator, likes working with different aged students in one room. "When you have various ages, you have to work individually with each student and they profit more from the course."

One student, however, disagrees on the age gap. On a written evaluation sheet she praised the format of the sessions and said she would definitely be back next year.

She concluded, however, that fifth through ninth grade kids shouldn't be together because "the fifth are sorta slow and the ninth know it all."

NUMEROUS EXPLOSIONS went off after a fire started at a pipe line installation in Schaumburg. The fire started in a welding truck, above, located approximately 1,000 feet south of Boxwood and Duxbury streets. Explosions were caused in the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank, aerosol cans and 100 rounds of ammunition that were in the truck. No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is unknown. Firemen used piping on either side of the truck for shelter from fragments from the explosions while they fought the flames.

Lions Main Office Here?

Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect has been singled out as a possible site for a new Lions Club international headquarters, the Herald learned yesterday.

Jack Keller, president of the Arlington Heights chapter of Lions, said no decision has been made, but added that one could be expected within a week.

One Lion member said the site being considered at Old Orchard contains 42 acres. The country club itself is located at 700 W. Rand Road, Mount Prospect.

Keller, who works for FBK Realtors in Arlington Heights, said when the new site is chosen and the building is constructed, Japan will donate $100,000 to $200,000 for landscaping the property. This, he said, would serve as their contribution to the new international headquarters.

THE INTERNATIONAL GROUP sold its 100-year-old building at 209 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, but the organization's constitution demands that headquarters remain in the Chicago metropolitan area.

The old building was deemed outdated by the Lions, although 300 persons are employed there, and it was sold. There are approximately one million Lions in the world, according to one source.

Executive administrator John Vogt said Wednesday that four sites are being studied by a special committee and that final selection by the international board of directors is imminent.

The new headquarters must be completed by July, 1971, when the Lions are slated to vacate their present offices.

General Counsel Roy Schaezel said designs for the new building will be hashed out soon with the architects.

INTERNATIONAL Headquarters coordinate Lions Club activities throughout the world and are usually included in the convention schedule.

The group rotates conventions and met in Chicago in 1967, Dallas in 1968 and Tokyo last month. Atlantic City, N.J., is slated for next year's session.

Pledged to take an active interest in civic, social and moral welfare of the community, Lions Club members work and contribute to the blind and retarded.

Committees include education and youth exchange, citizenship and health and welfare.

Mrs. Everett Helps College Buy Track

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mrs. Marjorie Everett, president of the Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc., which operates Arlington and Washington Park race tracks said Thursday she has made a cash donation to Knox College that enabled the Galesburg, Ill., school to buy Aurora Downs race track.

The purchase price for the harness racing plant in Aurora, Ill., was $2.3 million, she said.

The donation was in the form of her guarantee that Knox would have the money made available to it from her personal funds and credit, Mrs. Everett said.

"Under the terms of the gift I have the option of approximately 90 days to designate other charities to participate in this gift in the amount of approximately 50 percent of the purchase price," she said.

Mrs. Everett said she made the donation because of her "deep dedication and belief in Illinois racing and in Illinois education and my great desire to utilize much of my personal estate to benefit the people of this state."

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 760 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

A GRIM REMINDER was found pasted to an inside wall of the demolished camper-trailer.

Pool Bond Vote Is Tomorrow

Residents in the River Trails Park District will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a $475,000 bond referendum for a new swimming pool.

Voters living west of Wolf Road will vote at the Euclid School at Wheeling Road and Euclid Avenue. Those living east of Wolf Road will vote at the Indian Grove School at 208 S. Lee St. The polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The proposed pool, which might be completed as early as next summer if the referendum passes, would be located in the district's Woodland Trails Park on Euclid Avenue near Wolf Road.

MARVIN WEISS, park district director, said "the tone of the voters appears favorable to the pool." He declined to speculate on whether the turnout would be large.

Weiss said the bond issue, if it passes, would push the district to its legal limit in terms of the amount of bonds it has outstanding.

Weiss said he saw no problem in having the bonds sold if the referendum passes. "The legislature raised the maximum interest rate on what we can pay on our bonds to 7 per cent about two months ago." The new maximum interest rate for park districts is equal to that allowed on municipal bonds.

THE BOND issue will cover costs of the proposed pool bathhouse, lighting, parking area and development of some of the surrounding grounds.

The average increase in the park district's portion of next year's real estate taxes would be about $3 per home if the referendum passes, Weiss said.

Weiss explained the pool could be ready next summer because plans for the pool have already been approved. Construction could start immediately if the referendum passes.

"We would ask for bids sometime in October. I would hope it would be open by July 1. But this depends on contractors and on weather conditions," he said.

The pool will be 165 feet long and 47 feet wide with a diving area extension on one side. Also planned is a smaller pool for children.

THE POOL WOULD be able to accommodate 1,000 people. Weiss said it would be big enough to serve a park district population of about 20,000. Present population of the district is about 12,000 to 14,000.

"Besides regular swimming the pool would have swimming lessons, life saving instruction, synchronized swimming, team swimming and special separate nights for adults and teenagers.

The bathhouse would be heated and used as a skating shelter in the winter and for other outdoor activities as well," Weiss said.

Weiss said a bond issue two years ago passed by a 5-1 margin.

The park district is in Prospect Heights, unincorporated Mount Prospect and the Village of Mount Prospect. Roughly, it is bounded on the north by Old Willow Road, on the south by Foundry Road; on the west by the Randolph Shopping Center, and on the east by River Road.

BATTERED SHELL of sports car was separated from mits frame following an accident early Thursday in which James G. Curran, 21, of Des Plaines was injured. Curran's car went off the road while northbound on Route 83, and turned over several times' according to witnesses. He was reported in fair condition at St. Alexius Hospital.

Simon Visit Set

Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwesco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' march last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

Curran Injured When Car Flipped

A 21-year-old Des Plaines man was seriously injured early Thursday when his sports car went off the road and flipped over several times before coming to a stop in the southbound lane of Route 83 near Greenleaf Avenue, Elk Grove.

James G. Curran, of 1441 Campbell St., was reported in fair condition Thursday morning at St. Alexius Hospital. He suffered multiple injuries and was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Patrolman Richard Rusch reported that Curran was northbound when his car ran off the road and rolled end-over-end three or four times.

Witnesses, among them two off-duty Elmhurst policemen, told Rusch the car flew approximately 30 feet through the air before landing upside down in the middle of the roadway.

Hough Case Transferred

The zoning case against Joseph Hough of Palatine Township filed by the state's attorney's office will be heard Wednesday morning by Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen.

At yesterday morning's hearing a request from Gordon Millner of the state's attorney's office to transfer the case to another court was granted.

The lawsuit was filed against Hough after evidence of zoning violations and construction of buildings without the proper permits was gathered by the Cook County Building Dept., according to Millner.

Hough is the owner of Palington Riding Stables on Northwest Highway. His property presently is zoned R-4, single-family residential, but Hough said he was granted permission to construct legal nonconforming uses on the land.

IN ADDITION TO transferring the case to another court, Millner also asked for authority to amend the complaint.

"I want to be able to present additional parties defendant to the lawsuit," he said.

The transfer request was made because the judge who was scheduled to hear the case has a large backlog of cases, according to Millner.

"We want to be able to get a prompt decision on the case," he explained.

If the state's attorney wins the case, Hough will be ordered to vacate the buildings and demolish them.

Mail Positions Open

Positions as mail carriers are now available at the Mount Prospect Post Office according to Postmaster Theodore C. Geocaris.

The positions are available to either male or female applicants for full time permanent employees as letter carriers.

Applications are being taken at the post office, 202 E. Evergreen or by calling the assistant postmaster at 392-2730.

Firemen Fight Fire, Bullets

A fire, which started on a welding truck, caused a series of explosions Thursday morning at a pipeline installation near Boxwood and Duxbury in Schaumburg.

The incident took place in an open field where a pipeline is being installed for the Northern Illinois Gas Co. No injuries were reported, but the welding truck valued at $8,000 and 120 feet of pipeline costing $2,640 were destroyed.

The explosions were set off from the truck's gas tank, an acetylene tank used for welding, from 100 rounds of ammunition in the truck, and from aerosol cans in the area.

"EVERYTHING was constantly blowing up," said John Bogner of the Schaumburg Police Department.

"The only reason there were no injuries was that the truck was parked between two large pipes that firemen used for shelter while fighting the fire," he added.

During the battle, the Schaumburg Fire

Department ran out of water brought to the scene in a pump truck. The blaze was finally doused with detergent foam, Bogner said.

"Bullets were shooting into the truck's dashboard and all over during the fire," he added. Bogner said the ammunition belonged to the truck's owner, Charles H. Ballard of Amarillo, Tex.

THE EXPLOSIONS occurred 1,000 feet from any homes in the area, Bogner said.

Schaumburg Fire Chief Henry Mullen was drenched during the fire when he reached into the truck's cab to retrieve an item for Bogner. From the other side of the truck one of the chief's men saw a flame on the dashboard. A high pressure stream of water was shot into the cab to douse the flame, and Chief Mullen.

The pipeline installation was contracted to the Curran Pipeline Construction Co. of Great Falls, Mont. The truck owned by Ballard was a one-ton 1966 welding rig.

Learning Is ESP To Lasers

by JOAN KLUSMAN

Students at St. James Junior High School yesterday shook their hands, concentrated hard and rolled dice. The stakes were purely scientific.

Members of a ScienSummer enrichment program attended by pupils from 17 local schools, the pupils were testing their extra sensory perception and trying to influence the fall of the dice by thinking of a particular number.

The experiment got off to an exciting start when one girl rapidly threw four 6's during her first turn. But, unfortunately for ESP buffs, she was thinking of another number.

While the dice clinked on some laboratory tables, other blindfolded pupils tested extraocular vision and attempted to predict the color of cards scattered before them. One boy did a spectacular job but honestly admitted later that he discovered a difference in texture on some of the cards. Their textbooks told them that at least 100 tries were necessary for good results.

Before the advanced biology class adjourned, students recorded the weights of mice they have been feeding all month. The small animals serve as a testing ground for individually planned diets and to illustrate the basic rules of heredity. The mice are white, black or hairless and characteristics in their offspring are easily discernible.

The ScienSummer format, sparked last year by St. James science coordinator Jay Kreiner, is largely oriented to laboratory work. Introductory biology students check their own blood types and make permanent specimen slides. Members of the physics class make motors and use spectrometers to determine the colors coming from candlelight, sunlight and incandescent bulbs.

AN INTENSE red dot jumped around the physics room yesterday when Kreiner

introduced an optical laser to the class. Reminding the kids that the astronauts placed a laser on the moon to determine its precise distance from the earth, Kreiner placed different polarizers (similar to sunglass lenses) on the laser and asked students to predict the results.

Kreiner, who teaches all summer classes, is a young, slight man in a huge white lab coat. He is casual, calm and never raises his voice. He also commands intense student respect. Comments ranged from "he's great," to "his knowledge of science is tremendous." Most of the students, including the girls, say the summer courses are fun.

Kreiner says the boys outnumber the girls 3 to 1, most probably because "cultural conditioning" makes girls think in terms of a non-scientific future.

The one girl enrolled in physics admits she had qualms at first but now it doesn't make a bit of difference. "We all work together and I don't feel strange at all."

The program, for fifth through ninth graders, was divided into two five-week sessions and many of the students take two or three classes at the same time. Total cost per session is $20, which goes toward purchase of equipment. The $100 classroom laser, put on the market this year, was bought with tuition funds.

THERE ARE five scholarships available to students who write brief essays and submit letters of recommendation from their science teachers. Movies on scientific subjects are shown daily and any student may come early or stay late to watch the films.

Kreiner is planning more classes next summer and may include courses in radiobiology, nucleonics and aviation education. Those attending the summer sessions are given extra credits by High School Dist. 214. The younger children may use the credits when they enter high school.

The science coordinator likes working with different aged students in one room. "When you have various ages, you have to work individually with each student and they profit more from the course."

One student, however, disagrees on the age gap. On a written evaluation sheet she praised the format of the sessions and said she would definitely be back next year.

She concluded, however, that fifth through ninth grade kids shouldn't be together because "the fifth are sorta slow and the ninth know it all."

Historic Home Is in Danger of Destruction

by JAMES VESELY

A 124-year-old frame house which carries within its walls the whole history of Arlington Heights is in danger of being destroyed.

The Asa Dunton house, home of the founder of Arlington Heights, is slated to be torn down to make way for a subdivision.

The house now rests at 705 E. Hintz Road and serves as the temporary office for the developer of the Brookside subdivision.

The house was owned by the John Best-man family until about a year and a half ago, when it was purchased by the developer.

BEFORE ITS recent sale to the developer, the house was used as a family home. The Bestmans raised turkeys on the property and allowed occasional visitors to visit the historic home.

According to facts compiled by Mrs. Daisy Paddock Daniels, long-time curator of the Arlington Heights Historical Society, the house was moved to its present location in 1935.

When Asa Dunton, original planner of Arlington Heights, moved to the then wilderness of this area in 1836, he brought his wife, Lois Hawkes Dunton with him. Dunton was a stone cutter from Oswego, N.Y.

Before building their home, the Duntons found the winters so inhospitable that they had to seek refuge in the Deer Grove forests.

THE DUNTON HOME was originally built at what was to become the junction of Arlington Heights (State) Road and the railroad tracks. With the coming of the railroad, the house had to be moved. In 1905, it was placed out of the railroad right of way and stayed there until 1935 when it was moved again.

It appears that the house is now slated for demolition because no one wants it.

A spokesman for the developer said they had intended to call the Historical Society before the house was destroyed and offer the society anything in the house.

It is now somewhat in a state of disrepair and the developer reports that the floors are sagging and much of the house is neglected.

NEVERTHELESS, Mrs. Daniels for one, believes the house should be saved. "It is a beautiful old place," she said. "It has construction in there that is just irreplaceable."

The house originally had stained-glass windows and upstairs, a little platform so that the babies would not have to be near the cold floors at night.

Although he house belongs to the developers of Brookside, a spokesman said the house will be given to anyone who will pay the expense of moving it. One suggestion calls for transporting the old house to a park about one mile away, but so far there have not been any takers.

MRS. DANIELS says the Historical Society would have almost no way to raise the money necessary for the move. She is anxious, however, that someone try to save the property.

"You know," she said, "in those pioneer days, they used to tint the plaster with blue to give the houses some color. The Dunton home still has that blue in its closets. They were really starved for color in those days."

Spending To Be Cut

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, bowing to congressional pressure, announced plans to reduce military spending by $3 billion, starting with reductions in manpower and flight training, base closings and mothballing of ships.

"Regrettably, I must say that these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments," he said. Defense officials said the economy move would reduce military spending from a previously planned $80 billion to $77 billion.

Seabees Find Bodies

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss. — Seabees in gas masks found bodies "up in the trees, under the roofs and out in the open" in Mississippi yesterday and the death toll of Hurricane Camille neared 300 from the devastated Gulf Coast to the flooded mountains of Virginia.

Officials said not a single building was left habitable in the town of 2,500. Officials said they had brought looting and profiteering under control.

Lions Main Office Here?

Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect has been singled out as a possible site for a new Lions Club international headquarters, the Herald learned yesterday.

Jack Keller, president of the Arlington Heights chapter of Lions, said no decision has been made, but added that one could be expected within a week.

One Lion member said the site being considered at Old Orchard contains 42 acres. The country club itself is located at 700 W. Rand Road, Mount Prospect.

Keller, who works for FBK Realtors in Arlington Heights, said when the new site is chosen and the building is constructed, Japan will donate $100,000 to $200,000 for landscaping the property. This, he said, would serve as their contribution to the new international headquarters.

THE INTERNATIONAL GROUP sold its 100-year-old building at 209 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, but the organization's constitution demands that headquarters remain in the Chicago metropolitan area.

The old building was deemed outdated by the Lions, although 300 persons are employed there, and it was sold. There are

Longer, But Safe

by MURRAY DUBIN

It was a perfect night for a long walk. In an attempt to answer the charges of Ivy Hill and Knob Hill residents, School Dist. 25 members walked the same route last night that children will have to walk in order to get to the new Rand Junior High School.

Due to the lack of sidewalks on the east side of Arlington Heights Road, the safest way to Rand will be a roundabout, backtracking route that will lead students to an easement and crossing guard in front of St. Edna's Church.

The longest possible path began at Burke and the frontage road of Palatine Road. Parents in the area had complained that the route wasn't safe and that children would never travel the long way to school.

WALKING NORTH ON Burke, the only obstacles to a child's safety were bicycles on the sidewalk. A left turn at Appletree and a right on Douglas found the school board members on a street with no sidewalks. But the street didn't appear to be very well traveled by cars.

An unmarked street that a woman had told the school board was impassable looked bumpy but Supt. Donald Strong told the walkers that he had driven over the road.

Waverly Drive had a ditch at its intersection with Douglas and it appeared that a car would have some trouble driving over it. Strong assured everyone that some gravel could fill the ditch and that it would present no problem.

Soon the school striders were in front of St. Edna's and walking on the grass. Strong told everyone that they were no on the proposed easement that will be installed by Rand's opening.

WE WERE AT Arlington Heights Road and we crossed it, carefully and quickly. There will be a crossing guard there for the school children. But there will be no traffic light nor any flashers.

It had taken 23 minutes to walk a little more than a mile. The route is a safe one but whether a 12-year-old will go out of his way to get to school is another question.

It would be a long walk on a cold, winter morning.

TESTING THE ROUTE which they will take to Rand Junior High School in September, students on Pine Street approach St. Edna's Catholic Church. School Dist. 25 will build a sidewalk from Pine Street to Arlington Heights Road on church property and students will meet a crossing guard in front of the church. Rand is directly across the street. Some students living in Ivy Hill and Knob Hill subdivisions will have to backtrack and walk or ride extra blocks for a safe route. Parents requested free buses and school board members toured the area last night before making the final decision. Students on bikes are Jeff Daley (left), Ted Lee, Bruce Conroy, Ted Daley and Dave Sass.

Learning Center Program Set

The Diagnostic Learning Center in Arlington Heights, a beacon of hope for many area families, will introduce a pilot program in September for severely disturbed children.

The center, which usually treats children with special learning problems while they remain in regular classrooms, will work full-time with some students during the 1969-70 school year.

John Wightman, executive director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education

Organization (NSSEO), said the children participating in the new program will be over 10 years of age. "We want to give these kids one last chance to get to a point where they may profit from classroom life."

THE CURRENT RULES and regulations of the state superintendent of public instruction provide that no child may be admitted to a class of this type after his 10th birthday. Maintaining that these students were bypassed in other years because appropriate programs were unavailable, NSSEO requested permission for the special project. School Dist. 25 and the center will co-sponsor the program.

The sessions will be limited to about eight children and many center staff members will pool resources to diagnose and treat individual problems. School districts referring children to the center this year are High School Dist. 214 and elementary districts 25, 15, 23, 57, 54 and 21.

The center was set up in 1966 with federal funds applied for by School Dist. 25 to serve students from Wheeling, Elk Grove,

Village Needs Safety Guards

Arlington Heights residents have a chance to earn $1,200 working for the police department this year.

The village needs a total of 12 crossing guards for the coming school year. The individuals, men or women, will be charged with watching the crossings near local schools and assisting children through intersections on their way to and from school.

The appeal for the crossing guards comes from Sgt. Jack Weber of the Arlington Heights Police Department. Sgt. Weber said that any adult may qualify for the responsibilities of a crossing guard but that applications for the post should be made to the police department soon.

GENERALLY, THE GUARDS must be on duty between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., and for about a half hour after 3 p.m.

In addition to the $1,200 yearly salary for the guards, the police department provides uniforms and equipment and training in the traffic conditions of the corner.

Weber said the police department will make every effort to place guards near their homes, but if the distance to the crossing is too far to walk, the guards must provide their own transportation. Crossings are usually given out on a basis of seniority among the guards.

WEBER POINTED OUT that there are other advantages to the job than just the salary. A letter to former crossing guards by Chief L. W. Calderwood said, "your community needs the assistance of some dedicated people. That is what it takes to stand on a corner in any weather under the worst conditions helping the youth of our community safely across our busier streets."

Mickey Saar, now a regular employee of the Police Department knows all about that. Saar worked as a crossing guard for four years and says he still remembers some of the cold winters.

Saar said the important thing is to insure that the children understand your authority. Once that happens, the job boils down to remaining alert and getting to know the kids. "That was easy for me," Saar said. "I just like kids."

first Con-Con public forum Wednesday in the Arlington Heights VFW Hall. Tax and judicial reforms topped the list of issues that concern people about the present state constitution.

Tournament To Go 72 Hours

Arlington Heights was beating Rolling Meadows yesterday afternoon in a volleyball tournament by a score of 1017 to 738 after 18 hours of play.

The margin could be cut considerably if Rolling Meadows stages a comeback before the games end Saturday night.

Two area church youth groups are presently playing a marathon 72-hour volleyball game which began Wednesday night at 9 p.m. The tournament is a rematch after Arlington Heights Free Church Youth Fellowship beat the Meadows Baptist Church Youth Group in a 50-hour volleyball game last year.

During spring vacation, other area churches held 55-hour games and the Arlington Heights group decided to go all out this summer and play for 72 hours.

MEETING BEFORE the game started, team members discussed ground rules. There are no referees and, in order to stay in the contest, each side must have a minimum of three players.

At times, teams have had as many as 24 players on each side and have dwindled down to as few as three. The low point was reached yesterday about 11 a.m.

The marathon was "going really well. We've had only one flat volleyball," said Mark Senter, youth director of the Arlington Heights Free Evangelical church. Senter said they played with the slowly deflating ball until a new one was found.

Plans for the marathon include having special times set aside for different types of players. These include hours for girls, seniors and sophomores, parents, deacons and trustees. Another time slot is set aside where the players will all wear hats.

SINCE THE tournament is so long, the special hours were planned to help spice up the tournament, Senter said.

Most players come and go as their schedules permit. Senter said there was one player there yesterday afternoon who had stayed the whole time, getting a couple hours of sleep.

The marathon is being played in the yard adjacent to the Arlington Heights Free Evangelical Church, Dunton at St. James. Spotlights are used for night time play.

The climax to the tournament will be a performance by the South Jersey Young Americans who will appear at the church Saturday at 9 p.m.

THE YOUNG Americans are a group of 21 teenagers who banded together to present their music in many different styles, from hymns to guitar accompanied contemporary songs with a live beat.

Directed by 19-year-old Steve De George, members represent 11 different churches in the southern New Jersey area.

The public has been invited to hear the group sing-in during the 90-minute sacred concert which is planned for the whole family.

Learning Center

Schaumburg and Palatine townships. For two years, staff members took an intensive look at children who were, for no obvious reason, two years behind their expected learning level. They were failing in spite of apparently normal abilities.

LAST YEAR THE center successfully requested government permission to include a treatment program.

NSSEO is now taking over the reins of center activities under the supervision of the recently formed Northwest Educational Cooperative. The cooperative governing board is made up of one delegate from each of the 10 participating school districts. Members include high school districts 214 and 211 and their feeder elementary districts. Seven districts opted for center assistance this year.

Wightman hopes all districts will use the center's services in the future to prevent possible duplication or overlapping of programs. His future plans also include mandatory attendance by parents and classroom teachers at in-service training programs.

Sessions for both teachers and parents were scheduled in the past, but attendance was on a voluntary basis. Wightman said involvement by parents was crucial to maintain a proper environment and understanding for each child in the home. He said teachers will be released from classes to attend in-service sessions at the center.

CHILDREN WHO attended the center last year will continue to receive assistance this fall. In the future, however, Wightman hopes that each student, after initial work at the center, may be placed in an appropriate class in his own district. Those returning to regular classrooms will be equipped with materials he has worked well with at the center and a special work program mapped out for his individual use.

In this way, Wightman said, the center may serve more students and "no child will be deprived of every avenue possible in his effort to learn and use his abilities."

What'll Its Name Be?

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

To Juliet, Romeo would retain, that "dear perfection" even if he were called Oscar.

What's in a name is a different story, however, when it concerns the naming of a new high school in Rolling Meadows.

"For the first school, naming it after Rolling Meadows would be all right," said Mrs. Jack Decker, 2204 Martin Lane.

She said this would be a fine name and show pride in the community to name the school after the town.

MRS. DECKER has children who will be just at high school age when the school is scheduled to open.

The first in Rolling Meadows, the high school is scheduled to open in 1971. It will be the seventh high school in Dist. 214.

Located on Central Road the new school will be built across from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

The first reaction of Mrs. Denny Evans, 3307 Wren Lane, was to call the new school Neil Armstrong High School.

She said a high school named after the city wouldn't be too appropriate since so many others in the area are named for famous people.

"After the moon flight, it would be more appropriate to name it after them," she said. It would be nice to name it after all three, but that would be too "long and drawn out," she said.

She couldn't think of anyone else who would prefer to have the school named after, but she liked naming it after an astronaut better than naming it Rolling Meadows High School.

FOR REASONS OF community spirit, Mrs. Frances Endre, 2411 Park St., said after the city. She also said it would tell where the school is located. Mrs. Endre has a child that will be going to the high school.

Another vote for Neil Armstrong came from Mrs. Douglas French, 2704 Rohlfing Road. She thinks it should be named after a famous person and "Armstrong sounds great."

This is definitely a good choice, better than someone who was killed or is dead, she said.

Mrs. R. W. Glaser, 3500 Bobolink Lane, said she thinks the city name is more appropriate than the name of a person. "That wouldn't be bad to name it after Rolling Meadows," she said.

Preferring to have the school named after the town, she said it would better identify it by its location. Mrs. Glaser has children who she said will probably be going to the new high school.

"EACH TOWN SHOULD have a high school named after it," said Mrs. Thomas Alt, 3609 Holly Lane. She also has children of high school age, and thinks at least one school in the city should have the city's name.

"Armstrong or John Glenn sounds

IBEW Holds Brief Walkout

A small group of Illinois Bell employees participated briefly in an "unauthorized, wildcat" strike against the company Wednesday.

According to company spokesmen, the men were part of several hundred members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) employed by Bell at switch stations and plants throughout the Chicago area who walked out.

Most of the wildcat strikers are employed in Chicago, with a few dozen suburban area workers leaving their posts in scattered locations.

A company spokesman in Arlington Heights said telephone service has not been affected by the walkout.

"THE WALKOUT is in direct violation of Illinois Bell's contract with the IBEW," the spokesman said, "and is allegedly based on a charge that some beginning employees have been paid more than the standard starting wages called for in the contract."

The spokesman also quoted local IBEW chairman Robert A. Nickey saying that "This has caused complete disruption among the members and we have tried to get them back to work."

Responding to the charge that some beginning workers are paid a higher rate, Bell spokesmen said, "Yes, we do pay premium rates for applicants who have special qualifications. For example, returning Vietnam veterans having specialized military training such as electronics, or applicants with some college training, may be employed at higher rates."

Bell spokesmen said their basic starting rate is essentially for those people with a high school education and who can be trained for technical work. All workers who walked off on strike are reportedly back at their stations now.

Simon Visit Set

U.S. Gov. Paul Simon is to meet with representatives of four local organizations during a brief stop in the Northwest suburbs Sunday.

Simon will meet with representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, the advisory board of Norwestco, New Communities, Inc., and the Citizens for True Representation (CTR).

"We plan to discuss the operation of the center and the fact that the 'money collected from the 'Hike for the Hungry' match last spring has been frozen by the state," Tom Jarczyk, of Palatine, president of the CTR, said.

JARCZYK SAID THE CTR decided more than a month ago to ask Simon to visit the area after it learned that the money collected from the march had been frozen by the state.

The CTR is a newly formed group of people, mainly in the 17 to 23 age group, who are working to get more representation for youth in government.

New Communities, Inc., was formed recently to explore the possibilities of providing low-cost housing in the area.

Simon is also to attend the second annual community picnic in Bloomingdale Sunday. He is to ride in a motorcade to the picnic, sponsored by the Bloomingdale Lions Club.

Mrs. Everett Helps College Buy Track

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mrs. Marjorie Everett, president of the Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises Inc., which operates Arlington and Washington Park race tracks said Thursday she has made a cash donation to Knox College that enabled the Galesburg, Ill., school to buy Aurora Downs race track.

The purchase price for the harness racing plant in Aurora, Ill., was $2.3 million, she said.

The donation was in the form of her guarantee that Knox would have the money made available to it from her personal funds and credit, Mrs. Everett said.

"Under the terms of the gift I have the option of approximately 90 days to designate other charities to participate in this gift in the amount of approximately 50 percent of the purchase price," she said.

Mrs. Everett said she made the donation because of her "deep dedication and belief in Illinois racing and in Illinois education and my great desire to utilize much of my personal estate to benefit the people of this state."

2 Men Attack Policeman

An off-duty Arlington Heights policeman sustained a fractured jaw and multiple cuts and bruises early Thursday after being attacked by two men outside Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Road in unincorporated Arlington Heights.

Patrolman Charles Pederson was attacked in the restaurant parking lot shortly after 3 a.m. by two men, who knocked the 34-year-old man to the ground and repeatedly kicked him, according to Cook County sheriff's police.

Charged with aggravated battery were Kenneth Staples, 29, and Frank Krantz, 25, both of Lake Zurich.

SHERIFF'S POLICE said Pederson left the restaurant with the two men following him outside. They made some remarks to Pederson, according to police, then jumped him.

Pederson was treated at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Another man, James Noland, 21, of 1050 E. Whiteoak, Arlington Heights, apparently tried to aid Pederson by firing several shots from his pistol into the air. All he got out of it was a charge of unlawful use of a weapon.

Lions Main Office Here?

approximately one million Lions in the world, according to one source.

Executive administrator John Vogt said Wednesday that four sites are being studied by a special committee and that final selection by the international board of directors is imminent.

The new headquarters must be completed by July, 1971, when the Lions are slated to vacate their present offices.

General Counsel Roy Schaeffer said designs for the new building will be hashed out soon with the architects.

INTERNATIONAL Headquarters coordinate Lions Club activities throughout the world and are usually included in the convention schedule.

The group rotates conventions and met in Chicago in 1967, Dallas in 1968 and Tokyo last month. Atlantic City, N.J., is slated for next year's session.

Pledged to take an active interest in civic, social and moral welfare of the community, Lions Club members work and contribute to the blind and retarded.

Committees include education and youth exchange, citizenship and health and welfare.

Voter Registration Deadline is Today

Betty Revard, Arlington Heights village clerk, reminded Arlington Heights residents that her office will be open until 7 p.m. tonight to take voter registrations.

Today is the deadline for residents to register to vote in the October primaries and the November final elections for Con-Con delegates and the 13th Congressional District representative.

A GRIM REMINDER was found pasted to an inside wall of the demolished camper-trailer.

Trailer Blast Burns Woman

A Des Plaines woman sustained serious burns Thursday morning in a camper-trailer when a gas-operated refrigerator exploded in her face behind her home at 760 Algonquin Road.

Margaret Falkenberg, 54, was treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for first and second degree burns on her arms, leg and back.

Cook County sheriff's police said Mrs. Falkenberg and her husband, Harry, were preparing the trailer for a vacation trip planned for this weekend.

MRS. FALKENBERG entered the trailer, which was behind the Birchwood Terrace Apartments, and was stocking the refrigerator with food and other necessities for the trip.

Police said she apparently accidentally pushed a valve, setting off the explosion, which occurred at about 9 a.m. Her husband had set up the apparatus the night before, according to police.

An official at the hospital reported the incident to sheriff's police. They said Mrs. Falkenberg was driven to the hospital by a cousin.

A PARTOLMAN went to the hospital and talked with the victim. He said she related the details of the accident to him.

She said her husband was away in Chicago for various meetings before the trip. He was later notified.

Vandalism Low in Dist. 59

Vandalism in Dist. 59 schools is low this year, but the "run-of-the-mill window breaking" has still taken its toll.

Donald DeBiase, Dist. 59 building and grounds director, reported that there has been "no real vandalism" at the schools this summer other than the window breaking.

Dist. 59 covers 20 elementary and junior high schools in Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and Des Plaines.

"Window breaking usually increases in the summer, going down to practically nothing in the winter," DeBiase explained.

He reported approximately 38 windows were broken in June, with 61 in the first 21 days of July. Although almost half of the damage has been done in Elk Grove Village, 10 of the 20 schools are in that area.

The highest amount of windows broken in one night was at Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect with 16. This school seems to be hit more than others, according to DeBiase.

"Most of the damage has done after midnight, which would indicate that older students are responsible," DeBiase said.

"A lot of the problem seems to stem from the fact that the school grounds are used for lovers lanes late at night. The areas are patrolled, but since the trouble doesn't occur every night we can't sit and wait for it."

"We've never caught anybody," DeBiase said.

Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village and Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights were the only schools to escape damage in the first two summer months.

"The amount of damage depends on the neighborhood a lot," DeBiase said. Other factors are the amount of time the school is open in the summer and the ability of the principals to control the vandalism, he said.

When the windows are repaired they are replaced with plastic windows. DeBiase explained that at the rate they are being broken, they'll all be plastic soon and eventually the problem of vandalism in the area of broken windows will lessen.

The grounds crew is now about 50 windows behind in repairs, it was reported. "The surge of damage in the summer and the amount of time required for ordering and delivering the plastic windows accounts for us being behind," DeBiase explained. About five or 10 windows a day are repaired.

Although damage to windows this summer is about normal, DeBiase said it's a light summer otherwise. "In past years there has been a lot of construction damage which we haven't had this year."

LARGE QUANTITY ECONOMY IS SOMETIMES UNWISE

Sometimes what seems like a bargain — such as a 1,000 tablet bottle of a medicine can prove to be more expensive. Many drugs naturally deteriorate in time, even aspirin. Long before they are used up they could lose potency. Certain medicines have special storage requirements to insure potency and stability. We can advise you.

We suggest you buy only what you will need for normal use. However, if you have a chronic illness or other need for continuing use of medicines, your doctor can prescribe larger quantities which could save you money. We can supply them if your doctor approves.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.
